President Johnson Plans Parley To Plan Anti-Price Rise Drive

No Change In Soviet Position

MOSCOW - Foreign minister Andrei A. Gromyko said today the first condition for any progress in solving the Viet Nam problem was a halt to U.S. bombing of North Viet Nam, British sources reported.

Gromyko met with visiting British Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart. They discussed Viet Nam for 35 minutes at the end of a meeting that lasted 2 hours and 45 minutes.

Gromyko did not say what would, in the Soviet view, come after a halt in the bombing. But he added that the Soviet Union fully supports the points for a Viet Nam settlement put forward by North Viet Nam last April, the sources added.

They include a complete American withdrawal to leave Vietnamese problems for local settlement. Washington has said it will not abandon South Viet Nam.

Gromyko said the Soviet Union has no authority to negotiate on Viet Nam.

These points are all viewed as a restatement of the Soviet stand on Viet Nam. Stewart planned to discuss the subject with Gromyko after dinner tonight to see if anything new could be discovered.

Wage-Hour Suit Filed

ST. LOUIS -- Violation of the overtime pay and other provisions of the fair labor standards act by two Sikeston firms and the president of each was charged in a civil injunction suit on file today in U.S. district court.

Pyramid Roofing Co., and Stoner Contracting Co., Inc., both of 114 Branum, and Lucien M. Stoner, 714 Lanning St., in Sikeston, were named in a complaint filed by Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz.

It accused the three of failure to pay some of their employes the required time and a half for overtime, now required after 40 hours per work week. Failure to maintain required time and pay records also was charged.

Jack R. Younce, supervisor of the labor department's wage-hour office, said there were previous investigations in 1958, 1959, 1961 and 1964.

Each time, he said, requirements of the law were explained to Stoner, who promised future compliance.

Olin East Alton Plant Struck

EAST ALTON, Ill. AP -- About 3,900 machinists struck the Olin Mathieson Chemical Corp. plant here today.

The strike will affect production of several types of Army cartridges and mortar shells. Pickets were set up at all 13 entrances.

Twitty Says Education Pays Off

Supt. of Schools Lynn Twitty told how education pays off in dollars and cents in an address to the Kiwanis club at the Holiday Inn Tuesday night.

He said that the average college graduate, during the productive years of his life, would make $244,000 more money than the average earnings made by graduates of the eighth grade and that college graduates would more than double the earnings of the average high school graduate.

Good citizenship is another dividend. A recent study showed that 91 per cent of college graduates in an area voted, where only 50 per cent of the other citizens voted, Twitty reported.

Army rejections were mentioned and the percentage rejected ranged from 12.3 percent in states with a high level of education to 34.9 per cent in states showing a low level, Twitty reported.

In discussing the costs of education, he mentioned that district R6 last year spent a total of $2,200,000 on its educational program, but that only $605,000 of this sum came to the board of education in direct taxes. The balance, $1,595,000.00, came from government allotments for the vocational educational program, tuition and other sources.

He called attention to the fact that the annual cost per student in the Sikeston district totaled $361, lowest in the County and which is about $200 less than the average cost per student throughout the United States.

Don Agnew, cashier of the Security National Bank was inducted into membership by Past Kiwanis President Harold Hill. Ruel Gatewood and Roger Sherman, joint chairmen of the Christmas tree sales drive, explained plans for Christmas tree sales on Saturday afternoon from 1 p.m. to 4:30 p.m.

This will be a house to house sale, with 20 Kiwanis members manning eight trucks loaded with Christmas trees. John Donoho, chairman of the annual fruit cake sale, reported that more than 80 per cent of the cakes are sold.

Doctors Look At Spacemen

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The Gemini 7 and 6 astronauts had a five-hour appointment with the doctors today to make certain they are physically and mentally fit for their doubleheader space launching.

For the Gemini 7 crew, Air Force Lt. Col. Frank Borman and Navy Cmdr. James A. Lovell Jr., it was the final major check before they ride a Titan 2 rocket into the sky Saturday to kick off the twin shot. Scheduled blastoff time for the 14-day endurance mission is 2:30 p.m.

The Gemini 6 astronauts, Navy Cmdr. Walter M. Schirra Jr. and Air Force Maj. Thomas P. Stafford, undergo a less extensive exam. They will have a final physical three days before the scheduled Dec. 13 liftoff of their two-day flight.

The two spacecraft are to rendezvous, perhaps within a few inches, in what would be an historic space feat.

The first Gemini 7 weather report issued today forecast satisfactory conditions in the Cape Kennedy area Saturday, with a cloud ceiling of 3,000 feet, winds 9 to 17 miles an hour, seas 2 to 3 feet and 70 degrees temperatures.

Marine Raps Viet Cong Flag Bearers

WASHINGTON - Marine commandant Gen. Wallace M. Greene has blistered Americans who carry the Communist Viet Cong flag.

"Obviously," he said Tuesday, "the display of an enemy flag alongside our own flag in the capital of our country in front of the White House, is an insult to every American, living and dead."

Greene told a news conference he went personally last Saturday to watch a Washington demonstration where thousands objected to administration policy in Viet Nam.

The march included some who carried the Viet Cong flag.

Cost Of Living Is Concern

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP) -- President Johnson, concerned about record living costs rising at a close-to-inflation rate, plans an early meeting with key economic advisers to map a federal campaign against further hikes in price tags.

Johnson is expected to meet within the next week or 10 days, either at his ranch home near here or in Washington, with what he terms his economic "quadriad" — Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler, Budget Director Charles L. Schultze, Chairman William McChesney Martin of the Federal Reserve Board and Chairman Gardner Ackley of his Council of Economic Advisers.

When it occurs, the session probably will be labeled a routine, periodic meeting of the group which, before Johnson's Oct. 8 surgery, got together with him at the White House about once every six weeks.

One reason for passing off such a conference in routine fashion — at least in advance — could be the potential impact on financial markets for stocks, bonds and, equally important, for money.

The "money markets" determine short-term borrowing costs that affect everyone from big industrialists to householders buying a new refrigerator on installment credit.

The Labor Department announced Tuesday in Washington that living costs rose by two-tenths of one per cent in October to an historic peak. The increase, the most rapid in some five years, nudged the upper limits of what the government deems noninflationary. However, federal official avoided the scare word "inflation."

Johnson's concern about a possible new wage-price spiral, born of a significant boost in federal spending to finance the war in Viet Nam, has been evident for months.

Directory Work Begins

Work will start this weekend on a new city directory for Sikeston, under the supervision of Heber K. Wells, canvass manager for the Mullin-Kille Co., Chillicothe, Ohio.

The directory is approved by the Sikeston Chamber of Commerce. It is scheduled to be completed within a month to six weeks.

Residents are being employed for the house to house canvass. Each enumerator will carry identification cards.

If no one is at home a slip will be left at the door requesting that the information be called in.

The directory will contain five sections - a classified buyers' guide, a numerical telephone guide, a street guide that lists homes and businesses on each street, an alphabetical list, and a historical preface.

The alphabetical list will include residents over 18 years of age, showing marital status, number of minor children, home ownership, occupation, home

United Fund At 90 Per Cent Of Goal

The United Fund in Sikeston has reached 90 per cent of its goal with $35,010 of $38,900 pledged.

A one-week effort will be made to close the drive no later than Tuesday.

To conclude the drive a telethon will be held Monday at 5:30 p.m. at the Daily Standard office to contact those who have not been seen.

Pledges will be taken by telephone.

Firms which have not completed their solicitation, are asked to do so by Mrs. Jewel Allen, secretary.

The 100 per cent contributors this week are Sikeston Housing Authorities, Heisserer Prescription Shop, Howle Sewing Center, Steward Steel Co., Welsh Funeral Home, and Lewis Furniture Company.

The fund support the Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, city welfare, Missouri Delta Community Hospital, Red Cross, Salvation Army, Civil Air Patrol and the United Service Organizations.

Two Emergency Patients Treated

The Missouri Delta Community hospital received two emergency patients yesterday:

Jerry Hicks, treated for burns and Michael Nelson, injured finger at school.

Baker Blasts Graham

Rep. Tom Baker, Stoddard county Democrat, today called the tactics of Speaker of the House Tom Graham "a disgrace."

He commented on Graham's allure to include any Southeast Missouri representatives on state legislative interim committees.

The Southeast Missouri legislators supported the Missouri re-districting program of Gov. Warren E. Hearnes, which was bitterly opposed by Speaker Graham.

"I have been a member of the Missouri House of Representatives since January, 1961," Baker said. "During this time it has been my observation that the tactics employed by Tom Graham, speaker of the body, has been a disgrace to our legislative process.

"It has been my further observation that Mr. Graham has operated the office of Speaker of the House of Representatives for personal profit. If Speaker Graham feels that he is libeled by this statement, he has every right to sue me for damages, and I will meet him in court and make him reveal his earnings for the four years before he became speaker, and for the past four years while serving as speaker of the house of representatives, as proof of my charges."

Congressmen on Record Number of Junkets

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senators and representatives seem on their way toward establishing a record for globe-girdling travels during the congressional recess.

The bill for this year's overseas missions will not be known until sometime in March when all of the itemized accounts are turned in and published in the Congressional Record.

But it is expected to exceed by far the $396,876.65 spent in House members and $157,575.30 for expenses of senators.

On the whole, congressmen on missions for House and Senate committees can charge the government for their official expenses. But many say they pay their own way, including travel by commercial airliner, hotel bills and the like.

All are supposed to pay for entertainment, such as visits to theaters and night clubs. In most cases they are supposed to pay for their wives if they take them along.

The bulk of the overseas spending is covered by the use of so-called counterpart funds, or U.S.-owned currencies which have accumulated largely when surplus farm commodities are sold under the Food for Peace program for local currency rather than U.S. dollars.

The purpose of the trips include inspection of military installations, investigation of how the foreign aid program is being run, attendance at international conferences, checking into peace prospects in Viet Nam and inspection of how the Alliance for Progress program is operating in Latin America.

7th Fleet Commander Is Carrier-Bomber Expert

WASHINGTON (AP) — The man picked by President Johnson as the new commander of the 7th Fleet is a carrier-bomber expert whose planes provide a hefty punch for U.S. forces in Viet Nam.

For Rear Adm. John J. Hyland, the 53-year-old soft-spoken, balding Navy air eagle selected over the heads of 57 senior rear admirals, the job means a return to a familiar station. But this time as skipper.

"The President has said we are absolutely determined to win this war," he said Tuesday night after the announcement of his appointment.

"I'm darn sure the 7th Fleet is going to take full part."

Hyland is a one-time Naval Academy swimmer who found it more fun to fly and did it in World War II with an abandon that brought him a fist full of citations and a chest full of medals.

It also brought him at the end of the war the job of coordinating carrier-based bombings of the Japanese home islands.

This experience may be a prime reason the President reached deep into the ranks of Navy flag officers — Hyland is 111th on the seniority list — for a successor to Vice Adm. Paul J. Blackburn, who is ill in Japan.

The new commander plans to leave Friday for Hawaii and conferences at Pacific Command headquarters, then to Japan and then to his flagship, the cruiser Oklahoma City. He will get his third star, and a recess appointment as vice admiral.

Shoplifting Grows Fast

WASHINGTON (AP) — With just 19 shopping days until Christmas, the FBI reported today that shoplifting is the nation's fastest-growing form of larceny, having increased 93 per cent in the past five years.

Police last year recorded 184,473 shoplifting cases involving stolen goods worth almost $5 million.

Most shoplifters are women, the FBI said, "probably because of the ease with which the female shoplifter can conceal stolen articles on and around her person."

The FBI's legal term for shoplifting is "stealing." To fit that description, the culprit must take merchandise from a store during business hours and carry it away with the intention of theft.

Professional shoplifters steal for profit with the intention of reselling the merchandise, the FBI said.

"Usually with little income or means of support, he or she makes it his vocation, primarily working in department stores and specialty shops, though spreading his talent around where it will do the most good."

The professional prefers suburban stores over downtown stores because there is apt to be less security in the outlying establishments.

He often trains accomplices and works in pairs or threesomes, assigning one to distract the attention of the sales-person while the other helps himself to loot from the counters.

Among the amateur shoplifters are housewives, persons with small incomes and juveniles of both sexes.

"They steal for several reasons," the FBI said, "real or imaginary hardship, personal need, an opportunity presenting itself, inability to resist temptation, or — especially with juveniles — for the thrill involved."

Housewives, who sometimes steal because of their small budgets, often take wearing apparel and food and sometimes use their children as accomplices, bawling them out for dishonesty if they are caught in the act.

KHRIS WOLFERDING, center, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Wolferding, 402 Broadway, was presented a key ring for safe driving yesterday at the police station by Mrs. Ralph Carroll, chairman of the civic participation committee of the Business and Professional Women's club. Farm Programs' End Seen

WASHINGTON (AP) — James G. Patton, retiring president of the National Farmers Union and a militant battler for strong government farm aid, predicted today the end of big federal agricultural programs.

"I believe that we have seen the last of legislation authorizing government programs to stabilize farm commodity prices and supplies," Patton said in an interview. He referred to the 4-year farm bill enacted this year which authorizes broadened government payments to supplement farm income.

Patton said he foresees the day when farmers will be able to go it alone with little or no subsidies or government assistance.

"In time farmers will be able to bargain effectively for adequate and stabilized prices for their products," he said.

Patton predicted that farm bargaining will be carried on by cooperatives able to control sufficient supplies to obtain farm returns which no longer would need to be supplemented, as now is the case for some commodities, by government payments. Patton and former Secretary of Agriculture Charles F. Brannan, now general counsel of the Farmers Union, have been strong advocates of payment programs.

A rival farm organization, the American Farm Bureau Federation, long has fought government farm programs. It has been promoting farm bargaining cooperatives.

Patton made it clear, however, that he has no intention of retiring as a farm leader, although he said that under no circumstances would he accept a new term when his present one expires in March. He has headed the Farmers Union for 25 years.

He said he expects to devote his time to international agricultural development, the promotion of the farm bargaining cooperative movement, the establishment of a broad American food-for-peace program, the creation of a world land bank offering easy credit to poor farmers, and the promotion of programs to end poverty wherever it might exist in this country.

"It behooves farmers, their leaders and their organizations," he said, "to search for means by which they themselves can obtain a high degree of farm commodity supply management and marketing through programs operated by cooperatives. Such cooperatives should include retail food chains and should be open to consumers as well as farmers for membership.

"Unless farmers promote such cooperatives," he added, "the alternative might well be eventual control of food production and distribution by big business organizations including chain stores."

Thomas Gilstrap New Collector Of Revenue

JEFFERSON CITY AP -- Thomas C. Gilstrap, 55, took over as state collector of revenue today.

His appointment was announced Tuesday by Thomas David, director of revenue. He succeeds Al S. Arenson, who is retiring.

For the past year Gilstrap has been executive secretary of the Missouri Boat Commission. Before that he was administrative assistant when Gov. Warren E. Hearnes was secretary of state.

A native of Bevier, he formerly was secretary to the late Sen. Thomas C. Hennings Jr. and to former Congressmen M. A. Romjue and Clare Magee.

State Farmers Pocket More

WASHINGTON -- Missouri farmers pocketed $50 million more in farm marketing receipts the first nine months of this year than they did during the same period in 1964, Agriculture Department figures show.

Sales of livestock and livestock products up to Oct. 1 came to $570,784,000, and sales of crops amounted to $189,946,000, for a total of $760,730,000.

As of Oct. 1, 1964, cash receipts from livestock and livestock products were $518,640,000 and $192,056,000 from crop sales for a total of $710,696,000.

U.S. Hardens Policy on Disposal of Surplus Food

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has hardened its policy on the disposal of surplus food, largely due to dwindling reserves of wheat stocks and other edibles and a mounting supply of foreign currency that cannot be used.

U.S. authorities, making this known today, said the new policy will affect India, Pakistan, the United Arab Republic and about seven other countries designated as currency-excess countries by the U.S. Treasury. The designation means the United States has accumulated far more local currency from those countries than it can possibly use in the immediate future.

The new policy, already in progress, is to receive virtually all payments later in dollars rather than in rupees and dinars. Among the other excess currency countries are Ceylon, Burma, Guinea, Israel, Poland, Tunisia and Yugoslavia.

Coming under this policy will be the proposed sale of $55 million worth of food to the United Arab Republic. The State Department announced Tuesday that President Johnson had approved such a sale and that talks would open in Cairo within two weeks on the terms.

According to the State Department, part of the cost will be payable in dollars, the rest in Egyptian currency. The policy governing currency-excess countries permits the President to waive the dollars-only restriction when he finds it to be in the national interest.

Airlifts From Cuba Begin

MIAMI, Fla. AP -- Cuban refugees start streaming into the United States today in one of the most extensive airlifts of its kind in history.

The first airliner in the scheduled daily movement was expected to land in Miami shortly before noon today with 93 Cubans.

Scheduled for departure for Cuba at 7 a.m., the plane finally took off at 8:12 a.m. after navigational equipment was replaced.

Between 800 and 1,000 refugees are expected weekly starting next week. The air lift, the product of negotiations between the U. S. and Cuban governments, is to continue indefinitely. Most of the exiles are to be transferred to cities throughout the nation.

One flight daily is expected this week and two flights daily after that.

459 Toll in Viet Combat

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — The destruction of South Viet Nam's 7th Regiment in savage fighting Saturday raised the Vietnamese weekly combat dead to 459, the government's second-highest toll of the war, a U.S. military spokesman announced today.

Another 185 government soldiers were missing in action and 861 were wounded, the spokesman said.

The number of American dead dropped to 40 in the week ending last Saturday, the spokesman said. This compared with 240 Americans killed the previous week, the biggest U.S. casualty list since the United States began sending troops to Viet Nam nearly five years ago.

In addition, 117 Americans were wounded and five were missing. More than 1,300 Americans have been killed in the Viet Nam combat.

The U.S. toll last week was also far below the 70 and 86 Americans killed in the first two weeks of November.

No U.S. units engaged Communist forces of any size during the week, while the Viet Cong made at least two and possibly three regiment-sized attacks on Vietnamese units. Five other Communist attacks were of battalion size and four were of company size.

The spokesman said 1,539 Viet Cong were killed during the week, giving U.S. and government troops a favorable kill ratio of 3 to 1.

Britain Willing To Fight

LONDON - Britain will fight to protect the flow of power from the Kariba power plant in rebellious Rhodesia to the copper mines of neighboring Zambia, Prime Minister Wilson declared today.

While the white government of Rhodesia has said it has no intention of cutting off the power, Wilson told a packed House of Commons that Britain will take whatever action is necessary to protect the flow of electricity from the Kariba plant on the Zambian-Rhodesian border.

"If that did mean a limited military operation -- we should be prepared to take that operation," he said.

U.S. Keeps Nuclear Control

OTTAWA (AP) — Canadian officials said today the U. S. nuclear bombs on planes of other Atlantic Alliance nations are nothing more than tin cans until U. S. teams arm them on instructions from the U.S. President.

They said nuclear bombs are slung under a certain number of Canadian and West German F104 Starfighter jets in West Germany when the planes are on what is known as "quick action alert."

The bombs are useless until they are armed with various secret mechanical and electronic devices which can be operated only by the U. S. custody team and the U. S. nuclear officer, the officials said.

In addition, the planes are guarded by armed U.S. sentries in "pens" behind closed doors, they said. The pilots stay near the planes but not in them.

The planes do not take off unless war starts, whether the bombs are armed or unarmed, the officials said. The alert is to prevent the planes being destroyed on the ground.

The Canadian sources said the same arrangements apply to West Germany, the Netherlands, Belgium and other North Atlantic Treaty Organization countries that have bilateral nuclear agreements with the United States.

New uneasiness about U.S. nuclear warheads in Europe was touched off by a Washington dispatch in the New York Times Nov. 21 which said that the warheads have been mounted secretly on planes and missiles of West Germany and other NATO allies.

Marston Boy Top Orator

LILBOURN--James Crumley, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Huie Crumley of Marston was declared the winner of high school's annual American Legion oratorical contest. He won over eight other students.

Crumley, a senior, chose as his topic "Our Constitution, Worth Having, Worth Defending." His oration was a five-minute, original composition.

Crumley will represent his school in the New Madrid county contest. He will use the same speech, and in addition, he will be required to speak extemporanously on one phase of the constitution.

Judges for the high school contest were Mrs. Ralph Hubbard, Lowell Fish, and Jimmy Dambach.

Four Members of Family Injured

Four members of a family riding in a car were injured when the vehicle crashed into a truck, on highway 67, five miles north of Poplar Bluff at 8:15 a.m. Tuesday.

A GMC truck, driven by Raymond E. Towner, 60, Poplar Bluff, attempted to make a left turn into his driveway, when he was struck by a 1964 Chevrolet, driven by Loren Gray, 30, East St. Louis, Ill.

The state patrol reported that neither driver saw the other vehicle in time to avoid the accident.

Injured were Mrs. Gray, 27, left shoulder injury; Debra Gray, 9, cuts and bruises on head; Ricky Gray 7, chest injury; Tammy Gray, 4, bruises on head.

The injured were taken to a Poplar Bluff hospital.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

Wednesday, December 1 Gubernatorial election winner, Ed Graft, promises to be a good gubernator.

* * *

The death of Henry Wallace and all of the glowing tributes published by the newspapers brings to mind the actions of the Democratic National Convention.

All Southeast Missourians remember well the impassioned speech of our friend and neighbor J. V. Conran winding up with "give us anybody but Henry Agard Wallace."

The next morning at the Harris Drug Store we were all gathered around the coffee table with cup in hand and all delivering the funeral oration of the Democratic Party with him on the ticket.

Then in walks Postmaster Pleas Malcolm. He listened awhile and made the following statement. "Boys! I like him right now. I am not like the rest of you. Like him just before voting time. I like him right now."

That's why "Cousin Pleas" is still our friendly affable, confident Postmaster in 1965.

NEW YORK STATE RECONSIDERS DIVORCE

AS EARLY as 1869 the New York Times was inveighing against the trade in procurement of divorce by means of fraud and perjury. Grounds for divorce in the state have been limited to adultery since the state's first general divorce law was enacted in 1787. Now the chairman of a joint legislative committee, State Sen. Jerome L. Wilson (D), promises that a "modern matrimonial statute" will be introduced at the 1966 session of the legislature.

The Joint Legislative Committee on Matrimonial and Family Laws was created in 1956 but up until June of this year was limited to procedural aspects of the state law. In a resolution adopted last summer the legislature gave the group power to study and recommend changes, citing "widespread fraud, collusion, and perjury in matrimonial actions and proceedings."

The committee has been holding hearings throughout the state. It must report back to the legislature by Dec. 15.

THE MERE FACT that hearings have not aroused a storm of controversy gives some reason to believe that a change in the New York law is achievable, if by no means certain. Prof. Nelson Blake, a historian at Syracuse University, told the committee on Oct. 27 that "the elements that have wanted to oppose change, it seems to me, are not fighting it as obviously and vigorously as they have sometimes in the past."

"I was hoping you'd tell us not to be afraid," Assemblyman P. E. Sutton, a Democrat who represents a central Harlem district, replied. "But you are just telling us to be brave."

THE NEW YORK divorce law is the harshest in the nation. The U.S. Constitution was adopted in the same year as the New York law; it has been amended more than a score of times in 178 years, but the New York law remains unchanged.

Until this June the legislature repeatedly had refused to make even a study of the substance of the law. When the operative resolution went through in June, the Times observed: "Whatever brought it about, we congratulate the legislature for a noteworthy and historic achievement."

The committee is now analyzing statements from nearly 100 experts who presented religious, sociological, and legal lines of argument at hearings in New York City, Albany, and Buffalo. A Roman Catholic jurist, Supreme Court Justice William D. Lawless of Erie County, advocated additional grounds for divorce which may well be accepted by Catholic diocesan officials. "The issue," Judge Lawless said, "is whether to broaden our grounds for civil divorce to include mental cruelty, physcial cruelty, and desertion. I believe that we should reject mental cruelty but accept physical cruelty and desertion."

Proponents of a liberalization of the state law are led by the Association of the Bar of the City of New York. The lawyers let it be known that legislators who tried to block the reform plan again would meet with opposition at election time.

Whatever action the legislature takes, the draft bill the committee is preparing is sure to provide against easy or "quickie" divorce. At a time when control in Albany is neatly divided between Republicans and Democrats the outlook for compromise is roseate if not actually bright.

SNOW, BEAUTIFUL SNOW

Deceptively innocent looking, like the legendary Lorelei, snow goes on luring men to their doom, season after season.

The occasional devastating avalanche is the most dramatic manifestation of snow's power to do harm. But even more insidious, the Missouri Heart Association warns, may be its fluffy white blankets and drifts, lying beautifully passive where they fell on your driveway and walks. Just asking to be shoveled away.

And the middle - aged sedentary American householder, bestirring himself from his cozy hearth to heft his trusty shovel and have a go at the stuff, may be asking for trouble.

Because each season a heavy snowfall is followed by flurries of heart attack deaths due to overexertion, the Minnesota Heart Association's Work Evaluation Unit conducted a three-minute test of the effects of snow shoveling on the heart. Eleven volunteers, ranging in age from 45 to 75, were cleared for the test after preliminary heart examinations. Five of the eleven had recovered from mild heart attacks.

The subjects attacked a thick bank of snow one cold morning -- the thermometer registered 14 degrees below zero -- with electrodes taped to their chests and connected to tiny radio transmitters in their belts. The strain on their hearts was recorded by an electrocardiograph machine in a nearby building monitored by a group of physicians. Two of the volunteers had to be stopped after one minute because the ECG showed their hearts were not getting enough oxygen.

For men in this age group the Missouri Heart Association advises:

If you have heart disease, don't shovel snow without your doctor's approval.

If you are over 40 and healthy, you may shovel, but take it easy. Snow-shoveling is strenuous exercise, and can kick back at the heart of a person who is unaccustomed to regular physical activity. Cold weather intensifies the strain on the heart.

It's better to shovel before eating or wait an hour after eating, as you should for most vigorous exercise. And don't smoke while working; tobacco causes constriction of the blood vessels, just as cold air does. The combination can be dangerous.

Never shovel to the point of exhaustion. Don't let the invigorating air or a warming shot of whisky fool you.

Dress warmly in loose, comfortable heavy clothing, muffling ears and throat, keeping hands and feet dry.

When you shovel, lift with your entire body (each shovelful of dry snow weighs four pounds plus the weight of the shovel; wet snow is much heavier). Let your back and leg muscles take some of the strain off your arms.

If you become breathless, rest until breathing is easy. If you feel a tightness in the chest, quit.

Last, and probably the best word of advice: hire the neighbor's boy to do the job for you.

The voluptuous blonde was chatting with her handsome escort in a posh restaurant when their waiter, stumbling as he brought their drinks, dumped a martini on the rocks down the back of the blonde's dress. She sprang to her feet with a shriek, dashed wildly around the table, then galloped wriggling from the room followed by her distraught boyfriend. A man seated on the other side of the room with a date of his own beckoned to the waiter and said, "We'll have two of whatever she was drinking."

ODD ITEMS : Diminishing Mankind -- Did you know that you shrink one-quarter of an inch every ten years after reaching the age of 40? . . . Grooming Note - A man's fingernails should be rounded to conform with the shape of his fingertips. Long pointed nails and short stubby ones are undesirable . . . Historical - The oddest shoe during the Renaissance was the "Duckbill," which had a toe nine inches wide! Another was the "Crakow," which had a point so long it had to be chained to the knee! . . . From the Mail Bag -- "For an evening at theatre, or dinner at a good restaurant, is it all right to wear a dark suit and a black bowtie? Looks like a tuxedo -- from a distance." It's certainly not all right! Wear the suit and a regular four-in-hand tie. If the affair is formal, then wear a tuxedo.

Mrs. Jones answered a very faint knock on her front door. A little fellow about six years of age was standing there. "Please, Mrs. Jones, could I have my arrow?" he asked.

"Certainly, replied a somewhat bewildered Mrs. Jones. "Where is it?"

"I think it's stuck in your cat."

IMAGINARY NEED

Groups seeking to establish a special federal agency to watch out for the interests of consumers must know very little about either the function of government or the competitive enterprise system, which serves consumers so well.

In the first place, government in the United States is organized to represent the interests of the people, all of whom are consumers. The Department of Agriculture, the Federal Trade Commission, the Food and Drug Administration and all the established administrative and regulatory agencies have the specific duty and the power to look after the public or consumer's interest.

The Justice Department stands ready to prosecute those accused of violating the law. Unless government itself has gone off the track and lost sight of its purpose there should be no need for another agency superimposed on all the rest to look after consumer affairs.

What is overlooked in new bureau promotion is the fact that the consumer's greatest protection lies in the very structure of our competitive economic system. Every item that a family buys from a home to hairpins is offered by a variety of competing suppliers. Go in to buy a small appliance -- for example, an electric mixer. There will be a dozen different makes and models of varying prices, colors, designs, and capabilities. There is last year's model for the bargain hunter. Any company producing an inferior mixer or selling it at a price too high in comparison with similar machines would not stay in business long.

Profit margins at the retail level are held to the minimum by keen competition, ranging down to the little more than one per cent in many cases.

If there is one thing consumers, who are also taxpayers, don't need, it is the cost of paying for another multi-thousand employee government bureau organized to take care of a problem that doesn't exist.

Overheard at a local before-dinner party: "So you met your wife at a dance. I'll bet it was romantic."

"Not exactly," was the reply. "I thought she was home taking care of the kids."

A bishop advised a politician to go out into the rain and lift his head heavenward. "It will bring a revelation to you," the old bishop promised.

Next day the politician reported: "I followed your advice and no revelation came. The water poured down my neck and I felt like a fool."

"Well," said the bishop, "isn't that quite a revelation for the first try?"

H. L. Hunt Says

DEDICATION TO FREEDOM

Many Americans today believe that the best course in life is to "go along to get along." But history would have been written quite differently for the past two centuries, had the American colonists believed in and followed this course.

If ever compromise and abdication of responsibility were the easy road, they were in 1776. A powerful and stubborn King George III was in control of all commerce of the colonies.

The colonists knew that the adoption of a Declaration of Independence would place in jeopardy the homes and land and businesses of everyone who subscribed to it. The signers knew that they, most of all, were risking everything for their convictions.

John Adams of Massachusetts said, on signing the Declaration: "We may not live to the time when this Declaration shall be made good. We may die; die colonists; die slaves; die, it may be, ignominiously and on the scaffold." Then he added, "Be it so."

What terrible oppression prompted such dedication to freedom? As Senator Strom Thurmond has pointed out, King George did control markets, "but he did not, as the government now does, or seeks to do, regulate whom the merchant could and could not hire, the wages to be paid, or tell the worker to which organizations he must belong and pay dues as a condition of employment." The Senator added that the King also did not seek to control who lived in what neighborhood, or the schools of the colonists' children.

Our forebears endured the hardships of the American Revolution to save us from a lesser tyranny, in some respects, than we now seem willing to pass on to our descendants. HLH

Doc. Duncan Says

See by the paper our good lawmaker Jones called a meeting at Thayer Mo on that Ozark Rivers Caper, 800 present. One Big Bug called attention to water-shed timber and wildlife and recommended multiple development of the resources. If anyone in anyway mentioned the multi million dollar oil and mineral resources undground the press failed to hear it or report it.

The attitude of the medical profession toward the medical problems of the aged and the indigent has been gravely misinterpreted. There is a widespread feeling, without the slightest factual base, that this profession is indifferent to those who are in need and without adequate funds, and that, for instance, the opposition to the Medicare plan is proof of it.

The actual case was made clear by Dr. Ernest B. Howard of the American Medical Association, in a talk he made in Portland, Oregon some little time ago. He stressed that the federal government should aid those who are truly in need -- but he stressed also that those who are able to should take care of themselves. He estimated that the indigent population, which is entitled to government aid, totals 2.3 million people. He spoke, too, of the government programs which the AMA and the medical fraternity at large have supported, one of the most important being the late President Kennedy's mental health program.

He said: "We want a society in which the freedom of the individual is maximized, while at the same time his welfare is provided for. Doctors are concerned about what effect the bills Congress passes will have upon the care which they render."

The grave fault in Medicare is that it would select a special group of people, those receiving payments under the social security system, and give them certain medical benefits whether or not they want or need them. Inevitably and necessarily, there would be bureaucratic control and domination -- he who pays the piper calls the tune. The entering wedge to socialized medicine, or government -- bossed medicine, would be laid solidly in place. And the ultimate loss, in both human and scientific values, would be incalculable.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Equal Sex Job Law Hurts Women, Will Cost Nation Hundreds of Millions of $$$.

Washington, D. C.: -- Most everybody has been guffawing about this new equal sex law or writing of it as though it were a script for Bob Hope.

You know, men are bumping women on the seniority line; or looking for jobs as night club bunnies or as attendants in a corset shop; or the ladies want jobs supplying towels in a men's turkish bath. And will a lady now be able to pitch for the Mets, asked one of the country's most staid journals with new-found kittenish humor.

Everybody is chortling over the new Title VII Equal Employment Opportunity clause, which says the sexes must be treated equally in hiring -- almost everybody, that is.

However, it is all very unfunny to some astute government, industry and labor leaders who have taken a good look at the law which Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. now is trying to administer.

It will cost the nation's public and private enterprises hundreds of millions of dollars annually if ever it is really enforced.

It all springs from the fact that the men want what the women have -- special privileges, earlier retirement, easier work codes, special seats, everything in fact except four weeks off before childbirth as provided by the laws of Puerto Rico and six states.

What the male worker is saying, in growing numbers, is: if discrimination against any sex is now illegal and all are equal, then the women should not be more equal than men.

Thus Mr. Roosevelt's headquarters have received complaints from men who want one firm to permit them to wear rings since their fellow women employes are allowed to do so.

One chap has charged that he was discriminated against when a company refused to hire him as a secretary. He can take 175 words per minute. A female was hired who is much slower than he is. And he now wants the job.

Men have protested that the Pentagon won't hire them as overseas teachers; or that some banks want lady tellers.

Obviously thousands of companies will have to alter their hiring policies -- and scores of federal bureaus as well.

But as Adam said to Eve after he bit the apple, this is just the beginning. There is the rather big item of retirement. In many areas and in many industries women retire earlier than men under private and public pension systems. In private industry, women can retire at 62 and most men at 65. Now the men say, why discriminate against us. We too want to quit at the earlier age.

Look also at the Railroad Retirement Board, a government agency. It handles, amongst other matters, the retirement pension system for almost 500,000 men and women, who once worked on the lines.

Under its rules, women can retire after 30 years service at 60 years of age for benefits which the men can't get until they are 62 or 65. Now some of the railroad men are demanding sexual equality in retirement.

Why can't they quit at 60, they are asking. If the Railroad Retirement Board, as an example, is ordered by another federal bureau to obey the E.E.O.C. law, the whole system will have to be revamped at the cost of many millions of dollars.

And then there are laws which provide special conditions for women working between machines, near coke ovens, in foundries, on polishing equipment, etc., and in weight lifting and carrying.

It's now becoming apparent that male workers are beginning to demand equality under these laws, too. This weight lifting thing is tricky. Utah, apparently, is the most gentle of states. It forbids women to lift more than 15 pounds. Michigan is more lenient. Weight load for ladies in the auto state is 35 pounds.

Men, until the law came, were considered the tougher of the species. It was agreed they could lift and carry greater weights than the females. Now there is a move to carry as little weight as the distaff side does.

Obviously what started as a gag by some Congressman, dazzled by the thought of equality of the sexes, has not proven to be a bit of gallantry. Some of it is tragic.

There are big corporations now which have been forced to merge the seniority lists of men and women employes--and since the men usually are on the job longest, the female workers, many without any other support, are being bumped from their jobs. Some are in their late fifties and have no place to go but on the relief roles.

This not so funny, un-bunny law needs sharp and swift review--and, some believe, even quicker repeal.

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON -- The American Embassy in Moscow has now obtained the full text of China's big blast against Soviet Russia, and it's a lulu. It puts in the shade anything Harry Truman ever said about me.

Harry, of course, was succinct and to the point. The Chinese are verbose and repetitious. They take 30,000 words to say what Harry Truman said in three letters.

But it all adds up to the same thing, namely that the Russians are "double - faced," "cunning," "hyprocritical," "have shamelessly emasculated Lenin's theory on the dictatorship of the Proletariat," all because the new leaders of the Kremlin "have been busy running errands for the U. S. aggressors," and because "the new leaders have revealed in all its ugliness their support of the aggressor and their alliance with the United States."

"We absolutely refuse to serve as a pawn in their secret diplomacy with the U. S. imperialism or help them cover up their assistance to U. S. imperialism," exploded the Chinese editorial blast.

"They have been discarded the small figleaf Khrushchev used in order to feign neutrality. Small wonder that the U. S. imperialists are gleefully hailing a 'new era' of U.S. - Soviet Cooperation."

The Chinese even accused their Russian comrades of table-pounding at the United Nations. "They repeat Khrushchev's despicable stock tricks at the meetings of the international organizations, rely on behind - the-scenes manipulation, as well as open trouble-making and even resort to such ludicrous tactics as banging tables and stamping their feet."

So runs the line of Chinese invective against their supposed partners in the world of Marx and Lenin.

LBJ'S WEAK SPOT

The diatribe focuses attention on what is probably the weakest spot in the Johnson Foreign Policy. For at a time when Russian - Chinese relations are sour, American-Russian cooperation should be good. But the opposite is true.

Simultaneous with the Chinese barrage, the Soviet was sentencing to eighteen months' labor an American tourist who had strayed across the border, ousting the correspondent of the Washington Post, questioning renewal of the Soviet-American cultural agreement, and putting Red army marshalls in new positions of power.

There are three reasons for this hardening of Soviet policy toward the United States:

1. -- There has always been an anti-American clique inside the Kremlin, and U. S. operations in Viet Nam have strengthened it.

2. -- Some anti-Americanism is aimed at disproving the Chinese accusation that Moscow is the lackey of Washington.

3. -- Most basic however, is the Johnson administration's failure to realize the tremendous changes that have occurred in Russia and take advantage of them.

Twenty years ago Franklin Roosevelt argued that Russia was sure to change, that moderation would replace extremism, that tough Communism would give way to a socialism similar to that of the British Labor Party, and that the peace of the world depended on USA-USSR cooperation.

REVERSING ROOSEVELT

But as the war ended Roosevelt died. Harry Hopkins, who agreed with him, died shortly thereafter. Henry Wallace resigned from the Truman administration over this issue of Russian cooperation. And American foreign policy fell into the hands of the hard-nosed clique which believed war with Russia inevitable; and that we must rebuild the old Nazi cartels as a buffer against Russia.

Many of those who worked to rebuild Germany represented the U. S. bankers who had invested so heavily in Hitler's Germany -- James Forrestal of Dillon, Read who became Secretary of Defense; William Draper of Dillion, Read who was Undersecretary of the Army; John J. McCloy of the Chase Bank who became High Commissioner of Germany; and John Foster Dulles, Attorney for various pro-German New York banks, who became Secretary of State.

It was Dwight D. Eisenhower, who had worked with Red army leaders during the war who finally, and with some timidity, began to reverse the anti-Russian policy by inviting Khrushchev to Washington.

John F. Kennedy, after much hesitation and some false starts, continued the thaw with his American university speech and his Test-Ban Treaty.

And Johnson, during his first year in office, made various conciliatory moves toward better Russian - American understanding.

However, Johnson, a superb leader on the domestic front, came to office with no background in foreign affairs. Though he bettered FDR's leadership on domestic problems he lacked FDR's long-range foresight that the Soviet would turn from extremism to moderation. He did not understand the continuing debate between the pro - German faction in Washington and Wall Street and the faction which believed that peace can be insured only by cooperation between the world's two most powerful nations -- the USA and the USSR.

That's how Johnson accepted military advice in Viet Nam, thereby drifting into a deadened from whence he looks helplessly at the bitter debate between China and Russia without being able to take advantage of it. Historians will probably record this as his greatest mistake.

Hal Boyle

NEW YORK AP -- Everything changes in this world--but nothing changes more than women.

Compared to the variability of women, chameleons are rank amateurs.

Clouds change endlessly. So do waves upon the sea, and colors on the landscape. But none change more than women's moods.

Many things make surface changes in women -- such things as cosmetics, hairdos, hats, eye makeup, girdles and different skirt lengths.

But none affects the inner girl. Inside she is still the same --that is, until she marries. Then she seems to explode in all directions.

"Is this the same sweet girl I courted?" her wondering husband asks. "I feel like I'm living with a total stranger."

He has made the discovery that all husbands make sooner or later: nothing seems to change a girl more than marriage.

Before marriage she liked to walk miles with you. After marriage her arches begin to break down if you can't get her a cab within half a block.

Once she said, "I want you to stay just as you are. I don't want you ever to be any different." But when the glory of the honeymoon fades, she says, "In the name of high heaven, aren't you ever going to grow up?"

Before marriage she murmured anxiously, "If you really don't like my cooking, please tell me." After marriage she barks, "If you don't like the way I burned your TV dinner, go out in the refrigerator and thaw out another one. Then you can burn it any way you like it."

Before marriage she exclaimed prettily, "Oh, how did you know it was my birthday?" After marriage she storms, "How could you forget it was my birthday? After all, it comes only once a year."

There was a time when she thought your relatives were charming. Now, if one of the kids even develops a runny nose, she remarks, "It must come from your side of the family. My family was always healthy."

She used to plan about how she'd help you carry out your life's dreams. Now all she wants you to carry out is the garbage.

An ancient proberb warns girls, "Don't marry a man to reform him. You'll never be able to change him."

An opposite warning might be given to young bachelors:

"Don't marry a girl if you expect her to stay the same. Marriage will change her more than anything. And nothing you can do will stop it."

Johnna Kay Huckstep Is Wed To Charles R. Hall

CHARLESTON -- Miss Johnna Kay Huckstep, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John William Huckstep, and Charles Ray Hall of Sikeston, son of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Hall of Dexter, were married Saturday at 4 p.m. in the William L. Meyer Chapel of the Methodist Church.

The altar was decorated with white mums, fern and candelabra. Mrs. Don Cain of Essex sang "Because," Whither Thou Goest," and the "Wedding Prayer." She was accompanied by Mrs. Charles Cook, organist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a floor-length gown of white satin. The gown had a Bateau neckline with a fitted bodice that was appliqued with lace and featured long sleeves that came to points over the hands and were fastened with tiny satin covered buttons. The gown featured a chapel train which fell from the shoulders and was then caught at the back waist and fell to the floor. The train was appliqued with the same lace as the bodice.

Her shoulder - length veil of hand rolled silk illusion was attached to a crown of crystal and pearls. She carried a bouquet of white stephanotis which was centered with a corsage of white roses.

Mrs. Robert Strickland of Cape Girardeau served as matron of honor and Miss Janice Ault and Miss Carla Hough of Charleston served as bridesmaids.

Miss Barbara Martin of St. Louis was candelighter.

The attendants wore identical street - length dresses of avocado velvet. They featured a fitted bodice, elbow-length sleeves and a bell-shaped skirt. They wore matching pill box hats with nose tip veils and carried bouquets of bronze mums with bronze streamers. The candlelighter wore a corsage of bronze mums.

Jim Hall of Bloomfield attended his brother as best man and Don Cain of Essex and Larry Duck of Jackson, Tenn., were groomsmen. Ronnie and Jack Huckstep, brothers of the bride, served as ushers. The men in the bridal party wore dark suits.

The bride's mother wore a two piece beige dress of ribbon knit with pearl trim, a green flowered hat and matching accessories.

The groom's mother wore a dress of light weight wool in gold with matching accessories.

Immediately after the ceremony, a reception was held in the church dining hall. Miss Jana Atteberry presided at the guest register.

The bride's table was covered with avocado green net over white satin and was decorated with bows of net, ribbon and bronze mums. The bride's table held a four tiered wedding cake topped with a handmade ornament of wedding bells and two rings. A crystal punch bowl and a pair of silver candelabra also appointed the table.

Refreshments of wedding cake, punch and mints were served by Mrs. Kent Roberts of Charleston and Mrs. Larry Duck of Jackson, Tenn.

The young couple left for a wedding trip to Memphis. For travel, Mrs. Hall wore a burgundy suit with black accessories and the corsage from her wedding bouquet.

After returning, the couple will be at home on North Street in Sikeston.

Mrs. Hall is a 1961 graduate of Charleston High School and attended Southeast Missouri State College in Cape Girardeau. She is now employed by the State Department of Education in the training program for retarded children.

Mr. Hall graduated from Dexter High School in 1961 and the Gradwohl Institute of Technology in St. Louis, and is now a laboratory technician at the Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston.

Miss Joan Gail Ice Says Vows With Charles David Hill Sunday

CHARLESTON -- In a candlelighted ceremony in the presence of their immediate families, Miss Joan Gail Ice, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ice of Cairo, Ill., and Charles David Hill, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Harding Hill of Sikeston, were married Sunday at 3 p.m. at the home of the groom's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hill, 204 Hunter.

The Rev. Rufus Noisworthy officiated using the double ring ceremony.

The setting for the ceremony was in front of the fire place. On the mantel was a seven branch candelabra decorated with holly and red berries and on one side of the fire place was a floor urn filled with holly and red berries. A 17 branched candelabra on a table decorated with red berries and holly completed the decorations.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white satin brocaded costume suit. It featured a slim skirt and shell top with a jacket that had a low neckline and was fastened with two pearl buttons. She wore a white pearl sequinned pill box hat and a white orchid corsage.

The attendants were the groom's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Paul William Hill of Charleston. Mrs. Hill wore a two piece midnight green jersey dress with long sleeves. In her hair she wore a midnight green velvet Dior bow and she completed her attire with gold shoes and a corsage of bronze daisies.

The bride's mother wore a light pink dress with matching accessories and the groom's mother wore a dark blue and green jersey dress with matching accessories.

Immediately after the ceremony, a reception was held for those present. The bride's table was covered with a white linen table cloth and was centered with a two tiered wedding cake with a pair of silver candleholders holding white tapers on either side of it.

Refreshments of cake, punch, nuts and mints were served by the bride's sisters, Miss Barbara Ice of Cairo, Ill., and Mrs. Bob Boone of Charleston.

Mr. and Mrs. Hill left for a short wedding trip after which they will be at home at 217 East Marshall. Mrs. Hill attended Cairo High School and Mr. Hill is a 1955 graduate of Charleston High School. He is employed as a relief mate with the Ingram Barge Company.

Mrs. James Bryant; Carol Werneck To Head March Of Dimes Drives

William Paylor, Scott county campaign director for the 1966 March of Dimes, has announced the appointment of Mrs. James F. Bryant as Mothers March of Dimes chairman for Sikeston. He also announced the appointment of Miss Carol Werneck as teen chairman.

Mrs. Bryant has lived in Sikeston for 20 years and is the mother of three children, Nancy, a sophomore at the University of Missouri School of Nursing in Columbia; Penny, a sophomore at Sikeston Senior High and Alan, a freshman at Junior High. She is a member of the Baptist church where she serves as superintendent of Primary III Department. She is chairman of Auxiliary Mother Boy Scout Troop 43 and is a member of the Eastern Star.

Mrs. Bryant said that the Mothers March for the March of Dimes will be in January.

Miss Werneck is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adron Werneck, 823 Greer Ave. She is a senior at Sikeston Senior High School where she has served on the Student Council for two years and is managing editor for the school newspaper and feature editor of the yearbook. She has been a twirler for the Sikeston Senior High School Marching Bulldogs for two years. She has been a member of the Red Peppers for three years and is serving as Cayenne this year. The Red Peppers, an organization of 255 high school girls, will run the teenage program for the March of Dimes in Sikeston. They are planning a bread sale in January.

Birth defects kill and cripple more American children than any other human disorder. The March of Dimes is leading the fight against birth defects because it believes the people are ready to join an all-out campaign against the terrific waste of human life.

The March of Dimes in the past six years has made important advances in the fight against birth defects. Through the 57 March of Dimes financed centers and clinics across the country, trained medical teams are providing the best medical care available for birth defect children and are working to develop new techniques that will enable many more of these children to live a useful life.

Those were important facts about the March of Dimes stressed at the annual five-state conference of the National Foundation March of Dimes held in St. Louis last week. Mrs. Bryant attended from Scott county.

Morley OES Has Meeting

MORLEY -- Morley Chapter No. 342, Order of the Eastern Star met Tuesday evening, Nov. 9, with the Worthy Matron, Mary Susan Wyman presiding. After the opening ceremony, the Flag of the United States was escorted to the East and the Pledge of Allegiance was given under the direction of the Worthy Patron James Maddox.

Mr. and Mrs. Mac Smotherman of Sapphire Chapter No. 536 were introduced informally and welcomed.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved. A letter from Mrs. Erlean Davenport of Chaffee, newly appointed Deputy Grand Matron of the 50th District, was read.

An invitation from Chaffee Chapter No. 48 to a reception honoring the new District Deputy was read. A petition for the Degrees was received and referred to the proper committee for investigation. Two petitions for affiliation were received and referred to the proper committees.

Mrs. Alta Mae Sallee was elected to receive the Degrees at the next regular stated meeting. Miss Elizabeth Wilkins and Mrs. Virginia Girlie being in waiting were given the Degrees of the Order. Following the initiation the newly elected members were presented white Bibles from the Chapter in an impressive ceremony. Miss Wilkins was presented with an official pin, a gift from her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Wilkins, who were unable to be present.

Worthy Matron made the presentation.

Mrs. Sue Tetley gave a report on the profits of the various money-making projects of the Order.

It was reported that Mrs. Annie Lou Williams was a patient in the St. Francis Hospital in Cape Girardeau.

Election of officers followed with the following slate of officers being elected:

Mrs. Lora Ellen Clinton, worthy matron; G. K. Patterson, worthy patron; Mrs. Jean Neal, associate matron; Paul Neal, associate patron; Mrs. Zelma Wagoner, conductress; Mrs. Wilma Crader, associate conductress; Mrs. Mary Swinger, secretary and Mrs. Audrey Hirschowitz, treasurer. The remainder of the officers will be appointed later by the incoming worthy matron. A public installation will be held Monday evening, Dec. 20.

The Worthy Matron thanked her protems for the evening. She also thanked her marshal, Mrs. Helen Harris, for the beautiful Star Point ceremony for the intitation service.

Following remarks by the visitors and the sideliners, the Chapter was closed and all were invited to the dining room for refreshments of pie and coffee served by the committee, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Frobase and Mrs. Wade Miller.

To wash fragile lace doilies, suds and rinse them in a plastic container and avoid handling. Hang on the clothes lines between two sheets of waxed paper so as to prevent marks from clothespins or clothes line. This is also a good method of laundering sheer blouses.

Miss Betty Mitchell Is Honored With Bridal Party

MOREHOUSE -- Miss Betty Mitchell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Mitchell, was honored with a bridal shower in the fellowship room of the Rauch-Spence Memorial Methodist Church Friday at 2 p.m.

All decorations were carried out in pink and white, colors chosen by the bride-elect. The honoree, seated beside a table covered with a white damask cloth, opened the many beautiful and useful gifts. The centerpiece was white mums and pink roses. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Marilyn Garrett, sister of the bride-elect; Mrs. Wanda Dillon and Miss Saundra Purhey. The refreshment table was covered with a pink cloth overlaid with pink net which was caught up in swags with large pink satin bows. A bride doll stood in the center under an arch entwined with white flowers and green leaves. A Christmas punch bowl contained pink punch and a silver tray held petit fours iced in white topped with pink bells. On either end of the table, nuts were served from sivler and pink cut glass compotes. Hostesses were Mrs. Eleanor Fox, Mrs. Mattie Gruen, Mrs. Frank Kesler, Mrs. Vera Allbright, Mrs. Juanita Dillion and Mrs. Leslie Frazier.

Those attending or sending gifts were Mrs. Lillian Mitchell, the honoree's mother; Miss Selma Gruen, Mrs. Dessie Shepherd, Becky Koch, Agnes Kesler, Cora Geske, Mrs. L. T. Black, Mrs. Francis Woodard, Mrs. Irene Bowen and Mrs. Nota Summers.

Mrs. Lucy McDonald, Mrs. Adelaide Dunfee, Mrs. Jewel Shoptaw, Mrs. Madge Barnett, Mrs. Shirley Hammock, Miss Patsy McWilliams, Mrs. Fred McWilliams, Mrs. Grace Schuchart, Mrs. Paul Witt and Mrs. S. A. Clay.

Miss Katheryn McBain, Mrs. Geraldine Estep, Mrs. Mildred Deane, Mrs. Jennie Deane, Mrs. Willa Alsup, Mrs. Eula Fay Stroud, Mrs. Norman Crumpecker, Mrs. Ollie King and Mrs. Mary Joan Dickerson.

Freeze a large container of fruit juice before starting on a picnic. When packing, place other things around it that you wish to stay cool. When eating time comes, the juice will have thawed just right to drink. And the other things will be cool.

When handwashing and drying gloves on a form, whisk freshly-washed white gloves of cotton, cotton blend or nylon with spray-on starch. It makes them fresher looking, and the light starching provides a dirt-guard shield.

Missouri Entertains Ohio State In Cage Opener

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The Big Eight's basketball teams roll into action tonight, against opponents from outside the conference, and if they manage a split it will be a big night.

Arkansas invades Kansas, ranked No. 8 in the Associated Press pre-season poll. The Jayhawks will be a strong favorite because of Walt Wesley, the 6-11 senior who led the conference in scoring last year, and four others who started at least part of the time.

Missouri entertains Ohio State, and on paper the Tigers seem to have their thinnest team since Bob Vanatta took over as coach three seasons ago.

Kansas State's big new front line will get its first test at Omaha against Creighton, which is supposed to have one of the best teams in the country.

The Air Force Academy will be Iowa State's opening foe, at Ames. Colorado takes on Texas Tech at Boulder. Nebraska goes to Wisconsin. Oklahoma State is paired against St. Louis in the first game of a doubleheader at Oklahoma City, and it's Oklahoma against Oklahoma City in the nightcap.

Kansas probably will start Riney Lochman, Ron Franz, Al Lopes and Del Lewis along with Wesley.

Missouri's starters are expected to be Ron Coleman and Charley Rudd, veterans from last season; Tom Officer and Rich Milling, who are upperclassmen but haven't played much, and Rob Vanatta, the coach's son.

Kansas State's big new front line is made up of 7-1 Nick Pino, who was red shirted last year; 6-10 Roy Smith, last year's starting center, and Earl Seyfert, a 6-7 sophomore from Humboldt, Kan. Sammy Robinson and Denni Berkholtz, veterans, probably will be the back court men.

College Basketball Openers Tonight

The college basketball season opens officially tonight and right off the bat there's a flock of major games, topped by Tennessee at Michigan.

Michigan, with All-America Cazzie Russell back, was ranked second to national champion UCLA in the pre-season Associated Press poll last week. The Big Ten champs go back against a Tennessee team that again is expected to be a leading contender in the Southeastern Conference.

UCLA will not play its first regular game until Friday night against Ohio State, although the Bruins were surprised by the UCLA frosh 75-60 in an exhibition last Saturday night. Lew Alcindor, the 7-foot-1 New Yorker hailed as a future star, led the frosh.

The Duke Blue Devils, No. 3 in the AP pre-season poll, will unveil a much-heralded sophomore in Mike Lewis, against Virginia Tech at Greensboro, N.C. The St. Joseph Hawks of Philadelphia, No. 4, play host to Hofstra while Vanderbilt, No. 5, is at home to Wittenburg.

In other games involving the pre-season top ten, Minnesota, No. [illegible] come to [illegible] Kansas State got at least one first-ta; Kansas, No. 8, entertains Arkansas; Bradley, No. 9, encounters Milwaukee-Wisconsin at Peoria while Kansas State, No. 10, is at Creighton. Providence, No. 6, does not open until Saturday against Villanova.

Warrensburg Favored In Cage Chase

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP) — Sports writers and broadcasters have tabbed Warrensburg State as likely to win its second straight basketball championship in the MIAA conference.

Springfield State was a close second in the pre-season poll conducted by Don Payton, director of information at Springfield State. Kirksville State, Cape Girardeau State, Rolla and Maryville State followed, in that order.

Warrensburg, Springfield and [illegible] Kirksville got at least one first-place vote. The participants predicted Rolla will have the most improved team.

Warrensburg State opens its season tonight in the heady heights of the Missouri Valley Conference—at Cincinnati.

Springfield State goes into action by entertaining Rockhurst, which already has beaten Missouri Valley and Arkansas Tech in its first two games of the season.

Pittsburg State will be at Maryville State, Omaha at Kirksville State, Cape Girardeau State at McKendree and Rolla at Washington of St. Louis.

Other games tonight:

William Jewell at Drake, St. Cloud of Minnesota at Lincoln of Missouri, St. Benedicts at Quincy, Washburn at Doane of Nebraska, and Fort Hays State at Southwestern.

Butkus Lives Up To His Clippings

NEW YORK (AP) — Dick Butkus of the Chicago Bears is another brilliant rookie living up to his college press clippings in his first year of professional football.

The 6-foot-3, 240-pound middle linebacker intercepted a pass and recovered a fumble Sunday against the New York Giants and put on another impressive performance at Yankee Stadium.

As a result, The Associated Press has named Butkus the Defensive Player of The Week in the National Football League.

"Butkus gets better every week," said George Allen, the Bears' defensive coach. "He is a boy who gives you not 100 per cent but 110 per cent. He always seems to be in the right place at the right time. At the beginning he had a little problem with passes but no more. He has intercepted five."

Butkus, drafted in the first round last year along with Gale Sayers of Kansas, is a particular favorite of George Halas, the old Poppa Bear. He should be if that $250,000 reported bonus is true.

"I knew he was the man we wanted from the very first game," said Halas. "He made no serious mistakes early but I turned him over to Phil Handler, one of my assistants. I told him to look at films of Ray Nitschke and pick out the things he does that are good. He came back to me and said he learned he could play a couple of yards deeper."

Butkus picked off a pass by Earl Morrall, deflected by Richie Petitbon, and recovered a fumble when Joe Morrison failed to hold a Morrall pass in the Giant game. As usual, Butkus was all over the field, jitterbugging in and out of the line while Joe Fortunato called the defensive signals.

New York Wallops St. Louis, 138 to 119

Oscar Robertson has the Cincinnati Royals moving better than ever in the National Basketball Association.

The Royals downed the Los Angeles Lakers 126-120 Tuesday night for their fourth consecutive victory and pulled even with the Eastern Division - leading Boston Celtics as far as games are concerned. Cincinnati still trails on percentage points.

In the other NBA games, Baltimore crushed Philadelphia 129 -108 and New York walloped St. Louis 138-119 in a double-header at New York. Robertson poured in 41 points and collected 14 assists. Just last Saturday night against New York he scored 44 points and notched 16 assists.

The Knicks made the New York coaching debut of Dick McGuire a success, putting the game beyond St. Louis' reach with a 77-point first half. Dick Barnett and Dick Van Arsdale powered a 13-point spree midway through the second quarter that shot New York far ahead of the Hawks.

Defense Has Its Flaws

NEW YORK (AP) — Philadelphia ranks second to San Francisco in National Football League statistics for total offense but the Eagles still are struggling along with a 4-7 won-lost record because they have scored only 269 points to 290 by the opposition.

"Our offense has been productive but not productive enough pointwise," said Joe Kuharich, Philadelphia coach.

The defensive statistics tell part of the Eagles' problems. They rank seventh in total defense and 10th in the vital field of pass defense.

The 49ers show the way in total offense with 4,191 yards and also in passing with 2,713 yards. They also lead the league in scoring with 360 points and in touchdowns with 45.

Cleveland has taken over from Minnesota as the top rushing team with a total of 1,950 yards. Jim Brown has accounted for 1,309.

Eckert Won't Be Cowed

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Gen. William Eckert says he won't be intimidated in his new job as commissioner of baseball.

The retired Air Force officer bluntly told baseball officials Tuesday night that he won't allow himself "to become a puppet."

Eckert, making his first formal speech since taking the job two weeks ago, said he will take over as commissioner with no obligations to anyone.

"Nobody tied any strings on me, so there aren't any to pull," said the unemotional 55-year-old commissioner, who described himself as a "product of smalltown America, with no experience in baseball."

Eckert said as commissioner he will not "overlook or shrink from the hard decisions growing out of disputes, whoever may be involved."

Despite his blunt speech, Eckert said he does not plan to offer any immediate remedies for problems plaguing baseball.

"First I want to see some ball games," said Eckert, who went to only one game last summer.

Eckert said he does not believe his lack of baseball experience will hamper him as commissioner because he has had wide experience as an Air Force officer in dealing with people and problems.

"I make no claims to omnipotence," he said, "but I practice justice and equity."

Eckert said he was gratified by the "gracious reception" given him as commissioner despite his lack of baseball fame.

"The day after I was named commissioner," Eckert said, "Willie Mays — whom I admire greatly — asked 'who's he?' "

Eckert said he planned to change that image by mixing with baseball players, the minor leagues and the public.

"The commissioner foregoes none of the disciplinary responsibilities of office if he lends the authority of his office and the persuasiveness of his nature to advance baseball as our national pastime," Eckert said. "I intend to do just that."

Eckert, who has been seen only briefly in public since arriving for the baseball meetings which started Monday and move on to Miami tonight, said he wants to broaden interest in baseball "to include all levels and all ages."

Eckert's speech enlivened a rather dull day marked by much speculation about player trades but little action.

Two veterans cut loose earlier were signed. The California Angels took third baseman Frank Malzone, who had been dropped by the Red Sox, and Cleveland signed catcher Del Crandall, released by Pittsburgh. The New York Mets finally announced a trade that sent outfielder Joe Christopher to Boston for shortstop Eddie Bressoud.

Dogs Aid In Viet Nam War

SAIGON, South Viet Nam AP --Shortly before dusk 26 U.S. Infantrymen set cut on a jungle patrol less than 30 miles from Saigon. Their mission: To ambush the Viet Cong.

It was like hundreds of other patrols for the 1st Infantry Division, except for one key difference: A lean, vicious German Shepherd dog led the way.

Nothing happened for three hours. Then the big dog became tense and stopped short. He pointed his body toward a clump of dense brush. The ambush was set.

Within 10 minutes, three or four Viet Cong walked into the trap and the Americans opened fire. One Viet Cong was killed; another, wounded, crawled into the undergrowth. The dog picked up the scent and led the Americans to him.

The incident typifies the increasing role played by scout dogs in the Vietnamese war.

"Our scout dogs will alert on any strange scent outside of the patrol," said Sgt. 1.C. Jesse S. Mendez, 38, San Antonio, Tex., a military adviser on dogs. "They have been instrumental in discovery of mines, documents, food, weapons and ammunition."

Several hundred German Shepherds are in use.

Most are sentry dogs on guard at U.S. installations. These are trained at Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio, Tex., in an eight-week course in which they are matched with volunteer handlers.

Both the Army and Marine Corps are using dogs more and more in the field.

The scout dogs, or "four-footed radar" as the GIs call them, also come from the United States but they are trained in Viet Nam and matched with Vietnamese handlers.

These handlers are experienced field soldiers. Often on patrols they are the first to take casualties because they walk with the dogs ahead of the troops.

"By now," said one Vietnamese, "the dogs are accustomed to the odor of the American GI, so that when the VC are in the area, the dog's alert is even stronger.

"The Viet Cong have been using dogs, too, but they haven't had the training our teams have had, so they're not nearly so effective."

It takes three to five days for the dog to become used to Viet Nam's heat and humidity. Each dog must be between 1 and 2 years old, weigh 60 pounds and stand 23 inches high at the shoulder.

Security At Jail Tightened

HILLSBORO, Mo. AP --Sheriff Walter Buerger said Tuesday security at the Jefferson County jail is being tightened in the wake of an eight-man escape Nov. 21.

All eight have been recaptured. Officers caught the last three Saturday after a week-long manhunt through wooded areas of Jefferson County.

Buerger said the escape occurred because a part of a hacksaw blade was hidden in the jail and used by the men to cut through a steel bar.

The sheriff said he did not know how the saw got in the jail. Prisoners told him they found it in a crack in the shower room floor.

Rotary Wants ToSponsor Study In Overseas Lands

The Rotary club would like to sponsor a young person for study in a foreign country and to send technicians abroad for training.

The club is looking for a single person, man or woman, 20 or older, to send to a foreign country of their choice for a years' study.

The candidate must have the willingness and ability to learn the language of the country. Holder of a bachelors' degree is preferred but not necessary.

The amount of the award offered by Rotary International is round trip transportation, tuition and registration fees, books and study materials, room and board, living costs and educational travel expenses within the country of study.

The club can also sponsor technical training awards. These awards are for married or single men between 21 and 35, and will cover round trip travel to the country of study and living expenses.

Candidates may be agricultural or medical technicians, radio operators, bookkeepers, mechanics, or those working in any other technical field.

Candidates should apply to the club. Lucien Stoner, president of club, or Dave Markel, chairman of the Rotary foundation committee, can supply complete information.

Hawkes Met Death By Stabbing

MATTHEWS -- James Edgar Hawkes, 41, was stabbed fatally at the Missouri penitentiary in Jefferson City Saturday several hours after another inmate had been stabbed.

He was serving a 24-year sentence for assault with intent to kill.

Services were Monday in Sikeston with burial in the Matthews cemetery.

Another prisoner, Thomas D. Hancks, Kansas City, was injured in the earlier stabbing in an uprising at the prison, but he is not reported to be in serious condition.

There were no witnesses to the stabbing, but Warden Harold Swenson said a guard reported having seen Hawkes a short time before the stabbing, while walking around a corner between two buildings. Upon investigating, he found Hawkes fatally wounded.

Cyclist Injures His Back

KENNETT -- Bob Burnett, 18-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Lenuel Burnett of Kennett, suffured a back injury in a motorbike accident at the St. Francis River levee west of Kennett at 2 p.m. Sunday.

According to the boy's father, Bob was at the levee with a group of motor-bike enthusiasts who were taking turns at "jumping" the levee. The Honda, which Bob was operating, hit the top of the levee and then, like a ski jump, went through the air before it hit the ground on the other side. The shock absorbers, according to Burnett, did not work as expected in Bob's vehicle and he was thrown into the air about 10 feet and came down on his back.

Taken to Dunklin County Memorial Hospital for emergency treatment, it was discovered that a disc near the base of his neck was dislocated. Doctors here advised that the young man be transferred to Campbell's Clinic at Memphis, Tenn., where he is now undergoing treatment. Attendants there reported that he would probably be hospitalized about three weeks.

LT. JERRY SHIELDS, of Sullivan, Ky., a medical officer, removes bandages from the head of a young Vietnamese boy before treating the youngster for a head infection. The child's mother watches the action. Scene took place near Da Nang, where area villagers have a regular twice-weekly medical call from the Marines at the base.

from the woman whose neighbor's child was cruel to her little puppy brought back memories. I hope that child's mother will get busy before it's too late.

Parents need to instill in their children love and compassion for all living things. When our five sons were very young I taught them to treat pets lovingly. If I heard a squeal or a yip I picked up the furry creature and snuggled him. Then I'd say "Nice Kitty" or "Nice Puppy" and guide the child's hand to pet the animal gently.

For 17 wonderful years we had stray cats and dogs on our porch from all over town. Our boys walked to school like shepherds in the midst of a flock. At times I questioned the wisdom of my teaching (for example when I had to wade through the flock to get to my clothes line) but I know now I was right.

Today, each of our five sons is a wonderful husband and father. They are respected by their colleagues and deeply concerned with the lot of their fellow man. The early teaching paid off. -- DETROIT MOTHER

Dear Mother: What a heart-warming letter! Do you have a snapshot of your boys walking "like shepherds in the midst of a flock?" I hope so! (And if you do, I'd love to see it.)

Are you at war with your parents? Do they have too much to say in your life? Send for Ann Landers' booklet "Bugged By Parents? How To Get More Freedom." Send 50 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

PRAYER
For Today From The Upper Room

I can will what is right, but I cannot do it. (Romans 7:18, RSV)

PRAYER: Eternal God our Father, thanks be to Thee who didst so love a sinning and erring world that Thou didst give Thine only Son, that by faith in Him we may share the victory which overcomes the world. Enable us to put our trust in Thee. Grant us grace and strength to live as children redeemed through Jesus Christ. We pray in His name. Amen.

Missouri Press Report From Edward Long

U. S. exports will reach a record high this year, according to the latest report.

The United States is expected to sell overseas over $40,000,000,000 worth of farm and manufactured goods by Christmas this year. Our exports have doubled in the last ten years. The world's major trading countries have already increased their imports from the U.S. by more than two-thirds this year.

Missouri's share of total U.S. exports continues to rise. Trade expansion councils around the State have done an outstanding job of urging Missourians to look to foreign markets for growth and expansion.

While total U.S. exports to tiny Switzerland have doubled in the past ten years, Missouri's exports to Switzerland have more than quadrupled. Switzerland is now buying from Missouri an estimated $4,900,000 worth of leather, chemical and meat products.

Missouri's share of U.S. farm exports surged ahead. Our record soybean crop is accounting for a major portion of Missouri's exports. Missouri is exporting over $14,000,000 worth of soybeans to Japan alone, according to the latest predictions. Japan is the world's biggest importer of American soybeans.

Missouri farmers are expected to produce an all time record 84,780,000 bushels of soybeans this year -- 21,000,000 bushels more than last year. Meanwhile, U. S. exports of soybeans rose to 212,000,000 bushels or 25,000,000 bushels higher than last year.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture has announced that rates and regulations for the 1966 voluntary feed grain program are now available in Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation offices in Missouri.

USDA has also announced details of the new cropland Adjustment Program. Under this program, farmers may enter into 5 to 10 years contracts to convert land to protective conservation uses. Through the cropland adjustment program, farmers who wish to retire may now stay on the farm while putting their land to creative uses.

Was in Columbia, Missouri, recently for the dedication of the University of Missouri's new Environmental Health Center. The University is launching a new program of research in an effort to solve such urgent problems as air and water pollution. The University's program is one of the nation's most important efforts in this vital field.

Meanwhile, Congress this year passed the Water Quality Act, a Clean Air and Solid Waste Disposal Act, and authorized nearly one-half billion dollars to combat environmental health problems.

Patience is the best remedy for every trouble.

But what about the scar?

ANN LANDERS
Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: I was offended by your cutting reply to the woman who wanted to be the sole breadwinner in the family while her husband kept house. You said she was "kooked up" and called her "Sir."

Surely you know many people are unsuited for the roles which Society decrees they must play. Some men don't belong in the business world and some women don't belong in the home.

In Australia, for example, certain aborigine tribes practice complete reversal of the roles as we know them. The women do the hunting, make the tribal decisions and run the family. The men stay home, care for the children, do the cooking and primp (like our women) so they will be attractive to their wives. According to anthropologists they are reasonably content.

Personally, I believe the lady who wrote will be happier (and so will her husband) if they do what comes naturally and are not concerned with what others think. -- INTERESTED READER

Dear Interested: If these people lived in the Australian bush they would have no problem, but in Hartford if they changed roles they might well be considered peculiar.

I entered no judgment as to whether it was right or wrong. I did say they are bound to be considered oddballs -- and believe me, they would be.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a 20-year-old girl who lives with my married sister and her husband. I have a good job in a bank.

My sister is wonderful to me but I hate her husband. He calls my sister "stupid" and "ignorant." If he doesn't feel like going out he makes her cancel plans at the last minute. If HE wants to go out, she has to go, no matter how tired she is.

My sister is a beautiful girl. If she left this ox she could marry a man who would treat her like a queen. The vice president of the bank has asked me questions about her. When I told her, she said, "Forget it. Bill is a good father. That means a lot to me."

How can I save my sister from throwing away her life on this rat? - - STANDING BY

Dear Sis: If you were "Standing By" it would be lovely, but you are actively trying to break up your sister's marriage which is quite a different ball of wax.

Move. You'll all be better off.

Dear Ann Landers: The letter

Intermission Time On World Stage

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — This is intermission time on the world stage.

For most of this century a succession of colorful men dominated the mind and imagination of the world. Most are dead or retired now. The rest of this century will have to manufacture new men to take their place.

There were loudmouths among those giants of the past, and actors, orators, fanatics, and true world leaders, whether they were loved or hated.

Of them all only two still have top billing: Red China's Mao Tze-tung, and French President Charles de Gaulle. A few others from the past are still in the show but have quieted down from age or circumstance.

At 72 Mao has become a shadowy figure, hardly seen, more a legend than a man. He says little the world hears. He was never colorful. It is hard to know anymore what his real role is.

De Gaulle, always the actor, is still colorful even if he says nothing and points his nose in the air. At 75 he seems certain of a new seven-year term as president. But his dominance is limited mostly to France and Western Europe.

President Johnson, a newcomer to the world scene, has concentrated on his domestic problems and stayed pretty much off the international stage. So it would be straining to say he is a dominant world figure, capturing men's minds.

President John F. Kennedy was the opposite. He was a newcomer, too, but, while he was no smash-hit in getting Congress to do what he wanted, he plunged into the international act early.

The result: in the less than three years of his presidency he was a famous and generally admired figure around the world.

For example: Before he was six months in office he had visited De Gaulle, dined with the queen of England, had a summit meeting with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev in Vienna, and then had a crisis over the Berlin wall.

Other figures from the past, although still in power, say few lines anymore: Egypt's President Gamal Abdel Nasser, Yugoslavia's Marshal Tito, and Indonesia's President Sukarno, very rambunctious until his home-grown Communists recently tried to take the play away from him.

Chiang Kai-shek is still head man on Formosa but in his more than 35 years before the world audience he was never colorful, never said much.

Nothing shows the contrast between past and present more than the Khrushchev case. Bounced over a year ago, he is now in obscurity. Probably not one American in 1,000 could name his successors, much less spell their names.

Yet Khrushchev, one of history's greatest actor-loudmouths, was also one of the most fascinating figures of the century. In recent days Red China and the Soviet Union moved closer to a fatal split. They exchanged long invectives.

But the leaders said nothing in their own names. What they said sounded like a dialogue between pedantic philosophers.

Not one figure on the scene today, except perhaps for Mao and De Gaulle, is known to the world audience or entrances it like Churchill, Franklin D. Roosevelt, Theodore Roosevelt, Woodrow Wilson, Harry S. Truman, Lenin, Stalin, Trotsky, Hitler, Mussolini, Eisenhower, Nehru, Gandhi.

Month's Bitter Fighting In Viet Highlands Ends

IA DRANG VALLEY, South Viet Nam (AP) — A month of bitter fighting in Viet Nam's central highlands has ended.

American and South Vietnamese troops who mauled four Communist North Vietnamese regiments have left the bloody Ia Drang Valley and have gone to seek their enemy elsewhere.

Before they left, they reported 2,344 North Vietnamese dead. More are believed to have died in battles beneath the towering hills which mark Viet Nam's frontier with Cambodia, 200 miles north of Saigon.

For days men of the U.S. 1st Cavalry, Airmobile, Division and a brigade of South Vietnamese paratroopers have been searching the region, trying to provoke a fight. Prisoners say that what is left of more than one division of North Vietnamese has slipped away.

Senior American and South Vietnamese officers are convinced they have handed the Communists a serious setback.

During the campaign American "Flying Horsemen" had to beat back human wave assaults which left North Vietnamese dead heaped before their positions. Snipers in trees or lurking in the undergrowth were a constant menace. In some actions, U.S. casualties were heavy.

The campaign was triggered Oct. 19 when South Vietnamese irregular troops brushed against forward elements of North Viet Nam's 325th Division concealed outside the barbed wire entranglements of the small jungle fortress of Plei Me.

South Vietnamese troops, stiffened by American advisers, fought desperately around the camp. Vietnamese tanks and U.S. artillery and warplanes smashed the Communist onslaught on Plei Me and the North Vietnamese commander ordered a withdrawal.

American cavalrymen swung into pursuit before the North Vietnamese had time to regroup. American battalions dropped into clearings from helicopters, fanned out and swept through the jungle.

As soon as an area had been searched it was abandoned. Battalions were moved 40 times between Oct. 26 and Nov. 26 to keep the Communists off balance. Helicopters flew 23,800 hours of 49,000 sorties during this period to move men and supplies.

With the men came batteries of 105mm howitzers to pound jungle hideouts of the North Vietnamese with 31,873 shells during the month.

Cooks, clerks and radiomen sometimes were pressed into service to man the guns. Pilots flew helicopters in a shuttle service to bring up shells. Altogether, the copters flew 1,031 sorties to lift guns and supplies, moving batteries 68 times. Slightly more than 11,000 tons of supplies were lifted into battle by the big choppers.

U.S. Skyraider attack bombers, veterans of the Korean War, and supersonic jets were never more than minutes away from the troops, ready to swoop down to help any outfit in trouble.

Pinpointing the targets were Air Force pilots in spotter planes slowed down to 70 miles an hour.

Dive-bombing and strafing tore great holes in the enemy forces. When hard-pressed, Army officers told the planes to drop high explosives too close to their own troops for comfort. They were willing to accept light casualties among their own men to break up North Vietnamese assaults.

Tactical warplanes flew nearly 610 sorties during the week-long battle for Plei Me and another 696 sorties for the rest of the campaign. Each plane carried two tons of explosives.

Backing up the Air Force planes were the cavalry's own flying artillery — helicopters which launched 8,188 rockets.

Strategic Air Command B52 bombers from Guam dropped 1,835 tons of bombs on the Chu Phong area where the Communists were believed to have cached their stores of rice and ammunition.

Hills rumbled as Communist munitions dumps blew up.

The 1st Battalion of the 7th Cavalry Regiment slugged it out with North Vietnamese for more than two days in a small clearing on the forward slopes of Chu Phong.

Its thinned ranks cheered wildly after the battle when the silver eagles of a full colonel were pinned on its commander, Hal Moore of Bardstown, Ky. Moore's men had withstood repeated suicidal charges and withering fire from the ridge above them.

On at least one occasion Americans outdid their adversaries in jungle cunning. A North Vietnamese heavy weapons company carrying mortars and recoilless antitank rifles was cut to pieces in less than three minutes in a night ambush laid by men of the 1st Squadron of the 9th Cavalry along a trail close to Cambodia.

Capt. Charles Knowlen of East Holden, Maine, sprang the trap.

Each of the flying cavalry's line battalions went into the battle.

Brig. Gen. Richard T. Knowles said: "I am tremendously proud of them."

Knowles noted that the Communists maneuvered well and had good fire discipline.

"We can take them," Knowles said.

Fantasies, Spy Stories Find Favor

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The word is getting around in the television business that the executives who decide what programs we shall or shall not see are still concentrating on larger-than-life spy stories and fantasies for next season's network menus.

That may be true — almost all the shows that have been announced, leaked or rumored seem to be half-hour comedies.

Although this season is still young, it should be noted that those same people put more than 30 new shows into the network schedules in September, and have not achieved one real solid hit among them.

In this connection, it is interesting that year in, year out, CBS' Red Skelton maintains his large, loyal audience and his show is almost always up among the five or six top programs.

The form of the hour show is almost as predictable as the arrival of Christmas from the moment when Skelton, in tuxedo, appears for his opening monologue to the "silent spot" at the end.

The star, television's iron man with a record of a weekly show for 14 years, has his good weeks and his bad ones, depending on the material in his monologue and the ingenuity of his sketch writers.

The moments when he does his pantomime invariably are memorable. The dance numbers, in style, choreography and handsome sets and costumes, rank with those on the Andy Williams show, which means very good indeed.

Tuesday night was one of Skelton's off shows. The jokes in the monologue failed to catch the studio audience fancy. There was a long and inane sketch involving a restaurant and barber shop that was full of soap suds and flying spaghetti. Finally there was a pointless and slightly vulgar doctor-patient sketch that rambled around.

It was a very ragged show, but there were still a few fine moments, notably a short pantomime bit by Red, playing a meek little convict turning into an aggressive lion of a man when he discovers he can swing a sledge hammer.

Recommended tonight: "Ice Capades of 1966," CBS, 9-10 EST, with Arthur Godfrey, Liza Minnelli and Roger Miller.

Six Burn To Death In House Fire

QUAKERTOWN, Pa. (AP) — Numbered by the tragedy, a 52-year-old father sat in a state police car today and watched investigators probe the smoking ruins where six children burned to death.

The victims were the children or foster children of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Allen Sr. The children died Tuesday night when a fast-spreading fire trapped them in their one-story wooden home in a rural area near this southeastern Pennsylvania community. A seventh child was critically burned.

Allen sat in the back seat of the state police car staring straight ahead as investigators in the pre-dawn darkness tried to learn what caused the fire.

Chester Allen Jr., 19, said the victims were his brothers Eric 1, and David 11, and four foster children his parents cared for: Jack Jones, 2; Robin Jones, 8; Penny Jones, 6; and Ronnie Jones, 7.

The son said he left his father at the house Tuesday night and went with his wife, Elaine, and a sister, Elizabeth, 17, to pick up the mother at a nursing home where she worked. Chester Jr. said when they left, his father had been trying to light the furnace to ward off sub-freezing cold.

As they returned home about 45 minutes later, Elizabeth said, "We saw the flames going up one side of the house. By the time we got there the whole joint was gone."

Chester Jr. said he and his mother tried vainly to reach the trapped and screaming children, but were driven back by the intense heat. Finally the mother managed to drag out a son, Alonzo, 12, who was taken to a Quakertown hospital in critical condition. Chester Jr. and his mother also were treated for burns.

All the victims were Negroes.

Two Brothers Die In Fire

KANSAS CITY AP -- Two brothers, Dwight Cody Adams, 2, and Edward Leroy Adams, 3, died of smoke inhalation in a house fire Tuesday despite their mother's attempt to save them.

Mrs. Claude Adams crawled into her burning home through a window and carried out the boys under her arms. First aid administered by firemen and hospital attendants failed to revive them.

Mrs. Adams had gone next door to use a neighbor's telephone, and saw smoke coming from her home. Cause of the fire was not determined. Damage was estimated at $1,750.

Cotton Producers Given Data On 1966 Federal Program

By MAX STURM

PORTAGEVILLE, - Southeast Missouri cotton farmers are currently coming to grips with the 1966 federal cotton program and to help them with information and suggestions the Missouri Cotton Producers Association is holding a series of meetings throughout the region.

A meeting will be held in Sikeston tonight at 7 p.m. in the American Legion building for Mississippi, Scott, and Stoddard county cotton farmers.

Hilton Bracey, executive vice-president of the association stated that the new cotton program "permits about as many choices or possibilities as to acreage and price support levels as there are cotton farmers.

"It would be virtually impossible for a farmer to choose the best plan for a particular farm under all circumstances and conditions because there are too many 'unknowns' involved to arrive at a clear-cut decision," he said. He is urging area farmers to learn all they can about the new programs and to finally base their decisions as to planting levels "on their desire or lack of desire to stay in the cotton business."

He declared it was his opinion that farmers and areas that grow cotton during the current transition period "will be the ones most likely to end up with a share of the cotton producing business after the 'wash-out' is over." He added that the procedure chosen by various farmers to use in the 1966 program "will have a significant bearing on the future of cotton in Southeast Missouri."

In the MCPA meetings, being attended by area business leaders as well as farmers, Bracey suggests that farmers ask themselves this question: "Do we want to grow cotton?" in considering how to work next year under the federal program.

"If the answer to the question is 'no,' and the farmer realizes that he would in effect be putting himself and his community out of the cotton business by not growing cotton, then in all probability he would be well advised to cut back as much as he can on his cotton production. If the farmer answers 'yes' to the question, then he should plant all of the cotton he is permitted under the new program, and do everything he can in the way of cultural practices and management to produce the maximum amount possible on his land," Bracey explained.

The MCPA official, who is personally conducting the series of regional meetings, discussed a detailed statement on "Why Grow Cotton?" containing seven major reasons that farmers should consider, he stated, in addition to the "arithmetic" of prices and payment levels on an individual farm basis:

"1. To stay in the cotton business. Producers and areas that grow cotton during the current transition period are the ones most likely to end up with a share of the cotton business after the 'wash-out' is over. Those that grow all of the cotton they are permitted to grow under the new program and keep their operations from falling apart will likely stay in the cotton business. Those that curtail their operations and live on "cut-back" payments will likely fall by the wayside.

"2. To protect land values. Land values of the Missouri delta are tied directly to cotton production. Curtailment of production and eventual loss of cotton allotments would in all probability result in lower prices for farm land. All landowners and the economic well-being of agricultural communities would be adversely affected by depressed land values. Landowners who are paying for land purchased at prices based on cotton production would be particularly hard pressed to meet their financial obligations.

"3. To utilize farm machinery. Mechanical cotton pickers and other farm machinery depreciate in value and cost the owner whether used or not. Idle farm machinery is a mighty poor investment for any farmer and especially to the farmer who is still paying for a machine that has become 'unemployed' as a result of curtailed cotton production.

"4. To lower per unit costs. Cotton production must be maintained at the highest possible level if production costs are to be further reduced. Per unit costs increase as volume goes down -- decrease as volume goes up.

"5. To maintain processing, storage and handling facilities. Efficient ginning, storage and handling are essential to the success of the cotton industry. Modern ginning machinery makes it possible for producers to hold-down production costs through use of mechanical cotton pickers. Local storage assures area of production identification which is becoming increasingly important in the merchandising of cotton. Contraction of ginning, storage, and handling facilities would almost certainly result in loss of efficiencies and higher charges to producers.

"6. To provide employment. Employment of labor is of major importance to the economy as a whole, and a continuing supply of labor is absolutely necessary to the production of cotton and all other farm crops. Labor forced to move from an area where production is severely curtailed in all likelihood will not return, and will not be available to meet any future need.

"7. To support the economics of cotton producing areas. The cotton industry does not and cannot stand alone. It is a part of the economy of the community. A healthy cotton industry is necessary for economic stability and growth in Southeast Missouri. The entire community would suffer from a drastic curtailment of cotton production."

The MCPA over the years has advocated producing as much cotton as possible per acre on as many acres as possible in keeping with balanced farming practices, as opposed to leaving land out of cotton production with the farmers receiving direct subsidies from the federal government for doing so.

While studying the new cotton program, Bootheel farmers also must take into consideration other inovations in cotton production and ginning that have been developed in recent years. These include the use of fertilizers and chemicals for disease and weed control, new types of cotton, and new machines. For example, in the field of mechanization a new type of picking machine was tried out in Missouri this year which has been used successfully in Texas and other southern states for several years.

While the conventional machine can be run through a field of cotton several times, picking the cotton as it opens, this new type, known as a "stripper" goes through one time. This means that most or all of the cotton in a field must be open and ready for picking, which is aided by the use of a defoliant chemical sprayed on by airplanes. This machine was so successful that several large acreage farmers in the area have ordered them for use in next year's harvest.

In the ginning field, with the plants being deluged with cotton at the peak of the harvest through the use of rapid picking machines by producers who could operate them 24 hours a day when conditions were good, something had to be done so that a gin could process the cotton faster. For years, it was a rule of thumb that one gin stand could turn out one bale of cotton per hour. Most Missouri gins had either three or four such stands, and a few had five. The ginning machinery industry, however, has developed an improved system incorporating two stands, operated by a push-button console, which can turn out 120 bales per day. Several of these have been used to replace the older slower machinery in Southeast Missouri.

Spradling Leaves For Tampa Session

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- State Sen. Albert M. Spradling Jr. departed Monday for Tampa, Fla., to attend sessions of the Board of Managers of the Council on State Governments as Missouri's representative.

Currently the vice president of the national organization, he will become chairman of the board of managers on Friday, final day of the four-day conference.

Spradling said numerous matters affecting state governments and their subdivisions are to be considered, but among the most important is a proposal by Dr. James B. Conant on higher education compacts among the states.

Three Felony Cases In Court

KENNETT -- Twenty-eight cases were included in the proceedings of Dunklin County Magistrate Court held Wednesday, with Judge Leon McAnally presiding and Charles H. Baker, prosecuting attorney, representing the State.

Three of the cases were felonies. Odda Lawrence Ham, 42, formerly of Holcomb and now of near Poplar Bluff, was bound over to Circuit Court for trial on a charge of statutory rape, following a preliminary hearing. The preliminary hearing of Paul Hickman, 18, of Kennett, on a charge of tampering with a motor vehicle, and William B. Gooch, on a charge of forgery, were continued to December 2.

Chester Ladyman, 40, of Campbell entered a plea of guilty on a charge of willful injury to property and was given a fine of $25 and a six-month jail sentence but was paroled upon condition of good behavior and payment of $18.70 costs.

Pat Nugent In Air Guard

MILWAUKEE, Wis. AP--Pat Nugent, boy friend of Luci Baines Johnson, has been a member of the Wisconsin Air National Guard for the last three months, it was disclosed Tuesday by his superior officer, Lt. Col. Kilian T. Morkin.

Morkin said Nugent, a June graduate at Marquette University, attended two day-long, monthly drills of the 128th Air Refueling Group at Gen. Billy Mitchell Field here in September, October and November.

Nugent, 22, whose home is at Waukegan, Ill., spent the long Thanksgiving holiday with Luci at the LBJ Ranch at Johnson City, Tex., and reported Sunday for six weeks of active duty at Lackland Air Force Base near San Antonio, Tex.

Seasoned Workers Disappear

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Prosperity and rising employment are combining to put a bind on that once all but limitless market, the part-time or seasonal worker. Many stores are finding it harder this year to get competent extra help to handle the December rush of shoppers.

At the other end of the scale, prosperity and a tighter labor market are making it harder to fill highly skilled jobs, especially in those industries where discoveries, new techniques and products seem to be almost an everyday occurrence.

The Sunday papers are crammed with ads from employers looking for the right man or woman to fill the highly specialized jobs. Often, it's becoming a matter of luring personnel away from other companies or other sections of the nation.

At the less esoteric level, the supplying of the hordes of extra hands to meet the retail shopping spree, the problem is of a different order.

In the past, housewives have been a mainstay. They worked for a few weeks, used the extra income to handle troublesome bills or to furnish welcome pin money for their own holiday gift shopping.

Some merchants report that this year prosperity in the form of larger paychecks for the family breadwinner apparently has made many housewives who used to apply for the December jobs stay at home. They don't need the extra money as much as they need to rest their feet.

Also, higher pay scales in many lines have made the part-time wage scales look puny by comparison. The part-time worker is getting choosy.

And in the big cities, the downtown stores report that many of their housewife-type helpers of yesteryear have moved to the suburbs and aren't interested any more.

The problem, of course, isn't confined just to December. Retail stores have complained for some time that the higher pay in jobs that women also think have higher status, such as office work, has crimped the market for clerks.

When a performer "ad libs," he is saying something which was not in the script, was not rehearsed. The term actually comes from music. "Ad libitum" (in Latin "at pleasure") is a direction signifying that the performance of the passage in question is left to the discretion of the performer; also that part of a work may be omitted.

"Are We Heading For World War III?"

By J. Lester McGee, D.D.

A British Editor once asked an audience of ministers why so many sermons are dull. When no one answered, he supplied this reason: "They are dull because preachers are trying to answer questions that no one is asking."

My friends, this morning I am trying to answer an irksome question that is on the quivering lips of every American. ARE WE HEADING FOR WORLD WAR III? And I am not so sure such a question is out of place in contemporary pulpit, for it has vast spiritual and social ramifications.

If I am any student of history at all, I see something ominous on the world horizon. Of course, I recognize the possibility of being dead wrong, but I had rather be wrong, even to the point of stupidity, and awaken you, than to be right and do you no good. I am not a militarist. I am not a statesman. I am not a politician. I am a minister of Christ, and this is a sermon.

When we think of war, there comes to mind a set pattern--a declaration of war, the beginning of hostilities, an open slugfest with nuclear bombs and other nuclear arms as ours and communism's chief weapons. But I seriously doubt that taking place for a while at least. Communism does not want open military warfare with us yet, and it will not happen unless we are all inadvertently dragged into it.

Dr. Toynbee, the British historian, has said that he does not see the time when the Russians will feel strong enough to take on the United States in open, all-out military warfare. In fact, from all I have been able to learn, after a careful study of the Marxian philosophy, it is communism's strategy not to open military hostilities herself against America. Hers is a long range plan. Communism takes the long way home. So far as America is concerned, the Russians will bide their time. I am not so sure about Red China. But we can look for one sore spot after another erupting on the surface of the globe, little revolutions, keeping us and the U.N. in a constant stew running here and there putting out the fire and trying to restore peace and order. And all the while the USSR and Red China, behind this smoke screen, feverishly working to bring their economic order and nuclear stockpiles to a level comparable to ours.

Wishful thinkers keep hoping for a state of peace in the world, but there is no peace. The Cuban cataclysm, the Vietnam debacle, all southeast Asia in a ferment, Korea seething with apprehension, Red China pawing the shoreline looking longingly at Formosa, Africa foaming and steaming, Germany divided by an ugly wall, Latin America in a perpetual state of unrest, demonstrations in front of Embassies. Skirmishes, upheavals, riots, armed revolts on every continent and in every nook and corner of the earth--one festering sore after another coming to a head and all according to the communist time-table.

Whose tactical strategy is CO-EXISTENCE?

No one knows exactly what "co-existence" means. There is a feeling that the present Soviet government is somewhat less militarily belligerent than Red China, but no one who looks at the situation realistically suggests that there has ever been a significant change in the Russian objective. Their eventual aim is still WORLD DOMINATION.

You remember what Lenin said: "As long as capitalism and socialism exist, we cannot live in peace; in the end, one or the other will triumph. A funeral dirge will be sung over the Soviet Republic or over world capitalism."

Russia is staking everything on a total moral, spiritual and psychological collapse of democracy and free enterprise as a popular liveable way of life in America. The adherents of communism believe -- and that belief is a strong conviction, a flaming passion -- that our way of life is doomed to failure because of its weaknesses and encumbrances, which somehow they see, but we are not able to see; or if we do, we shrug our shoulders and disinterestedly pass by. Russia thinks she forsees the eventual decay of our democracy. To them democracy and free enterprise have to fail. They will fail. The collapse of our economy is something they are staking everything on.

What then is the over-all Marxian strategy? Forment trouble throughout the world without becoming directly involved. Sap the democratic strength. And while that moral, spiritual and psychological decay is working within, she will continue to wear us and the Western World down by ingeniously planned uprisings in every part of the world, and minutely scheduled aggressive moves on the part of her already bullied and hypnotized Satellites to whom she lends just enough false encouragement and military arms to feed their national ego. Little does she care for their ultimate sorrow and ruin. Her chief purpose is to demoralize the Western World, to weaken and wear us down, waiting until we eventually crack up. Then with one masterful stroke, having already infiltrated government, education, business and religion, start the bloody revolution.

Now that isn't something I read or conjured up. It is not a hypothetical proposition that makes good "open-eyed, mouth-gaping" pulpit palaver. Every student of Marxism knows that is the strategy. When we do go to war with communism on a world scale, we will already be wearied, weakened and defeated within. That is an advantage the Communists want, and they are staking everything on getting it.

General Eisenhower in one of his last speeches before leaving the White House said: "The problem in defense is how far you can go without destroying from within what you are trying to defend from without."

There it is -- the fiendish communist plot. In defending our way of life on a thousand little fronts we are speeding up its decay within. Then at the strategic moment communism steps in for the kill. And that is what I am afraid is happening, which leads me now to the really serious thought of my sermon.

Could there be more truth than we are willing to admit in the marxist appraisal of our democracy? Are there such glaring weaknesses in our way of life as to jeopardize its chances for survival? Are there encumbrances slowly wearing us down? Are we nearing a moral and spiritual breakdown?

I venture an answer which may be misunderstood, but here goes ----

Our capitalistic system may be headed for the rocks, unless we re-think, re-organize and revitalize our whole economy. The old method of fair and friendly competition is dying simply because it has been emptied of the true Christian spirit and is now hollow and dry. My friends, when your profit motives becomes your all-consuming motive to the exclusion of every humanitarian outlook, then dry-rot sets in, and your capitalistic system takes a tumble. When materialistic and secularistic thinking supplants the Christian principle and the Christian in-reach and out-reach of life, then the days of your economy are numbered. A materialistic, humanistic philosophy which puts possessions before service and holds things as more sacred than human welfare, you can't deny the dry-rot.

Dr. Charles Malik, Lebanese minister to the United Nations, and a distinguished layman of the Eastern Orthodox Church, made a speech some time back. The news services didn't pick it up. I suppose the reason was that it was too disconcerting to the American ego. But he said: "the trouble is that you in America, who have a great spiritual heritage and a great spiritual message to give to the rest of the world, are not giving it. You give the impression that in America only material things count . . . . . So on and on you try to outbid Russia at the level of gross materialism. You forget that human greed is insatiable. You can never satisfy it. Even if you do outbid the Russians on that level, they have won, because it is the materialism that has won and not the spiritual ideals that so-called Christian America professes."

Who can deny that our American democracy has fallen sick?

Dr. Laubach, picturing the vast multitude of one and a half billion men, women and children--more than half the world's population -- hungry, sick, troubled, angry and on the march in search of social justice, predicted that Asia and Africa will go communist in five years UNLESS WE STOP BEING ONE-LEGGED CHRISTIANS. He warned that if that happens, America will be gone in ten years, engulfed by the double threat of communism and nuclear warfare.

My friends, let me be specific in a field in which I have a right to speak. And I say it even at the risk of being called a calamity howler. We are not as Christian a nation as we rationalize ourselves into believing we are. And Russia knows that. Do you think Russia would dare tamper with our way of life if she thought we were as sold on it as were our early American fathers?

I think it is high time for somebody to tell the truth. Fifty million Americans are avowedly godless. And just how Christian are the 115 million Americans who statistically belong to somebody's church? How many of them actually practice the Golden Rule? How many of them stand four-square for righteousness and justice? How many of them attend church regularly? What percentage of them are in church today or this weekend?

Rome survived about a thousand years. Greek civilization survived about 500 years. We are a little less than 200 years old, and unless we change the trend we may not live another 200 years as a civilization and a first class nation. Our very existence as a sovereign nation is in jeopardy. A nation can carry its indebtedness. It can correct its errors in judgment. It can re-build its physical wreckage after natural disaster. But history makes plain that immorality and godlessness lead to destruction.

So you see, my friends, as a minister with some prophetic responsibility, it isn't exactly war with the communists that I fear. IT IS THE DISINTEGRATION AND DECAY OF OUR CHRISTIAN CIVILIZATION THAT I DREAD, WHICH WOULD BE EVEN WORSE THAN WAR. UNLESS WE EXPERIENCE SOME KIND OF MORAL AND RELIGIOUS AWAKENING IN THIS COUNTRY, THE COMMUNISTS WILL ACCOMPLISH THEIR GODLESS AIMS WITHOUT WAR.

Are we heading for World War III?

We are heading for something, worse -- more disastrous --: A COLLAPSE OF OUR MORALE, A LOSS OF OUR SPIRITUAL HERITAGE, THE DISINTEGRATION OF OUR CHRISTIAN - DEMOCRATIC IDEALISM.

What can we do? Can we save ourselves and our beloved America? Can we experience such an awakening that the communists will be jolted out of their egotistical assumption that everything is going their way right down the line? Can we make ourselves strong within? Can we find that spiritual power that will give us the decided edge? Can we upset the Marxian time-table? Can we lead the world to a just and lasting peace?

YES, YES, YES!!!!And that is why this discussion is necessary from the pulpit.

First of all, my friends, this is a PERSONAL MATTER. The place to begin is with ourselves. We must humble ourselves. We must repent of our sins. We must learn to discipline ourselves and re-organize our lives and our philosophies about the traditional spiritual values and concepts of life. We must simplify our living, slow down our pace, settle our racial differences and get back into our churches and out into the world with as much Christian Love as American Money. WE MUST GIVE GOD THE CHANCE HE NEEDS AND CANNOT HAVE UNLESS WE LET HIM HAVE IT!

Do you recall that phrase of Ignatius Loyola about the man who put on spurs but no bridle to ride a fiery horse? Too many of us have been doing that with ourselves in this country -- spurs but no bridle to ride a fiery horse -- and now we face a world dilemma.

Either we are going to discipline ourselves for our own sakes, for our nation's sake, and our world's sake, or else discipline will be imposed upon us from without. Men know right but do wrong. Men free to worship according to conscience use that freedom not to worship at all. Men free to build a commonwealth use their trained minds for exploiting others and set going forces that destroy democracy. Men who know the value of laws become lawless. Men who want a peaceful world are not at peace in their own homes, in their churches, and in their communities. We produce too many citizens with more wit than wisdom, more cleverness than character, using liberty for license.

You know the truth: "Liberty is not the right to do what you choose. It is the responsibility of choosing to do what is right."

And that is where religion comes in. You must get back into the church and become a vital part of its effort to save our society. That may not be all of the solution, but it is a definite and indispenable part of it.

Pericles built a civilization upon culture, and it failed. Caesar built a civilization upon power, and it failed. The Medo-Persians built a great nation, but they drank their way to doom, and that civilization crashed to the earth. Egypt flourished until she forgot God, and she went down. Greece, under Alexander, conquered the world, but he couldn't conquer himself and died in a drunken orgy. Rome was once the proud center of the world, but luxury and lust ate at the center of her life, and she perished . . . .

Our fathers built this nation upon God and religion.

Do you recall that picture of George Washington at Valley Forge? His little army was almost starving and freezing to death. Everything they held dear was at stake. They were fighting against surmountable odds. BUT OUT THERE IN THE SNOW WAS GEORGE WASHINGTON ON HIS KNEES. THAT WAS THE SPIRIT THAT BUILT AMERICA. THAT HAS BEEN THE SPIRIT THAT SUSTAINED AMERICA. THAT WILL BE THE SPIRIT THAT WILL SAVE AMERICA!

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

To the Editor:

Amongst the hollow cry of "Get out of Vietnam" peace-seekers and draft-card burners, emerges the most inspiring words of two of our country's illustrious patriots. Here they are in whole and in part, respectively:

"These are the times that try men's souls. The summer soldier and the sunshine patriot will, in this crisis, shrink from the service of their country; but he that stands it now deserves the love and thanks of men and women.

"Tyranny, like hell, is not easily conquered; yet we have this consolation with us, that the harder the conflict, the more glorious the triumph. What we obtain too cheap, we esteem too lightly; it is dearness only that gives everything its value. Heaven knows how to put a proper price upon its goods; and it would be strange indeed if so celestial an article as 'Freedom' should not be highly rated."--Thomas Paine.

"It is in vain, sir, to extenuate the matter. Gentlemen may cry peace, peace--but there is no peace. The war is actually begun! The next gale that sweeps from the North will bring to our ears the clash of resounding arms. Our brethren are already in the field! Why stand we here idle?. . .Is life so dear, or peace so sweet, as to be purchased at the price of chains or slavery? . . . I know not what course others may take; but as for me, give me liberty or give me death;"
--Patrick Henry.

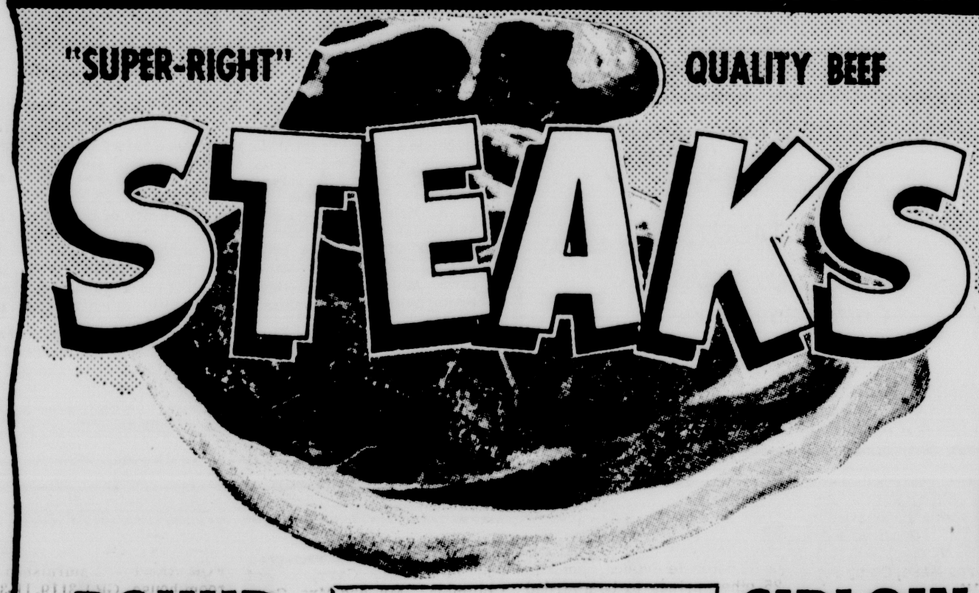

I sincerely hope these inspiring thoughts rekindle the spark in those who need rekindling.

Farrell Back At Stand

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Charles Farrell is back at his old stand, looking at 64 just as athletic and as handsome as in his heyday as a Hollywood leading man.

Farrell has resumed his duties as managing director of the Racquet Club, which he founded with Ralph Bellamy in 1934 and built into the favorite desert playground of the stars. Six years ago he sold his interest for a reported million dollars, remaining to oversee the operation.

But Farrell differed with the owners over policy and became estranged from the Racquet Club. The place was sold again, and the new owners saw the wisdom of inducing Charlie's return.

"Well, I ought to know the operation by now," grinned the onetime star, whose geniality can keep guests and help happy. He is always on hand to make a foursome for tennis or join VIP's for dinner.

One such recent visitor was Janet Gaynor, who dropped in with her new husband, producer Paul Gregory. Her reunion with Charlie created a wave of nostalgia, the pair having costarred in "Seventh Heaven" and a string of other romantic films of 30-odd years ago.

"I see Janet every year or so, and we always have a great time together," said Farrell. "She was always afraid she would look wizened when she got older, because she's so tiny. But she looks just wonderful."

Farrell, too. The desert life obviously agrees with him.

Minus his wartime Navy service and six costarring years in the television series "My Little Margie," he has wintered here half his lifetime. He became enough of a local figure to serve as mayor of Palm Springs.

Though he remains intensely interested in Palm Springs progress, he eschews politics now. He is dedicated to pursuing the fortunes of the Racquet Club and the good life.

Dry And Cold Weather In Nation

Dry and cold weather covered broad areas of the nation today with much of the Southeast again feeling the sting of freezing temperatures.

The mercury dropped to the 20s in most of the Southeast, with freezing marks reported in sections of northern Florida. The coldest spots were in northern New England with temperatures dropping to near zero.

One of the lowest readings in the southeast was 18 in Birmingham, Ala. It was warmer in some Midwest cities than in Atlanta, with a reading of 25. In Florida, Gainesville reported 30 and it was 25 in Tallahassee.

Southwesterly winds from the Gulf of Mexico brought some moderation of temperatures in the nation's midsection. The warming trend was expected to spread across the Midwest to the East later today. No freezing was reported in the Pacific Coast, the Southwest desert, Texas and southern Florida.

Graduate Heads Alumni

LILBOURN: Donnie Westmoreland, a 1961 graduate of Lilbourn High School, was elected president of the Lilbourn Alumni association at a business meeting held before the association's annual dance Saturday.

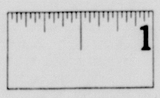

Other officers elected were Joe Albright, vice-president, and George Camp, secretary-treasurer.

More than 150 alumni and friends attended the dance. Representatives of classes from 1941 through 1964 were present.

Q—Did Davy Crockett ever serve in Congress?

A—Yes, the famous Indian scout was elected from Tennessee to the House of Representatives.

FORT GORDON, GA. (AHTNC) --Pvt. Larrie D. Roderman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude E. Roderman, 1001 N. Sassafras, Dexter, Mo., completed an 11-week communications center specialist course at the Army Southeastern Signal School, Fort Gordon, Ga., Nov. 26.

Roderman was trained in the use of teletype sets, tape relay operations and in the operation of long distance communications equipment.

The 21-year-old soldier entered the Army in June 1965 and completed basic combat training at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo.

He is a 1962 graduate of Dexter High School.

Gary Paul Stanley of Kennett, recently enlisted in the U.S. Army for a period of three years, it was reported today by Staff Sergeant A. B. Ledbetter of the U.S. Army Recruiting Station in Sikeston, Mo. Private Stanley enlisted under the Army's "High School Graduate-Specialist" program and chose to enlist for training in the Army Security Agency. His parents Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Stanley reside at 315 Central St., Kennett, Mo. For more information about the "Graduate Specialist" program contact Sgt. Ledbetter at Sikeston or call GR 1-3419.

BLYTHEVILLE AFB, ARK., --With the aide of American aircraft, persons can now send Christmas gifts to U.S. servicemen in Viet Nam, according to the Department of Defense.

The special airlift is required due to the heavy avalanche of items which groups and organizations, large and small, have collected to demonstrate their support for the U.S. effort in Viet Nam.

Only packages from recognized civic and veteran organizations can be accepted. Individuals desiring to send gifts should contact their local organizations which are collecting gifts for the servicemen.

For instructions on shipping, organizations should contact the base transportation officer, Blytheville Air Force Base, on extension 388 or 387. Gifts will not be accepted if marked for specific individuals or groups of individuals.

CAMP PENDLETON, CALIF. (FHTNC) -- Marine Private Donald R. Shelton, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. James V. Shelton of 703 Greer St., Sikeston, Mo., has completed individual combat training with the Second Infantry Training Regiment at the Marine Corps Base, Camp Pendleton, Calif.

The four-week course included over 200 hours of instruction under simulated combat conditions, small unit tactics in both conventional and guerrilla warfare, day and night combat, reconnaissance and combat patrolling, and the effective use of infantry weapons.

He is undergoing four weeks of basic specialist training in his military occupational field. These occupational fields include artillery, infantry, motor transport and supply. Marines assigned duties with infantry units will be taught infantry sub-specialties, such as the machine gun, grenade launcher, rifle or mortar.

Marines assigned to highly technical specialties have been sent to a military technical school for their specialist training.

The Leathernecks bound for the Pacific will receive additional training at the Staging Battalion at Camp Pendleton, Calif. This training will emphasize jungle warfare, patrolling and civic action, based on experiences gained in Viet Nam.

MEMPHIS, TENN. (FHTNC) --Airman Apprentice Ronald W. Cranick, USN, son of Mrs. Mabel Cranick of Route 3, Sikeston, Mo., has graduated from the Aviation Mechanical Fundamentals School at the Naval Air Technical Training Center, Memphis, Tenn.

During the four-week course he was introduced to mathematics, physics and principles of electricity. He studied atomic structure, static and dynamic electricity, magnetic theory, and the theory of construction aircraft batteries.

This course prepares Navy and Marine Corps personnel for entrance into more advanced courses at the center.

New Polaroid Color Pack Camera.

One-half the Price!

Polaroid has just introduced an economy model of the famous Color Pack Camera. It's called the Model 104.

Same great film. Same fast loading. Same electric eye. Same big color prints in 60 seconds (black and whites in just 10). Yet Polaroid has figured out a way to bring it to you for only about half the price of the original model.

When you invent something that's this much fun, you've just got to find a way to put it in the hands of a lot of people.

Come on in. We love to show it off.

Today in U.S. History

Today is Wednesday, Dec. 1, the 335th day of 1965. There are 30 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1942, nationwide gasoline rationing went into effect in World War II.

On this date

In 1783, the first hydrogen balloon —carrying two men —rose from the ground in Paris.

In 1865, habeas corpus rights were restored in the northern states.

In 1917, the kings of Norway, Denmark and Sweden agreed to maintain neutrality toward all belligerent powers.

In 1936, President Franklin D. Roosevelt opened an inter-American conference in Buenos Aires.

In 1942, Adm. Jean Darlan became chief of state in North Africa.

Ten years ago — The United States, Britain and France rejected Soviet claims that the four-power status of Berlin was ended and that the East German government was sovereign in East Berlin.

Five years ago — Patrice Lumumba, the deposed premier of the Congo, was arrested by troops of Col. Joseph Mobutu, head of the Congolese army regime.

One year ago — The United Nations General Assembly narrowly averted a showdown between the United States and Russia over unpaid Soviet assessments.

"Let's go over and cheer up poor Ellen."

"What's she sad about?"

"She has a complex and thinks everyone is trying to avoid her."

"Why doesn't she talk to her psychiatrist?"

"She can't seem to get an appointment with him."

WALKING ROOM ONLY

Fall is with us once again,
With pigskins in the air,
We go with expectation
To see how the team will fare.
We sit erectly in our seats,
Stay seated? Yes, we do,
And from behind the strolling fans
Play a game of peek-a-boo.

JET AGE TREE HOUSE—A West German architect has come up with this model for a hotel along the lines of an ultramodern tree house. Designed to be transportable and quickly put together, it could be set up wherever there is a temporary shortage of accommodations for travelers. Individual units also could be converted into three-room apartments.

President Johnson Plans Parley To Plan Anti-Price Rise Drive

NoChange In Soviet Position

MOSCOW - Foreign minister Andrei A. Gromyko said today the first condition for any progress in solving the Viet Nam problem was a halt to U.S. bombing of North Viet Nam, British sources reported.

Gromyko met with visiting British Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart. They discussed Viet Nam for 35 minutes at the end of a meeting that lasted 2 hours and 45 minutes.

Gromyko did not say what would, in the Soviet view, come after a halt in the bombing. But he added that the Soviet Union fully supports the points for a Viet Nam settlement put forward by North Viet Nam last April, the sources added.

They include a complete American withdrawal to leave Vietnamese problems for local settlement. Washington has said it will not abandon South Viet Nam.

Gromyko said the Soviet Union has no authority to negotiate on Viet Nam.

These points are all viewed as a restatement of the Soviet stand on Viet Nam. Stewart planned to duscuss the subject with Gromyko after dinner tonight to see if anything new could be discovered.

Wage-Hour Suit Filed

ST. LOUIS -- Violation of the overtime pay and other provisions of the fair labor standards act by two Sikeston firms and the president of each was charged in a civil injunction suit on file today in U.S. district court.

Pyramid Roofing Co., and Stoner Contracting Co., Inc., both of 114 Branum, and Lucien M. Stoner, 714 Lanning St., in Sikeston, were named in a complaint filed by Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz.

It accused the three of failure to pay some of their employes the required time and a half for overtime, now required after 40 hours per work week. Failure to maintain required time and pay records also was charged.

Jack R. Younce, supervisor of the labor department's wage-hour office, said there were previous investigations in 1958, 1959, 1961 and 1964.

Each time, he said, requirements of the law were explained to Stoner, who promised future compliance.

Twitty Says Education Pays Off

Supt. of Schools Lynn Twitty told how education pays off in dollars and cents in an address to the Kiwanis club at the Holiday Inn Tuesday night.

He said that the average college graduate, during the productive years of his life, would make $244,000 more money than the average earnings made by graduates of the eighth grade and that college graduates would more than double the earnings of the average high school graduate.

Good citizenship is another dividend. A recent study showed that 91 per cent of college graduates in an area voted, where only 50 per cent of the other citizens voted, Twitty reported.

Army rejections were mentioned and the percentage rejected ranged from 12.3 percent in states with a high level of education to 34.9 per cent in states showing a low level, Twitty reported.

In discussing the costs of education, he mentioned that district R6 last year spent a total of $2,200,000 on its educational program, but that only $605,000 of this sum came to the board of education in direct taxes. The balance, $1,595,000.00, came from government allotments for the vocational educational program, tuition and other sources.

He called attention to the fact that the annual cost per student in the Sikeston district totaled $361, lowest in the County and which is about $200 less than the average cost per student throughout the United States.

Don Agnew, cashier of the Security National Bank was inducted into membership by Past Kiwanis President Harold Hill. Ruel Gatewood and Roger Sherman, joint chairmen of the Christmas tree sales drive, explained plans for Christmas tree sales on Saturday afternoon from 1 p.m. to 4:30 p.m.

This will be a house to house sale, with 20 Kiwanis members manning eight trucks loaded with Christmas trees. John Donoho, chairman of the annual fruit cake sale, reported that more than 80 per cent of the cakes are sold.

Doctors Look At Spacemen

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The Gemini 7 and 6 astronauts had a five-hour appointment with the doctors today to make certain they are physically and mentally fit for their doubleheader space launching.

For the Gemini 7 crew, Air Force Lt. Col. Frank Borman and Navy Cmdr. James A. Lovell Jr., it was the final major check before they ride a Titan 2 rocket into the sky Saturday to kick off the twin shot. Scheduled blastoff time for the 14-day endurance mission is 2:30 p.m.

The Gemini 6 astronauts, Navy Cmdr. Walter M. Schirra Jr. and Air Force Maj. Thomas P. Stafford, undergo a less extensive exam. They will have a final physical three days before the scheduled Dec. 13 liftoff of their two-day flight.

The two spacecraft are to rendezvous, perhaps within a few inches, in what would be an historic space feat.

The first Gemini 7 weather report issued today forecast satisfactory conditions in the Cape Kennedy area Saturday, with a cloud ceiling of 3,000 feet, winds 9 to 17 miles an hour, seas 2 to 3 feet and 70 degrees temperatures.

Marine Raps Viet Cong Flag Bearers

WASHINGTON - Marine commandant Gen. Wallace M. Greene has blistered Americans who carry the Communist Viet Cong flag.

"Obviously," he said Tuesday, "the display of an enemy flag alongside our own flag in the capital of our country in front of the White House, is an insult to every American, living and dead."

Greene told a news conference he went personally last Saturday to watch a Washington demonstration where thousands objected to administration policy in Viet Nam.

The march included some who carried the Viet Cong flag.

Cost Of Living Is Concern

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP) -- President Johnson, concerned about record living costs rising at a close-to-inflation rate, plans an early meeting with key economic advisers to map a federal campaign against further hikes in price tags.

Johnson is expected to meet within the next week or 10 days, either at his ranch home near here or in Washington, with what he terms his economic "quadriad" — Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler, Budget Director Charles L. Schultze, Chairman William McChesney Martin of the Federal Reserve Board and Chairman Gardner Ackley of his Council of Economic Advisers.

When it occurs, the session probably will be labeled a routine, periodic meeting of the group which, before Johnson's Oct. 8 surgery, got together with him at the White House about once every six weeks.

One reason for passing off such a conference in routine fashion — at least in advance — could be the potential impact on financial markets for stocks, bonds and, equally important, for money.

The "money markets" determine short-term borrowing costs that affect everyone from big industrialists to householders buying a new refrigerator on installment credit.

The Labor Department announced Tuesday in Washington that living costs rose by two-tenths of one per cent in October to an historic peak. The increase, the most rapid in some five years, nudged the upper limits of what the government deems noninflationary. However, federal official avoided the scare word "inflation."

Johnson's concern about a possible new wage-price spiral, born of a significant boost in federal spending to finance the war in Viet Nam, has been evident for months.

Directory Work Begins

Work will start this weekend on a new city directory for Sikeston, under the supervision of Heber K. Wells, canvass manager for the Mullin-Kille Co., Chillicothe, Ohio.

The directory is approved by the Sikeston Chamber of Commerce. It is scheduled to be completed within a month to six weeks.

Residents are being employed for the house to house canvass. Each enumerator will carry identification cards.

If no one is at home a slip will be left at the door requesting that the information be called in.

The directory will contain five sections - a classified buyers' guide, a numerical telephone guide, a street guide that lists homes and businesses on each street, an alphabetical list, and a historical preface.

The alphabetical list will include residents over 18 years of age, showing marital status, number of minor children, home ownership, occupation, home

United Fund At 90 Per Cent Of Goal

The United Fund in Sikeston has reached 90 per cent of its goal with $35,010 of $38,900 pledged.

A one-week effort will be made to close the drive no later than Tuesday.

To conclude the drive a telethon will be held Monday at 5:30 p.m. at the Daily Standard office to contact those who have not been seen.

Pledges will be taken by telephone.

Firms which have not completed their solicitation, are asked to do so by Mrs. Jewel Allen, secretary.

The 100 per cent contributors this week are Sikeston Housing Authorities, Heisserer Prescription Shop, Howle Sewing Center, Steward Steel Co., Welsh Funeral Home, and Lewis Furniture Company.

The fund support the Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, city welfare, Missouri Delta Community Hospital, Red Cross, Salvation Army, Civil Air Patrol and the United Service Organizations.

Two Emergency Patients Treated

The Missouri Delta Community hospital received two emergency patients yesterday:

Jerry Hicks, treated for burns and Michael Nelson, injured finger at school.

Baker Blasts Graham

Rep. Tom Baker, Stoddard county Democrat, today called the tactics of Speaker of the House Tom Graham "a disgrace."

He commented on Graham's ailure to include any Southeast Missouri representatives on state legislative interim committees.

The Southeast Missouri legislators supported the Missouri re-districting program of Gov. Warren E. Hearnes, which was bitterly opposed by Speaker Graham.

"I have been a member of the Missouri House of Representatives since January, 1961," Baker said. "During this time it has been my observation that the tactics employed by Tom Graham, speaker of the body, has been a disgrace to our legislative process.

"It has been my further observation that Mr. Graham has operated the office of Speaker of the House of Representatives for personal profit. If Speaker Graham feels that he is libeled by this statement, he has every right to sue me for damages, and I will meet him in court and make him reveal his earnings for the four years before he became speaker, and for the past four years while serving as speaker of the house of representatives, as proof of my charges."

Congressmen on Record Number of Junkets

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senators and representatives seem on their way toward establishing a record for globe-girdling travels during the congressional recess.

The bill for this year's overseas missions will not be known until sometime in March when all of the itemized accounts are turned in and published in the Congressional Record.

But it is expected to exceed by far the $396,876.65 spent in House members and $157,575.30 for expenses of senators.

On the whole, congressmen on missions for House and Senate committees can charge the government for their official expenses. But many say they pay their own way, including travel by commercial airliner, hotel bills and the like.

All are supposed to pay for entertainment, such as visits to theaters and night clubs. In most cases they are supposed to pay for their wives if they take them along.

The bulk of the overseas spending is covered by the use of so-called counterpart funds, or U.S.-owned currencies which have accumulated largely when surplus farm commodities are sold under the Food for Peace program for local currency rather than U.S. dollars.

The purpose of the trips include inspection of military installations, investigation of how the foreign aid program is being run, attendance at international conferences, checking into peace prospects in Viet Nam and inspection of how the Alliance for Progress program is operating in Latin America.

7th Fleet Commander Is Carrier-Bomber Expert

WASHINGTON (AP) — The man picked by President Johnson as the new commander of the 7th Fleet is a carrier-bomber expert whose planes provide a hefty punch for U.S. forces in Viet Nam.

For Rear Adm. John J. Hyland, the 53-year-old soft-spoken, balding Navy air eagle selected over the heads of 57 senior rear admirals, the job means a return to a familiar station. But this time as skipper.

"The President has said we are absolutely determined to win this war," he said Tuesday night after the announcement of his appointment.

"I'm darn sure the 7th Fleet is going to take full part."

Hyland is a one-time Naval Academy swimmer who found it more fun to fly and did it in World War II with an abandon that brought him a fist full of citations and a chest full of medals.

It also brought him at the end of the war the job of coordinating carrier-based bombings of the Japanese home islands.

This experience may be a prime reason the President reached deep into the ranks of Navy flag officers — Hyland is 111th on the seniority list — for a successor to Vice Adm. Paul J. Blackburn, who is ill in Japan.

The new commander plans to leave Friday for Hawaii and conferences at Pacific Command headquarters, then to Japan and then to his flagship, the cruiser Oklahoma City. He will get his third star, and a recess appointment as vice admiral.

Shoplifting Grows Fast

WASHINGTON (AP) — With just 19 shopping days until Christmas, the FBI reported today that shoplifting is the nation's fastest-growing form of larceny, having increased 93 per cent in the past five years.

Police last year recorded 184,473 shoplifting cases involving stolen goods worth almost $5 million.

Most shoplifters are women, the FBI said, "probably because of the ease with which the female shoplifter can conceal stolen articles on and around her person."

The FBI's legal term for shoplifting is "stealing." To fit that description, the culprit must take merchandise from a store during business hours and carry it away with the intention of theft.

Professional shoplifters steal for profit with the intention of reselling the merchandise, the FBI said.

"Usually with little income or means of support, he or she makes it his vocation, primarily working in department stores and specialty shops, though spreading his talent around where it will do the most good."

The professional prefers suburban stores over downtown stores because there is apt to be less security in the outlying establishments.

He often trains accomplices and works in pairs or threesomes, assigning one to distract the attention of the sales-person while the other helps himself to loot from the counters.

Among the amateur shoplifters are housewives, persons with small incomes and juveniles of both sexes.

"They steal for several reasons," the FBI said, "real or imaginary hardship, personal need, an opportunity presenting itself, inability to resist temptation, or — especially with juveniles — for the thrill involved."

Housewives, who sometimes steal because of their small budgets, often take wearing apparel and food and sometimes use their children as accomplices, bawling them out for dishonesty if they are caught in the act.

Farm Programs' End Seen

WASHINGTON (AP) — James G. Patton, retiring president of the National Farmers Union and a militant battler for strong government farm aid, predicted today the end of big federal agricultural programs.

"I believe that we have seen the last of legislation authorizing government programs to stabilize farm commodity prices and supplies," Patton said in an interview. He referred to the 4-year farm bill enacted this year which authorizes broadened government payments to supplement farm income.

Patton said he foresees the day when farmers will be able to go it alone with little or no subsidies or government assistance.

"In time farmers will be able to bargain effectively for adequate and stabilized prices for their products," he said.

Patton predicted that farm bargaining will be carried on by cooperatives able to control sufficient supplies to obtain farm returns which no longer would need to be supplemented, as now is the case for some commodities, by government payments. Patton and former Secretary of Agriculture Charles F. Brannan, now general counsel of the Farmers Union, have been strong advocates of payment programs.

A rival farm organization, the American Farm Bureau Federation, long has fought government farm programs. It has been promoting farm bargaining cooperatives.

Patton made it clear, however, that he has no intention of retiring as a farm leader, although he said that under no circumstances would he accept a new term when his present one expires in March. He has headed the Farmers Union for 25 years.

He said he expects to devote his time to international agricultural development, the promotion of the farm bargaining cooperative movement, the establishment of a broad American food-for-peace program, the creation of a world land bank offering easy credit to poor farmers, and the promotion of programs to end poverty wherever it might exist in this country.

"It behooves farmers, their leaders and their organizations," he said, "to search for means by which they themselves can obtain a high degree of farm commodity supply management and marketing through programs operated by cooperatives. Such cooperatives should include retail food chains and should be open to consumers as well as farmers for membership.

"Unless farmers promote such cooperatives," he added, "the alternative might well be eventual control of food production and distribution by big business organizations including chain stores."

Thomas Gilstrap New Collector Of Revenue

JEFFERSON CITY AP -- Thomas C. Gilstrap, 55, took over as state collector of revenue today.

His appointment was announced Tuesday by Thomas David, director of revenue. He succeeds Al S. Arenson, who is retiring.

For the past year Gilstrap has been executive secretary of the Missouri Boat Commission. Before that he was administrative assistant when Gov. Warren E. Hearnes was secretary of state.

A native of Bevier, he formerly was secretary to the late Sen. Thomas C. Hennings Jr. and to former Congressmen M. A. Romjue and Clare Magee.

State Farmers Pocket More

WASHINGTON -- Missouri farmers pocketed $50 million more in farm marketing receipts the first nine months of this year than they did during the same period in 1964, Agriculture Department figures show.

Sales of livestock and livestock products up to Oct. 1 came to $570,784,000, and sales of crops amounted to $189,946,000, for a total of $760,730,000.

As of Oct. 1, 1964, cash receipts from livestock and livestock products were $518,640,000 and $192,056,000 from crop sales for a total of $710,696,000.

U.S. Hardens Policy on Disposal of Surplus Food

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has hardened its policy on the disposal of surplus food, largely due to dwindling reserves of wheat stocks and other edibles and a mounting supply of foreign currency that cannot be used.

U.S. authorities, making this known today, said the new policy will affect India, Pakistan, the United Arab Republic and about seven other countries designated as currency-excess countries by the U.S. Treasury. The designation means the United States has accumulated far more local currency from those countries than it can possibly use in the immediate future.

The new policy, already in progress, is to receive virtually all payments later in dollars rather than in rupees and dinars. Among the other excess currency countries are Ceylon, Burma, Guinea, Israel, Poland, Tunisia and Yugoslavia.

Coming under this policy will be the proposed sale of $55 million worth of food to the United Arab Republic. The State Department announced Tuesday that President Johnson had approved such a sale and that talks would open in Cairo within two weeks on the terms.

According to the State Department, part of the cost will be payable in dollars, the rest in Egyptian currency. The policy governing currency - excess countries permits the President to waive the dollars-only restriction when he finds it to be in the national interest.

Airlifts From Cuba Begin

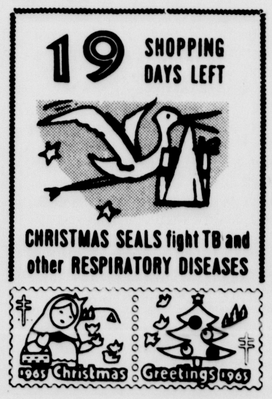

MIAMI, Fla. AP - Cuban refugees start streaming into the United States today in one of the most extensive airlifts of its kind in history.

The first airliner in the scheduled daily movement was expected to land in Miami shortly before noon today with 93 Cubans.

Scheduled for departure for Cuba at 7 a.m., the plane finally took off at 8:12 a.m. after navigational equipment was replaced.

Between 800 and 1,000 refugees are expected weekly starting next week. The air lift, the product of negotiations between the U. S. and Cuban governments, is to continue indefinitely. Most of the exiles are to be transferred to cities throughout the nation.

One flight daily is expected this week and two flights daily after that.

459 Toll in Viet Combat

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — The destruction of South Viet Nam's 7th Regiment in savage fighting Saturday raised the Vietnamese weekly combat dead to 459, the government's second-highest toll of the war, a U.S. military spokesman announced today.

Another 185 government soldiers were missing in action and 861 were wounded, the spokesman said.

The number of American dead dropped to 40 in the week ending last Saturday, the spokesman said. This compared with 240 Americans killed the previous week, the biggest U.S. casualty list since the United States began sending troops to Viet Nam nearly five years ago.

In addition, 117 American were wounded and five were missing. More than 1,300 Americans have been killed in the Viet Nam combat.

The U.S. toll last week was also far below the 70 and 86 Americans killed in the first two weeks of November.

No U.S. units engaged Communist forces of any size during the week, while the Viet Cong made at least two and possibly three regiment-sized attacks on Vietnamese units. Five other Communist attacks were of battalion size and four were of company size.

The spokesman said 1,539 Viet Cong were killed during the week, giving U.S. and government troops a favorable kill ratio of 3 to 1.

Britain Willing To Fight

LONDON - Britain will fight to protect the flow of power from the Kariba power plant in rebellious Rhodesia to the copper mines of neighboring Zambia, Prime Minister Wilson declared today.

While the white government of Rhodesia has said it has no intention of cutting off the power, Wilson told a packed House of Commons that Britain will take whatever action is necessary to protect the flow of electricity from the Kariba plant on the Zambian-Rhodesian border.

"If that did mean a limited military operation -- we should be prepared to take that operation," he said.

U.S. Keeps Nuclear Control

OTTAWA (AP) — Canadian officials said today the U. S. nuclear bombs on planes of other Atlantic Alliance nations are nothing more than tin cans until U. S. teams arm them on instructions from the U.S. President.

They said nuclear bombs are slung under a certain number of Canadian and West German F104 Starfighter jets in West Germany when the planes are on what is known as "quick action alert."

The bombs are useless until they are armed with various secret mechanical and electronic devices which can be operated only by the U. S. custody team and the U. S. nuclear officer, the officials said.

In addition, the planes are guarded by armed U.S. sentries in "pens" behind closed doors, they said. The pilots stay near the planes but not in them.

The planes do not take off unless war starts, whether the bombs are armed or unarmed, the officials said. The alert is to prevent the planes being destroyed on the ground.

The Canadian sources said the same arrangements apply to West Germany, the Netherlands, Belgium and other North Atlantic Treaty Organization countries that have bilateral nuclear agreements with the United States.

New uneasiness about U.S. nuclear warheads in Europe was touched off by a Washington dispatch in the New York Times Nov. 21 which said that the warheads have been mounted secretly on planes and missiles of West Germany and other NATO allies.

Marston Boy Top Orator

LILBOURN--James Crumley, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Huie Crumley of Marston was declared the winner of high school's annual American Legion oratorical contest. He won over eight other students.

Crumley, a senior, chose as his topic "Our Constitution, Worth Having, Worth Defending." His oration was a five-minute, original composition.

Crumley will represent his school in the New Madrid county contest. He will use the same speech, and in addition, he will be required to speak extemporanously on one phase of the constitution.

Judges for the high school contest were Mrs. Ralph Hubbard, Lowell Fish, and Jimmy Dambach.

Four Members of Family Injured

Four members of a family riding in a car were injured when the vehicle crashed into a truck, on highway 67, five miles north of Poplar Bluff at 8:15 a.m. Tuesday.

A GMC truck, driven by Raymond E. Towner, 60, Poplar Bluff, attempted to make a left turn into his driveway, when he was struck by a 1964 Chevrolet, driven by Loren Gray, 30, East St. Louis, Ill.

The state patrol reported that neither driver saw the other vehicle in time to avoid the accident.

Injured were Mrs. Gray, 27, left shoulder injury; Debra Gray, 9, cuts and bruises on head; Ricky Gray 7, chest injury; Tammy Gray, 4, bruises on head.

The injured were taken to a Poplar Bluff hospital.

The death of Henry Wallace and all of the glowing tributes published by the newspapers brings to mind the actions of the Democratic National Convention.

All Southeast Missourians remember well the impassioned speech of our friend and neighbor J. V. Conran winding up with "give us anybody but Henry Agard Wallace."

The next morning at the Harris Drug Store we were all gathered around the coffee table with cup in hand and all delivering the funeral oration of the Democratic Party with him on the ticket.

Then in walks Postmaster Pleas Malcolm. He listened awhile and made the following statement. "Boys! I like him right now. I am not like the rest of you. Like him just before voting time. I like him right now."

That's why "Cousin Pleas" is still our friendly affable, confident Postmaster in 1965.

NEW YORK STATE RECONSIDERS DIVORCE

AS EARLY as 1869 the New York Times was inveighing against the trade in procurement of divorce by means of fraud and perjury. Grounds for divorce in the state have been limited to adultery since the state's first general divorce law was enacted in 1787. Now the chairman of a joint legislative committee, State Sen. Jerome L. Wilson (D), promises that a "modern matrimonial statute" will be introduced at the 1966 session of the legislature.

The Joint Legislative Committee on Matrimonial and Family Laws was created in 1956 but up until June of this year was limited to procedural aspects of the state law. In a resolution adopted last summer the legislature gave the group power to study and recommend changes, citing "widespread fraud, collusion, and perjury in matrimonial actions and proceedings."

The committee has been holding hearings throughout the state. It must report back to the legislature by Dec. 15.

THE MERE FACT that hearings have not aroused a storm of controversy gives some reason to believe that a change in the New York law is achievable, if by no means certain. Prof. Nelson Blake, a historian at Syracuse University, told the committee on Oct. 27 that "the elements that have wanted to oppose change, it seems to me, are not fighting it as obviously and vigorously as they have sometimes in the past."

"I was hoping you'd tell us not to be afraid," Assemblyman P. E. Sutton, a Democrat who represents a central Harlem district, replied. "But you are just telling us to be brave."

THE NEW YORK divorce law is the harshest in the nation. The U.S. Constitution was adopted in the same year as the New York law; it has been amended more than a score of times in 178 years, but the New York law remains unchanged.

Until this June the legislature repeatedly had refused to make even a study of the substance of the law. When the operative resolution went through in June, the Times observed: "Whatever brought it about, we congratulate the legislature for a noteworthy and historic achievement."

The committee is now analyzing statements from nearly 100 experts who presented religious, sociological, and legal lines of argument at hearings in New York City, Albany, and Buffalo. A Roman Catholic jurist, Supreme Court Justice William D. Lawless of Erie County, advocated additional grounds for divorce which may well be accepted by Catholic diocesan officials. "The issue," Judge Lawless said, "is whether to broaden our grounds for civil divorce to include mental cruelty, physcial cruelty, and desertion. I believe that we should reject mental cruelty but accept physical cruelty and desertion."

Proponents of a liberalization of the state law are led by the Association of the Bar of the City of New York. The lawyers let it be known that legislators who tried to block the reform plan again would meet with opposition at election time.

Whatever action the legislature takes, the draft bill the committee is preparing is sure to provide against easy or "quickie" divorce. At a time when control in Albany is neatly divided between Republicans and Democrats the outlook for compromise is roseate if not actually bright.

SNOW, BEAUTIFUL SNOW

Deceptively innocent looking, like the legendary Lorelei, snow goes on luring men to their doom, season after season.

The occasional devastating avalanche is the most dramatic manifestation of snow's power to do harm. But even more insidious, the Missouri Heart Association warns, may be its fluffy white blankets and drifts, lying beautifully passive where they fell on your driveway and walks. Just asking to be shoveled away.

And the middle - aged sedentary American householder, bestirring himself from his cozy hearth to heft his trusty shovel and have a go at the stuff, may be asking for trouble.

Because each season a heavy snowfall is followed by flurries of heart attack deaths due to overexertion, the Minnesota Heart Association's Work Evaluation Unit conducted a three-minute test of the effects of snow shoveling on the heart. Eleven volunteers, ranging in age from 45 to 75, were cleared for the test after preliminary heart examinations. Five of the eleven had recovered from mild heart attacks.

The subjects attacked a thick bank of snow one cold morning -- the thermometer registered 14 degrees below zero -- with electrodes taped to their chests and connected to tiny radio transmitters in their belts. The strain on their hearts was recorded by an electrocardiograph machine in a nearby building monitored by a group of physicians. Two of the volunteers had to be stopped after one minute because the ECG showed their hearts were not getting enough oxygen.

For men in this age group the Missouri Heart Association advises:

If you have heart disease, don't shovel snow without your doctor's approval.

If you are over 40 and healthy, you may shovel, but take it easy. Snow-shoveling is strenuous exercise, and can kick back at the heart of a person who is unaccustomed to regular physical activity. Cold weather intensifies the strain on the heart.

It's better to shovel before eating or wait an hour after eating, as you should for most vigorous exercise. And don't smoke while working; tobacco causes constriction of the blood vessels, just as cold air does. The combination can be dangerous.

Never shovel to the point of exhaustion. Don't let the invigorating air or a warming shot of whisky fool you.

Dress warmly in loose, comfortable heavy clothing, muffling ears and throat, keeping hands and feet dry.

When you shovel, lift with your entire body (each shovelful of dry snow weighs four pounds plus the weight of the shovel; wet snow is much heavier). Let your back and leg muscles take some of the strain off your arms.

If you become breathless, rest until breathing is easy. If you feel a tightness in the chest, quit.

Last, and probably the best word of advice: hire the neighbor's boy to do the job for you.

IMAGINARY NEED

Groups seeking to establish a special federal agency to watch out for the interests of consumers must know very little about either the function of government or the competitive enterprise system, which serves consumers so well.

In the first place, government in the United States is organized to represent the interests of the people, all of whom are consumers. The Department of Agriculture, the Federal Trade Commission, the Food and Drug Administration and all the established administrative and regulatory agencies have the specific duty and the power to look after the public or consumer's interest.

The Justice Department stands ready to prosecute those accused of violating the law. Unless government itself has gone off the track and lost sight of its purpose there should be no need for another agency superimposed on all the rest to look after consumer affairs.

What is overlooked in new bureau promotion is the fact that the consumer's greatest protection lies in the very structure of our competitive economic system. Every item that a family buys from a home to hairpins is offered by a variety of competing suppliers. Go in to buy a small appliance -- for example, an electric mixer. There will be a dozen different makes and models of varying prices, colors, designs, and capabilities. There is last year's model for the bargain hunter. Any company producing an inferior mixer or selling it at a price too high in comparison with similar machines would not stay in business long.

Profit margins at the retail level are held to the minimum by keen competition, ranging down to the little more than one per cent in many cases.

If there is one thing consumers, who are also taxpayers, don't need, it is the cost of paying for another multi-thousand employee government bureau organized to take care of a problem that doesn't exist.

HE WHO PAYS THE PIPER

'Spare This Tree, Touch Not A Single Bough!'

Hal Boyle

NEW YORK AP -- Everything changes in this world--but nothing changes more than women.

Compared to the variability of women, chameleons are rank amateurs.

Clouds change endlessly. So do waves upon the sea, and colors on the landscape. But none change more than women's moods.

Many things make surface changes in women -- such things as cosmetics, hairdos, hats, eye makeup, girdles and different skirt lengths.

But none affects the inner girl. Inside she is still the same --that is, until she marries. Then she seems to explode in all directions.

"Is this the same sweet girl I courted?" her wondering husband asks. "I feel like I'm living with a total stranger."

He has made the discovery that all husbands make sooner or later: nothing seems to change a girl more than marriage.

Before marriage she liked to walk miles with you. After marriage her arches begin to break down if you can't get her a cab within half a block.

Once she said, "I want you to stay just as you are. I don't want you ever to be any different." But when the glory of the honeymoon fades, she says, "In the name of high heaven, aren't you ever going to grow up?"

Before marriage she murmured anxiously, "If you really don't like my cooking, please tell me." After marriage she barks, "If you don't like the way I burned your TV dinner, go out in the refrigerator and thaw out another one. Then you can burn it any way you like it."

Before marriage she exclaimed prettily, "Oh, how did you know it was my birthday?" After marriage she storms, "How could you forget it was my birthday? After all, it comes only once a year."

There was a time when she thought your relatives were charming. Now, if one of the kids even develops a runny nose, she remarks, "It must come from your side of the family. My family was always healthy."

She used to plan about how she'd help you carry out your life's dreams. Now all she wants you to carry out is the garbage.

An ancient proberb warns girls, "Don't marry a man to reform him. You'll never be able to change him."

An opposite warning might be given to young bachelors:

"Don't marry a girl if you expect her to stay the same. Marriage will change her more than anything. And nothing you can do will stop it."

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON -- The American Embassy in Moscow has now obtained the full text of China's big blast against Soviet Russia, and it's a lulu. It puts in the shade anything Harry Truman ever said about me.

Harry, of course, was succinct and to the point. The Chinese are verbose and repetitious. They take 30,000 words to say what Harry Truman said in three letters.

But it all adds up to the same thing, namely that the Russians are "double - faced," "cunning," "hyprocritical," "have shamelessly emasculated Lenin's theory on the dictatorship of the Proletariat," all because the new leaders of the Kremlin "have been busy running errands for the U. S. aggressors," and because "the new leaders have revealed in all its ugliness their support of the aggressor and their alliance with the United States."

"We absolutely refuse to serve as a pawn in their secret diplomacy with the U. S. imperialism or help them cover up their assistance to U. S. imperialism," exploded the Chinese editorial blast.

"They have been discarded the small figleaf Khrushchev used in order to feign neutrality. Small wonder that the U. S. imperialists are gleefully hailing a 'new era' of U.S. - Soviet Cooperation."

The Chinese even accused their Russian comrades of table-pounding at the United Nations. "They repeat Khrushchev's despicable stock tricks at the meetings of the international organizations, rely on behind - the-scenes manipulation, as well as open trouble-making and even resort to such ludicrous tactics as banging tables and stamping their feet."

So runs the line of Chinese invective against their supposed partners in the world of Marx and Lenin.

LBJ'S WEAK SPOT

The diatribe focuses attention on what is probably the weakest spot in the Johnson Foreign Policy. For at a time when Russian - Chinese relations are sour, American-Russian cooperation should be good. But the opposite is true.

Simultaneous with the Chinese barrage, the Soviet was sentencing to eighteen months' labor an American tourist who had strayed across the border, ousting the correspondent of the Washington Post, questioning renewal of the Soviet-American cultural agreement, and putting Red army marshalls in new positions of power.

There are three reasons for this hardening of Soviet policy toward the United States:

1. -- There has always been an anti-American clique inside the Kremlin, and U. S. operations in Viet Nam have strengthened it.

2. -- Some anti-Americanism is aimed at disproving the Chinese accusation that Moscow is the lackey of Washington.

3. -- Most basic however, is the Johnson administration's failure to realize the tremendous changes that have occurred in Russia and take advantage of them.

Twenty years ago Franklin Roosevelt argued that Russia was sure to change, that moderation would replace extremism, that tough Communism would give way to a socialism similar to that of the British Labor Party, and that the peace of the world depended on USA-USSR cooperation.

REVERSING ROOSEVELT

But as the war ended Roosevelt died. Harry Hopkins, who agreed with him, died shortly thereafter. Henry Wallace resigned from the Truman administration over this issue of Russian cooperation. And American foreign policy fell into the hands of the hard-nosed clique which believed war with Russia inevitable; and that we must rebuild the old Nazi cartels as a buffer against Russia.

Many of those who worked to rebuild Germany represented the U. S. bankers who had invested so heavily in Hitler's Germany -- James Forrestal of Dillon, Read who became Secretary of Defense; William Draper of Dillion, Read who was Undersecretary of the Army; John J. McCloy of the Chase Bank who became High Commissioner of Germany; and John Foster Dulles, Attorney for various pro-German New York banks, who became Secretary of State.

It was Dwight D. Eisenhower, who had worked with Red army leaders during the war who finally, and with some timidity, began to reverse the anti-Russian policy by inviting Khrushchev to Washington.

John F. Kennedy, after much hesitation and some false starts, continued the thaw with his American university speech and his Test-Ban Treaty.

And Johnson, during his first year in office, made various conciliatory moves toward better Russian - American understanding.

However, Johnson, a superb leader on the domestic front, came to office with no background in foreign affairs. Though he bettered FDR's leadership on domestic problems he lacked FDR's long-range foresight that the Soviet would turn from extremism to moderation. He did not understand the continuing debate between the pro - German faction in Washington and Wall Street and the faction which believed that peace can be insured only by cooperation between the world's two most powerful nations -- the USA and the USSR.

That's how Johnson accepted military advice in Viet Nam, thereby drifting into a deadened from whence he looks helplessly at the bitter debate between China and Russia without being able to take advantage of it. Historians will probably record this as his greatest mistake.

The attitude of the medical profession toward the medical problems of the aged and the indigent has been gravely misinterpreted. There is a widespread feeling, without the slightest factual base, that this profession is indifferent to those who are in need and without adequate funds, and that, for instance, the opposition to the Medicare plan is proof of it.

The actual case was made clear by Dr. Ernest B. Howard of the American Medical Association, in a talk he made in Portland, Oregon some little time ago. He stressed that the federal government should aid those who are truly in need -- but he stressed also that those who are able to should take care of themselves. He estimated that the indigent population, which is entitled to government aid, totals 2.3 million people. He spoke, too, of the government programs which the AMA and the medical fraternity at large have supported, one of the most important being the late President Kennedy's mental health program.

He said: "We want a society in which the freedom of the individual is maximized, while at the same time his welfare is provided for. Doctors are concerned about what effect the bills Congress passes will have upon the care which they render."

The grave fault in Medicare is that it would select a special group of people, those receiving payments under the social security system, and give them certain medical benefits whether or not they want or need them. Inevitably and necessarily, there would be bureaucratic control and domination -- he who pays the piper calls the tune. The entering wedge to socialized medicine, or government -- bossed medicine, would be laid solidly in place. And the ultimate loss, in both human and scientific values, would be incalculable.

H. L. Hunt Says

DEDICATION TO FREEDOM

Many Americans today believe that the best course in life is to "go along to get along." But history would have been written quite differently for the past two centuries, had the American colonists believed in and followed this course.

If ever compromise and abdication of responsibility were the easy road, they were in 1776. A powerful and stubborn King George III was in control of all commerce of the colonies.

The colonists knew that the adoption of a Declaration of Independence would place in jeopardy the homes and land and businesses of everyone who subscribed to it. The signers knew that they, most of all, were risking everything for their convictions.

John Adams of Massachusetts said, on signing the Declaration: "We may not live to the time when this Declaration shall be made good. We may die; die colonists; die slaves; die, it may be, ignominiously and on the scaffold." Then he added, "Be it so."

What terrible oppression prompted such dedication to freedom? As Senator Strom Thurmond has pointed out, King George did control markets, "but he did not, as the government now does, or seeks to do, regulate whom the merchant could and could not hire, the wages to be paid, or tell the worker to which organizations he must belong and pay dues as a condition of employment." The Senator added that the King also did not seek to control who lived in what neighborhood, or the schools of the colonists' children.

Our forebears endured the hardships of the American Revolution to save us from a lesser tyranny, in some respects, than we now seem willing to pass on to our descendants. HLH

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Equal Sex Job Law Hurts Women, Will Cost Nation Hundreds of Millions of $$$.

Washington, D. C.: -- Most everybody has been guffawing about this new equal sex law or writing of it as though it were a script for Bob Hope.

You know, men are bumping women on the seniority line; or looking for jobs as night club bunnies or as attendants in a corset shop; or the ladies want jobs supplying towels in a men's turkish bath. And will a lady now be able to pitch for the Mets, asked one of the country's most staid journals with new-found kittenish humor.

Everybody is chortling over the new Title VII Equal Employment Opportunity clause, which says the sexes must be treated equally in hiring -- almost everybody, that is.

However, it is all very unfunny to some astute government, industry and labor leaders who have taken a good look at the law which Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. now is trying to administer.

It will cost the nation's public and private enterprises hundreds of millions of dollars annually if ever it is really enforced.

It all springs from the fact that the men want what the women have -- special privileges, earlier retirement, easier work codes, special seats, everything in fact except four weeks off before childbirth as provided by the laws of Puerto Rico and six states.

What the male worker is saying, in growing numbers, is: if discrimination against any sex is now illegal and all are equal, then the women should not be more equal than men.

Thus Mr. Roosevelt's headquarters have received complaints from men who want one firm to permit them to wear rings since their fellow women employes are allowed to do so.

One chap has charged that he was discriminated against when a company refused to hire him as a secretary. He can take 175 words per minute. A female was hired who is much slower than he is. And he now wants the job.

Men have protested that the Pentagon won't hire them as overseas teachers; or that some banks want lady tellers.

Obviously thousands of companies will have to alter their hiring policies -- and scores of federal bureaus as well.

But as Adam said to Eve after he bit the apple, this is just the beginning. There is the rather big item of retirement. In many areas and in many industries women retire earlier than men under private and public pension systems. In private industry, women can retire at 62 and most men at 65. Now the men say, why discriminate against us. We too want to quit at the earlier age.

Look also at the Railroad Retirement Board, a government agency. It handles, amongst other matters, the retirement pension system for almost 500,000 men and women, who once worked on the lines.

Under its rules, women can retire after 30 years service at 60 years of age for benefits which the men can't get until they are 62 or 65. Now some of the railroad men are demanding sexual equality in retirement.

Why can't they quit at 60, they are asking. If the Railroad Retirement Board, as an example, is ordered by another federal bureau to obey the E.E.O.C. law, the whole system will have to be revamped at the cost of many millions of dollars.

And then there are laws which provide special conditions for women working between machines, near coke ovens, in foundries, on polishing equipment, etc., and in weight lifting and carrying.

It's now becoming apparent that male workers are beginning to demand equality under these laws, too. This weight lifting thing is tricky. Utah, apparently, is the most gentle of states. It forbids women to lift more than 15 pounds. Michigan is more lenient. Weight load for ladies in the auto state is 35 pounds.

Men, until the law came, were considered the tougher of the species. It was agreed they could lift and carry greater weights than the females. Now there is a move to carry as little weight as the distaff side does.

Obviously what started as a gag by some Congressman, dazzled by the thought of equality of the sexes, has not proven to be a bit of gallantry. Some of it is tragic.

There are big corporations now which have been forced to merge the seniority lists of men and women employes--and since the men usually are on the job longest, the female workers, many without any other support, are being bumped from their jobs. Some are in their late fifties and have no place to go but on the relief roles.

This not so funny, un-bunny law needs sharp and swift review--and, some believe, even quicker repeal.

Johnna Kay Huckstep Is Wed To Charles R. Hall

CHARLESTON -- Miss Johnna Kay Huckstep, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John William Huckstep, and Charles Ray Hall of Sikeston, son of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Hall of Dexter, were married Saturday at 4 p.m. in the William L. Meyer Chapel of the Methodist Church.

The altar was decorated with white mums, fern and candelabra. Mrs. Don Cain of Essex sang "Because," Whither Thou Goest," and the "Wedding Prayer." She was accompanied by Mrs. Charles Cook, organist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a floor-length gown of white satin. The gown had a Bateau neckline with a fitted bodice that was appliqued with lace and featured long sleeves that came to points over the hands and were fastened with tiny satin covered buttons. The gown featured a chapel train which fell from the shoulders and was then caught at the back waist and fell to the floor. The train was appliqued with the same lace as the bodice.

Her shoulder - length veil of hand rolled silk illusion was attached to a crown of crystal and pearls. She carried a bouquet of white stephanotis which was centered with a corsage of white roses.

Mrs. Robert Strickland of Cape Girardeau served as matron of honor and Miss Janice Ault and Miss Carla Hough of Charleston served as bridesmaids.

Miss Barbara Martin of St. Louis was candelighter.

The attendants wore identical street - length dresses of avocado velvet. They featured a fitted bodice, elbow-length sleeves and a bell-shaped skirt. They wore matching pill box hats with nose tip veils and carried bouquets of bronze mums with bronze streamers. The candlelighter wore a corsage of bronze mums.

Jim Hall of Bloomfield attended his brother as best man and Don Cain of Essex and Larry Duck of Jackson, Tenn., were groomsmen. Ronnie and Jack Huckstep, brothers of the bride, served as ushers. The men in the bridal party wore dark suits.

The bride's mother wore a two piece beige dress of ribbon knit with pearl trim, a green flowered hat and matching accessories.

The groom's mother wore a dress of light weight wool in gold with matching accessories.

Immediately after the ceremony, a reception was held in the church dining hall. Miss Jana Atteberry presided at the guest register.

The bride's table was covered with avocado green net over white satin and was decorated with bows of net, ribbon and bronze mums. The bride's table held a four tiered wedding cake topped with a handmade ornament of wedding bells and two rings. A crystal punch bowl and a pair of silver candelabra also appointed the table.

Refreshments of wedding cake, punch and mints were served by Mrs. Kent Roberts of Charleston and Mrs. Larry Duck of Jackson, Tenn.

The young couple left for a wedding trip to Memphis. For travel, Mrs. Hall wore a burgundy suit with black accessories and the corsage from her wedding bouquet.

After returning, the couple will be at home on North Street in Sikeston.

Mrs. Hall is a 1961 graduate of Charleston High School and attended Southeast Missouri State College in Cape Girardeau. She is now employed by the State Department of Education in the training program for retarded children.

Mr. Hall graduated from Dexter High School in 1961 and the Gradwohl Institute of Technology in St. Louis, and is now a laboratory technician at the Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston.

Miss Joan Gail Ice Says Vows With Charles David Hill Sunday

CHARLESTON -- In a candlelighted ceremony in the presence of their immediate families, Miss Joan Gail Ice, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ice of Cairo, Ill., and Charles David Hill, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Harding Hill of Sikeston, were married Sunday at 3 p.m. at the home of the groom's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hill, 204 Hunter.

The Rev. Rufus Noisworthy officiated using the double ring ceremony.

The setting for the ceremony was in front of the fire place. On the mantel was a seven branch candelabra decorated with holly and red berries and on one side of the fire place was a floor urn filled with holly and red berries. A 17 branched candelabra on a table decorated with red berries and holly completed the decorations.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white satin brocaded costume suit. It featured a slim skirt and shell top with a jacket that had a low neckline and was fastened with two pearl buttons. She wore a white pearl sequinned pill box hat and a white orchid corsage.

The attendants were the groom's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Paul William Hill of Charleston. Mrs. Hill wore a two piece midnight green jersey dress with long sleeves. In her hair she wore a midnight green velvet Dior bow and she completed her attire with gold shoes and a corsage of bronze daisies.

The bride's mother wore a light pink dress with matching accessories and the groom's mother wore a dark blue and green jersey dress with matching accessories.

Immediately after the ceremony, a reception was held for those present. The bride's table was covered with a white linen table cloth and was centered with a two tiered wedding cake with a pair of silver candleholders holding white tapers on either side of it.

Refreshments of cake, punch, nuts and mints were served by the bride's sisters, Miss Barbara Ice of Cairo, Ill., and Mrs. Bob Boone of Charleston.

Mr. and Mrs. Hill left for a short wedding trip after which they will be at home at 217 East Marshall. Mrs. Hill attended Cairo High School and Mr. Hill is a 1955 graduate of Charleston High School. He is employed as a relief mate with the Ingram Barge Company.

Mrs. James Bryant; Carol Werneck To Head March Of Dimes Drives

William Paylor, Scott county campaign director for the 1966 March of Dimes, has announced the appointment of Mrs. James F. Bryant as Mothers March of Dimes chairman for Sikeston. He also announced the appointment of Miss Carol Werneck as teen chairman.

Mrs. Bryant has lived in Sikeston for 20 years and is the mother of three children, Nancy, a sophomore at the University of Missouri School of Nursing in Columbia; Penny, a sophomore at Sikeston Senior High and Alan, a freshman at Junior High. She is a member of the Baptist church where she serves as superintendent of Primary III Department. She is chairman of Auxiliary Mother Boy Scout Troop 43 and is a member of the Eastern Star.

Mrs. Bryant said that the Mothers March for the March of Dimes will be in January.

Miss Werneck is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adron Werneck, 823 Greer Ave. She is a senior at Sikeston Senior High School where she has served on the Student Council for two years and is managing editor for the school newspaper and feature editor of the yearbook. She has been a twirler for the Sikeston Senior High School Marching Bulldogs for two years. She has been a member of the Red Peppers for three years and is serving as Cayenne this year. The Red Peppers, an organization of 255 high school girls, will run the teenage program for the March of Dimes in Sikeston. They are planning a bread sale in January.

Birth defects kill and cripple more American children than any other human disorder. The March of Dimes is leading the fight against birth defects because it believes the people are ready to join an all-out campaign against the terrific waste of human life.

The March of Dimes in the past six years has made important advances in the fight against birth defects. Through the 57 March of Dimes financed centers and clinics across the country, trained medical teams are providing the best medical care available for birth defect children and are working to develop new techniques that will enable many more of these children to live a useful life.

Those were important facts about the March of Dimes stressed at the annual five-state conference of the National Foundation March of Dimes held in St. Louis last week. Mrs. Bryant attended from Scott county.

Morley OES Has Meeting

MORLEY -- Morley Chapter No. 342, Order of the Eastern Star met Tuesday evening, Nov. 9, with the Worthy Matron, Mary Susan Wyman presiding. After the opening ceremony, the Flag of the United States was escorted to the East and the Pledge of Allegiance was given under the direction of the Worthy Patron James Maddox.

Mr. and Mrs. Mac Smotherman of Sapphire Chapter No. 536 were introduced informally and welcomed.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved. A letter from Mrs. Erlean Davenport of Chaffee, newly appointed Deputy Grand Matron of the 50th District, was read.

An invitation from Chaffee Chapter No. 48 to a reception honoring the new District Deputy was read. A petition for the Degrees was received and referred to the proper committee for investigation. Two petitions for affiliation were received and referred to the proper committees.

Mrs. Alta Mae Sallee was elected to receive the Degrees at the next regular stated meeting. Miss Elizabeth Wilkins and Mrs. Virginia Girlie being in waiting were given the Degrees of the Order. Following the initiation the newly elected members were presented white Bibles from the Chapter in an impressive ceremony. Miss Wilkins was presented with an official pin, a gift from her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Wilkins, who were unable to be present.

Worthy Matron made the presentation.

Mrs. Sue Tetley gave a report on the profits of the various money-making projects of the Order.

It was reported that Mrs. Annie Lou Williams was a patient in the St. Francis Hospital in Cape Girardeau.

Election of officers followed with the following slate of officers being elected:

Mrs. Lora Ellen Clinton, worthy matron; G. K. Patterson, worthy patron; Mrs. Jean Neal, associate matron; Paul Neal, associate patron; Mrs. Zelma Wagoner, conductress; Mrs. Wilma Crader, associate conductress; Mrs. Mary Swinger, secretary and Mrs. Audrey Hirschowitz, treasurer. The remainder of the officers will be appointed later by the incoming worthy matron. A public installation will be held Monday evening, Dec. 20.

The Worthy Matron thanked her protems for the evening. She also thanked her marshal, Mrs. Helen Harris, for the beautiful Star Point ceremony for the intitation service.

Following remarks by the visitors and the sideliners, the Chapter was closed and all were invited to the dining room for refreshments of pie and coffee served by the committee, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Frobase and Mrs. Wade Miller.

Miss Betty Mitchell Is Honored With Bridal Party

MOREHOUSE -- Miss Betty Mitchell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Mitchell, was honored with a bridal shower in the fellowship room of the Rauch-Spence Memorial Methodist Church Friday at 2 p.m.

All decorations were carried out in pink and white, colors chosen by the bride-elect. The honoree, seated beside a table covered with a white damask cloth, opened the many beautiful and useful gifts. The centerpiece was white mums and pink roses. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Marilyn Garrett, sister of the bride-elect; Mrs. Wanda Dillon and Miss Saundra Purhey. The refreshment table was covered with a pink cloth overlaid with pink net which was caught up in swags with large pink satin bows. A bride doll stood in the center under an arch entwined with white flowers and green leaves. A Christmas punch bowl contained pink punch and a silver tray held petit fours iced in white topped with pink bells. On either end of the table, nuts were served from sivler and pink cut glass compotes. Hostesses were Mrs. Eleanor Fox, Mrs. Mattie Gruen, Mrs. Frank Kesler, Mrs. Vera Allbright, Mrs. Juanita Dillion and Mrs. Leslie Frazier.

Those attending or sending gifts were Mrs. Lillian Mitchell, the honoree's mother; Miss Selma Gruen, Mrs. Dessie Shepherd, Becky Koch, Agnes Kesler, Cora Geske, Mrs. L. T. Black, Mrs. Francis Woodard, Mrs. Irene Bowen and Mrs. Nota Summers.

Missouri Entertains Ohio State In Cage Opener

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The Big Eight's basketball teams roll into action tonight, against opponents from outside the conference, and if they manage a split it will be a big night.

Arkansas invades Kansas, ranked No. 8 in the Associated Press pre-season poll. The Jayhawks will be a strong favorite because of Walt Wesley, the 6-11 senior who led the conference in scoring last year, and four others who started at least part of the time.

Missouri entertains Ohio State, and on paper the Tigers seem to have their thinnest team since Bob Vanatta took over as coach three seasons ago.

Kansas State's big new front line will get its first test at Omaha against Creighton, which is supposed to have one of the best teams in the country.

The Air Force Academy will be Iowa State's opening foe, at Ames. Colorado takes on Texas Tech at Boulder. Nebraska goes to Wisconsin. Oklahoma State is paired against St. Louis in the first game of a doubleheader at Oklahoma City, and it's Oklahoma against Oklahoma City in the nightcap.

Kansas probably will start Riney Lochman, Ron Franz, Al Lopes and Del Lewis along with Wesley.

Missouri's starters are expected to be Ron Coleman and Charley Rudd, veterans from last season; Tom Officer and Rich Milling, who are upperclassmen but haven't played much, and Rob Vanatta, the coach's son.

Kansas State's big new front line is made up of 7-1 Nick Pino, who was red shirted last year; 6-10 Roy Smith, last year's starting center, and Earl Seyfert, a 6-7 sophomore from Humboldt, Kan. Sammy Robinson and Denni Berkholtz, veterans, probably will be the back court men.

Butkus Lives Up To His Clippings

NEW YORK (AP) — Dick Butkus of the Chicago Bears is another brilliant rookie living up to his college press clippings in his first year of professional football.

The 6-foot-3, 240-pound middle linebacker intercepted a pass and recovered a fumble Sunday against the New York Giants and put on another impressive performance at Yankee Stadium.

As a result, The Associated Press has named Butkus the Defensive Player of The Week in the National Football League.

"Butkus gets better every week," said George Allen, the Bears' defensive coach. "He is a boy who gives you not 100 per cent but 110 per cent. He always seems to be in the right place at the right time. At the beginning he had a little problem with passes but no more. He has intercepted five."

Butkus, drafted in the first round last year along with Gale Sayers of Kansas, is a particular favorite of George Halas, the old Poppa Bear. He should be if that $250,000 reported bonus is true.

"I knew he was the man we wanted from the very first game," said Halas. "He made no serious mistakes early but I turned him over to Phil Handler, one of my assistants. I told him to look at films of Ray Nitschke and pick out the things he does that are good. He came back to me and said he learned he could play a couple of yards deeper."

Butkus picked off a pass by Earl Morrall, deflected by Richie Petitbon, and recovered a fumble when Joe Morrison failed to hold a Morrall pass in the Giant game. As usual, Butkus was all over the field, jitterbugging in and out of the line while Joe Fortunato called the defensive signals.

Eckert Won't Be Cowed

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Gen. William Eckert says he won't be intimidated in his new job as commissioner of baseball.

The retired Air Force officer bluntly told baseball officials Tuesday night that he won't allow himself "to become a puppet."

Eckert, making his first formal speech since taking the job two weeks ago, said he will take over as commissioner with no obligations to anyone.

"Nobody tied any strings on me, so there aren't any to pull," said the unemotional 55-year-old commissioner, who described himself as a "product of smalltown America, with no experience in baseball."

Eckert said as commissioner he will not "overlook or shrink from the hard decisions growing out of disputes, whoever may be involved."

Despite his blunt speech, Eckert said he does not plan to offer any immediate remedies for problems plaguing baseball.

"First I want to see some ball games," said Eckert, who went to only one game last summer.

Eckert said he does not believe his lack of baseball experience will hamper him as commissioner because he has had wide experience as an Air Force officer in dealing with people and problems.

"I make no claims to omnipotence," he said, "but I practice justice and equity."

Eckert said he was gratified by the "gracious reception" given him as commissioner despite his lack of baseball fame.

"The day after I was named commissioner," Eckert said, "Willie Mays — whom I admire greatly — asked 'who's he?' "

Eckert said he planned to change that image by mixing with baseball players, the minor leagues and the public.

"The commissioner foregoes none of the disciplinary responsibilities of office if he lends the authority of his office and the persuasiveness of his nature to advance baseball as our national pastime," Eckert said. "I intend to do just that."

Eckert, who has been seen only briefly in public since arriving for the baseball meetings which started Monday and move on to Miami tonight, said he wants to broaden interest in baseball "to include all levels and all ages."

Eckert's speech enlivened a rather dull day marked by much speculation about player trades but little action.

Two veterans cut loose earlier were signed. The California Angels took third baseman Frank Malzone, who had been dropped by the Red Sox, and Cleveland signed catcher Del Crandall, released by Pittsburgh. The New York Mets finally announced a trade that sent outfielder Joe Christopher to Boston for shortstop Eddie Bressoud.

College Basketball Openers Tonight

The college basketball season opens officially tonight and right off the bat there's a flock of major games, topped by Tennessee at Michigan.

Michigan, with All-America Cazzie Russell back, was ranked second to national champion UCLA in the pre-season Associated Press poll last week. The Big Ten champs go back against a Tennessee team that again is expected to be a leading contender in the Southeastern Conference.

UCLA will not play its first regular game until Friday night against Ohio State, although the Bruins were surprised by the UCLA frosh 75-60 in an exhibition last Saturday night. Lew Alcindor, the 7-foot-1 New Yorker hailed as a future star, led the frosh.

The Duke Blue Devils, No. 3 in the AP pre-season poll, will unveil a much-heralded sophomore in Mike Lewis, against Virginia Tech at Greensboro, N.C. The St. Joseph Hawks of Philadelphia, No. 4, play host to Hofstra while Vanderbilt, No. 5, is at home to Wittenburg.

In other games involving the pre-season top ten, Minnesota, No. [illegible] come to [illegible] Kansas, No. 8, entertains Arkansas; Bradley, No. 9, encounters Milwaukee - Wisconsin at Peoria while Kansas State, No. 10, is at Creighton. Providence, No. 6, does not open until Saturday against Villanova.

Warrensburg Favored In Cage Chase

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP) — Sports writers and broadcasters have tabbed Warrensburg State as likely to win its second straight basketball championship in the MIAA conference.

Springfield State was a close second in the pre-season poll conducted by Don Payton, director of information at Springfield State. Kirksville State, Cape Girardeau State, Rolla and Maryville State followed, in that order.

Warrensburg, Springfield and [illegible] got at least one first-place vote. The participants predicted Rolla will have the most improved team.

Warrensburg State opens its season tonight in the heady heights of the Missouri Valley Conference—at Cincinnati.

Springfield State goes into action by entertaining Rockhurst, which already has beaten Missouri Valley and Arkansas Tech in its first two games of the season.

Pittsburg State will be at Maryville State, Omaha at Kirksville State, Cape Girardeau State at McKendree and Rolla at Washington of St. Louis.

Other games tonight:

William Jewell at Drake, St. Cloud of Minnesota at Lincoln of Missouri, St. Benedicts at Quincy, Washburn at Doane of Nebraska, and Fort Hays State at Southwestern.

New York Wallops St. Louis, 138 to 119

Oscar Robertson has the Cincinnati Royals moving better than ever in the National Basketball Association.

The Royals downed the Los Angeles Lakers 126-120 Tuesday night for their fourth consecutive victory and pulled even with the Eastern Division - leading Boston Celtics as far as games are concerned. Cincinnati still trails on percentage points.

In the other NBA games, Baltimore crushed Philadelphia 129 -108 and New York walloped St. Louis 138-119 in a double-header at New York.

Robertson poured in 41 points and collected 14 assists. Just last Saturday night against New York he scored 44 points and notched 16 assists.

The Knicks made the New York coaching debut of Dick McGuire a success, putting the game beyond St. Louis' reach with a 77-point first half. Dick Barnett and Dick Van Arsdale powered a 13-point spree midway through the second quarter that shot New York far ahead of the Hawks.

Defense Has Its Flaws

NEW YORK (AP) — Philadelphia ranks second to San Francisco in National Football League statistics for total offense but the Eagles still are struggling along with a 4-7 won-lost record because they have scored only 269 points to 290 by the opposition.

"Our offense has been productive but not productive enough pointwise," said Joe Kuharich, Philadelphia coach.

The defensive statistics tell part of the Eagles' problems. They rank seventh in total defense and 10th in the vital field of pass defense.

The 49ers show the way in total offense with 4,191 yards and also in passing with 2,713 yards. They also lead the league in scoring with 360 points and in touchdowns with 45.

Cleveland has taken over from Minnesota as the top rushing team with a total of 1,950 yards. Jim Brown has accounted for 1,309.

Dogs Aid In Viet Nam War

SAIGON, South Viet Nam AP --Shortly before dusk 26 U.S. Infantrymen set cut on a jungle patrol less than 30 miles from Saigon. Their mission: To ambush the Viet Cong.

It was like hundreds of other patrols for the 1st Infantry Division, except for one key difference: A lean, vicious German Shepherd dog led the way.

Nothing happened for three hours. Then the big dog became tense and stopped short. He pointed his body toward a clump of dense brush. The ambush was set.

Within 10 minutes, three or four Viet Cong walked into the trap and the Americans opened fire. One Viet Cong was killed; another, wounded, crawled into the undergrowth. The dog picked up the scent and led the Americans to him.

The incident typifies the increasing role played by scout dogs in the Vietnamese war.

"Our scout dogs will alert on any strange scent outside of the patrol," said Sgt. 1.C. Jesse S. Mendez, 38, San Antonio, Tex., a military adviser on dogs. "They have been instrumental in discovery of mines, documents, food, weapons and ammunition."

Several hundred German Shepherds are in use.

Most are sentry dogs on guard at U.S. installations. These are trained at Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio, Tex., in an eight-week course in which they are matched with volunteer handlers.

Both the Army and Marine Corps are using dogs more and more in the field.

The scout dogs, or "four-footed radar" as the GIs call them, also come from the United States but they are trained in Viet Nam and matched with Vietnamese handlers.

These handlers are experienced field soldiers. Often on patrols they are the first to take casualties because they walk with the dogs ahead of the troops.

"By now," said one Vietnamese, "the dogs are accustomed to the odor of the American GI, so that when the VC are in the area, the dog's alert is even stronger.

"The Viet Cong have been using dogs, too, but they haven't had the training our teams have had, so they're not nearly so effective."

It takes three to five days for the dog to become used to Viet Nam's heat and humidity. Each dog must be between 1 and 2 years old, weigh 60 pounds and stand 23 inches high at the shoulder.

Security At Jail Tightened

HILLSBORO, Mo. AP --Sheriff Walter Buerger said Tuesday security at the Jefferson County jail is being tightened in the wake of an eight-man escape Nov. 21.

All eight have been recaptured. Officers caught the last three Saturday after a week-long manhunt through wooded areas of Jefferson County.

Buerger said the escape occurred because a part of a hacksaw blade was hidden in the jail and used by the men to cut through a steel bar.

The sheriff said he did not know how the saw got in the jail. Prisoners told him they found it in a crack in the shower room floor.

Rotary Wants ToSponsor Study In Overseas Lands

The Rotary club would like to sponsor a young person for study in a foreign country and to send technicians abroad for training.

The club is looking for a single person, man or woman, 20 or older, to send to a foreign country of their choice for a years'study.

The candidate must have the willingness and ability to learn the language of the country. Holder of a bachelors' degree is preferred but not necessary.

The amount of the award offered by Rotary International is round trip transportation, tuition and registration fees, books and study materials, room and board, living costs and educational travel expenses within the country of study.

The club can also sponsor technical training awards. These awards are for married or single men between 21 and 35, and will cover round trip travel to the country of study and living expenses.

Candidates may be agricultural or medical technicians, radio operators, bookkeepers, mechanics, or those working in any other technical field.

Candidates should apply to the club. Lucien Stoner, president of club, or Dave Markel, chairman of the Rotary foundation committee, can supply complete information.

Hawkes Met Death By Stabbing

MATTHEWS -- James Edgar Hawkes, 41, was stabbed fatally at the Missouri penitentiary in Jefferson City Saturday several hours after another inmate had been stabbed.

He was serving a 24-year sentence for assault with intent to kill.

Services were Monday in Sikeston with burial in the Matthews cemetery.

Another prisoner, Thomas D. Hancks, Kansas City, was injured in the earlier stabbing in an uprising at the prison, but he is not reported to be in serious condition.

There were no witnesses to the stabbing, but Warden Harold Swenson said a guard reported having seen Hawkes a short time before the stabbing, while walking around a corner between two buildings. Upon investigating, he found Hawkes fatally wounded.

Many women hope their perfumes will tell a man something they wouldn't dare say.

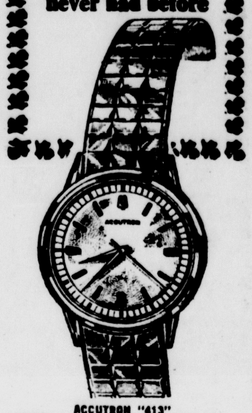

Cyclist Injures His Back

KENNETT -- Bob Burnett, 18-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Lenuel Burnett of Kennett, suffured a back injury in a motorbike accident at the St. Francis River levee west of Kennett at 2 p.m. Sunday.

According to the boy's father, Bob was at the levee with a group of motor-bike enthusiasts who were taking turns at "jumping" the levee. The Honda, which Bob was operating, hit the top of the levee and then, like a ski jump, went through the air before it hit the ground on the other side. The shock absorbers, according to Burnett, did not work as expected in Bob's vehicle and he was thrown into the air about 10 feet and came down on his back.

Taken to Dunklin County Memorial Hospital for emergency treatment, it was discovered that a disc near the base of his neck was dislocated. Doctors here advised that the young man be transferred to Campbell's Clinic at Memphis, Tenn., where he is now undergoing treatment. Attendants there reported that he would probably be hospitalized about three weeks.

This Christmas give the man who has everything something he's never had before

LT. JERRY SHIELDS, of Sullivan, Ky., a medical officer, removes bandages from the head of a young Vietnamese boy before treating the youngster for a head infection. The child's mother watches the action. Scene took place near Da Nang, where area villagers have a regular twice-weekly medical call from the Marines at the base.

from the woman whose neighbor's child was cruel to her little puppy brought back memories. I hope that child's mother will get busy before it's too late.

Parents need to instill in their children love and compassion for all living things. When our five sons were very young I taught them to treat pets lovingly. If I heard a squeal or a yip I picked up the furry creature and snuggled him. Then I'd say "Nice Kitty" or "Nice Puppy" and guide the child's hand to pet the animal gently.

For 17 wonderful years we had stray cats and dogs on our porch from all over town. Our boys walked to school like shepherds in the midst of a flock. At times I questioned the wisdom of my teaching (for example when I had to wade through the flock to get to my clothes line) but I know now I was right.

Today, each of our five sons is a wonderful husband and father. They are respected by their colleagues and deeply concerned with the lot of their fellow man. The early teaching paid off. -- DETROIT MOTHER

Dear Mother: What a heart-warming letter! Do you have a snapshot of your boys walking "like shepherds in the midst of a flock?" I hope so! (And if you do, I'd love to see it.)

Are you at war with your parents? Do they have too much to say in your life? Send for Ann Landers' booklet "Bugged By Parents? How To Get More Freedom." Send 50 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

PRAYER
For Today From The Upper Room

I can will what is right, but I cannot do it. (Romans 7:18, RSV)

PRAYER: Eternal God our Father, thanks be to Thee who didst so love a sinning and erring world that Thou didst give Thine only Son, that by faith in Him we may share the victory which overcomes the world. Enable us to put our trust in Thee. Grant us grace and strength to live as children redeemed through Jesus Christ. We pray in His name. Amen.

Missouri Press Report From Edward Long

U. S. exports will reach a record high this year, according to the latest report.

The United States is expected to sell overseas over $40,000,000,000 worth of farm and manufactured goods by Christmas this year. Our exports have doubled in the last ten years. The world's major trading countries have already increased their imports from the U.S. by more than two-thirds this year.

Missouri's share of total U.S. exports continues to rise. Trade expansion councils around the State have done an outstanding job of urging Missourians to look to foreign markets for growth and expansion.

While total U.S. exports to tiny Switzerland have doubled in the past ten years, Missouri's exports to Switzerland have more than quadrupled. Switzerland is now buying from Missouri an estimated $4,900,000 worth of leather, chemical and meat products.

Missouri's share of U.S. farm exports surged ahead. Our record soybean crop is accounting for a major portion of Missouri's exports. Missouri is exporting over $14,000,000 worth of soybeans to Japan alone, according to the latest predictions. Japan is the world's biggest importer of American soybeans.

Missouri farmers are expected to produce an all time record 84,780,000 bushels of soybeans this year -- 21,000,000 bushels more than last year. Meanwhile, U. S. exports of soybeans rose to 212,000,000 bushels or 25,000,000 bushels higher than last year.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture has announced that rates and regulations for the 1966 voluntary feed grain program are now available in Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation offices in Missouri.

USDA has also announced details of the new cropland Adjustment Program. Under this program, farmers may enter into 5 to 10 years contracts to convert land to protective conservation uses. Through the cropland adjustment program, farmers who wish to retire may now stay on the farm while putting their land to creative uses.

Was in Columbia, Missouri, recently for the dedication of the University of Missouri's new Environmental Health Center. The University is launching a new program of research in an effort to solve such urgent problems as air and water pollution. The University's program is one of the nation's most important efforts in this vital field.

Meanwhile, Congress this year passed the Water Quality Act, a Clean Air and Solid Waste Disposal Act, and authorized nearly one-half billion dollars to combat environmental health problems.

Patience is the best remedy for every trouble.

REMINDER

You said that time would heal my wounds,
And you were right.
You told me pain would fade away
As day into night.
I found that what you said was true
As true as you ever are;
I've known this healing miracle,
But what about the scar?

ANN LANDERS
Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: I was offended by your cutting reply to the woman who wanted to be the sole breadwinner in the family while her husband kept house. You said she was "kooked up" and called her "Sir."

Surely you know many people are unsuited for the roles which Society decrees they must play. Some men don't belong in the business world and some women don't belong in the home.

In Australia, for example, certain aborigine tribes practice complete reversal of the roles as we know them. The women do the hunting, make the tribal decisions and run the family. The men stay home, care for the children, do the cooking and primp (like our women) so they will be attractive to their wives. According to anthropologists they are reasonably content.

Personally, I believe the lady who wrote will be happier (and so will her husband) if they do what comes naturally and are not concerned with what others think. -- INTERESTED READER

Dear Interested: If these people lived in the Australian bush they would have no problem, but in Hartford if they changed roles they might well be considered peculiar.

I entered no judgment as to whether it was right or wrong. I did say they are bound to be considered oddballs -- and believe me, they would be.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a 20-year-old girl who lives with my married sister and her husband. I have a good job in a bank.

My sister is wonderful to me but I hate her husband. He calls my sister "stupid" and "ignorant." If he doesn't feel like going out he makes her cancel plans at the last minute. If HE wants to go out, she has to go, no matter how tired she is.

My sister is a beautiful girl. If she left this ox she could marry a man who would treat her like a queen. The vice president of the bank has asked me questions about her. When I told her, she said, "Forget it. Bill is a good father. That means a lot to me."

How can I save my sister from throwing away her life on this rat? - - STANDING BY

Dear Sis: If you were "Standing By" it would be lovely, but you are actively trying to break up your sister's marriage which is quite a different ball of wax.

Move. You'll all be better off.

Dear Ann Landers: The letter

Intermission Time On World Stage

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — This is intermission time on the world stage.

For most of this century a succession of colorful men dominated the mind and imagination of the world. Most are dead or retired now. The rest of this century will have to manufacture new men to take their place.

There were loudmouths among those giants of the past, and actors, orators, fanatics, and true world leaders, whether they were loved or hated.

Of them all only two still have top billing: Red China's Mao Tze-tung, and French President Charles de Gaulle. A few others from the past are still in the show but have quieted down from age or circumstance.

At 72 Mao has become a shadowy figure, hardly seen, more a legend than a man. He says little the world hears. He was never colorful. It is hard to know anymore what his real role is.

De Gaulle, always the actor, is still colorful even if he says nothing and points his nose in the air. At 75 he seems certain of a new seven-year term as president. But his dominance is limited mostly to France and Western Europe.

President Johnson, a newcomer to the world scene, has concentrated on his domestic problems and stayed pretty much off the international stage. So it would be straining to say he is a dominant world figure, capturing men's minds.

President John F. Kennedy was the opposite. He was a newcomer, too, but, while he was no smash-hit in getting Congress to do what he wanted, he plunged into the international act early.

The result: in the less than three years of his presidency he was a famous and generally admired figure around the world.

For example: Before he was six months in office he had visited De Gaulle, dined with the queen of England, had a summit meeting with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev in Vienna, and then had a crisis over the Berlin wall.

Other figures from the past, although still in power, say few lines anymore: Egypt's President Gamal Abdel Nasser, Yugoslavia's Marshal Tito, and Indonesia's President Sukarno, very rambunctious until his home-grown Communists recently tried to take the play away from him.

Chiang Kai-shek is still head man on Formosa but in his more than 35 years before the world audience he was never colorful, never said much.

Nothing shows the contrast between past and present more than the Khrushchev case. Bounced over a year ago, he is now in obscurity. Probably not one American in 1,000 could name his successors, much less spell their names.

Yet Khrushchev, one of history's greatest actor-loudmouths, was also one of the most fascinating figures of the century. In recent days Red China and the Soviet Union moved closer to a fatal split. They exchanged long invectives.

But the leaders said nothing in their own names. What they said sounded like a dialogue between pedantic philosophers.

Not one figure on the scene today, except perhaps for Mao and De Gaulle, is known to the world audience or entrances it like Churchill, Franklin D. Roosevelt, Theodore Roosevelt, Woodrow Wilson, Harry S. Truman, Lenin, Stalin, Trotsky, Hitler, Mussolini, Eisenhower, Nehru, Gandhi.

Month's Bitter Fighting In Viet Highlands Ends

IA DRANG VALLEY, South Viet Nam (AP) — A month of bitter fighting in Viet Nam's central highlands has ended.

American and South Vietnamese troops who mauled four Communist North Vietnamese regiments have left the bloody Ia Drang Valley and have gone to seek their enemy elsewhere.

Before they left, they reported 2,344 North Vietnamese dead. More are believed to have died in battles beneath the towering hills which mark Viet Nam's frontier with Cambodia, 200 miles north of Saigon.

For days men of the U.S. 1st Cavalry, Airmobile, Division and a brigade of South Vietnamese paratroopers have been searching the region, trying to provoke a fight. Prisoners say that what is left of more than one division of North Vietnamese has slipped away.

Senior American and South Vietnamese officers are convinced they have handed the Communists a serious setback.

During the campaign American "Flying Horsemen" had to beat back human wave assaults which left North Vietnamese dead heaped before their positions. Snipers in trees or lurking in the undergrowth were a constant menace. In some actions, U.S. casualties were heavy.

The campaign was triggered Oct. 19 when South Vietnamese irregular troops brushed against forward elements of North Viet Nam's 325th Division concealed outside the barbed wire entranglements of the small jungle fortress of Plei Me.

South Vietnamese troops, stiffened by American advisers, fought desperately around the camp. Vietnamese tanks and U.S. artillery and warplanes smashed the Communist onslaught on Plei Me and the North Vietnamese commander ordered a withdrawal.

American cavalrymen swung into pursuit before the North Vietnamese had time to regroup. American battalions dropped into clearings from helicopters, fanned out and swept through the jungle.

As soon as an area had been searched it was abandoned. Battalions were moved 40 times between Oct. 26 and Nov. 26 to keep the Communists off balance. Helicopters flew 23,800 hours of 49,000 sorties during this period to move men and supplies.

With the men came batteries of 105mm howitzers to pound jungle hideouts of the North Vietnamese with 31,873 shells during the month.

Cooks, clerks and radiomen sometimes were pressed into service to man the guns. Pilots flew helicopters in a shuttle service to bring up shells. Altogether, the copters flew 1,031 sorties to lift guns and supplies, moving batteries 68 times. Slightly more than 11,000 tons of supplies were lifted into battle by the big choppers.

U.S. Skyraider attack bombers, veterans of the Korean War, and supersonic jets were never more than minutes away from the troops, ready to swoop down to help any outfit in trouble.

Pinpointing the targets were Air Force pilots in spotter planes slowed down to 70 miles an hour.

Dive-bombing and strafing tore great holes in the enemy forces. When hard-pressed, Army officers told the planes to drop high explosives too close to their own troops for comfort. They were willing to accept light casualties among their own men to break up North Vietnamese assaults.

Tactical warplanes flew nearly 610 sorties during the week-long battle for Plei Me and another 696 sorties for the rest of the campaign. Each plane carried two tons of explosives.

Backing up the Air Force planes were the cavalry's own flying artillery — helicopters which launched 8,188 rockets.

Strategic Air Command B52 bombers from Guam dropped 1,835 tons of bombs on the Chu Phong area where the Communists were believed to have cached their stores of rice and ammunition.

Hills rumbled as Communist munitions dumps blew up.

The 1st Battalion of the 7th Cavalry Regiment slugged it out with North Vietnamese for more than two days in a small clearing on the forward slopes of Chu Phong.

Its thinned ranks cheered wildly after the battle when the silver eagles of a full colonel were pinned on its commander, Hal Moore of Bardstown, Ky. Moore's men had withstood repeated suicidal charges and withering fire from the ridge above them.

On at least one occasion Americans outdid their adversaries in jungle cunning. A North Vietnamese heavy weapons company carrying mortars and recoilless antitank rifles was cut to pieces in less than three minutes in a night ambush laid by men of the 1st Squadron of the 9th Cavalry along a trail close to Cambodia.

Capt. Charles Knowlen of East Holden, Maine, sprang the trap.

Each of the flying cavalry's line battalions went into the battle.

Brig. Gen. Richard T. Knowles said: "I am tremendously proud of them."

Knowles noted that the Communists maneuvered well and had good fire discipline.

"We can take them," Knowles said.

Fantasies, Spy Stories Find Favor

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The word is getting around in the television business that the executives who decide what programs we shall or shall not see are still concentrating on larger-than-life spy stories and fantasies for next season's network menus.

That may be true — almost all the shows that have been announced, leaked or rumored seem to be half-hour comedies.

Although this season is still young, it should be noted that those same people put more than 30 new shows into the network schedules in September, and have not achieved one real solid hit among them.

In this connection, it is interesting that year in, year out, CBS' Red Skelton maintains his large, loyal audience and his show is almost always up among the five or six top programs.

The form of the hour show is almost as predictable as the arrival of Christmas from the moment when Skelton, in tuxedo, appears for his opening monologue to the "silent spot" at the end.

The star, television's iron man with a record of a weekly show for 14 years, has his good weeks and his bad ones, depending on the material in his monologue and the ingenuity of his sketch writers.

The moments when he does his pantomime invariably are memorable. The dance numbers, in style, choreography and handsome sets and costumes, rank with those on the Andy Williams show, which means very good indeed.

Tuesday night was one of Skelton's off shows. The jokes in the monologue failed to catch the studio audience fancy. There was a long and inane sketch involving a restaurant and barber shop that was full of soap suds and flying spaghetti. Finally there was a pointless and slightly vulgar doctor-patient sketch that rambled around.

It was a very ragged show, but there were still a few fine moments, notably a short pantomime bit by Red, playing a meek little convict turning into an aggressive lion of a man when he discovers he can swing a sledge hammer.

Recommended tonight: "Ice Capades of 1966," CBS, 9-10 EST, with Arthur Godfrey, Liza Minnelli and Roger Miller.

Six Burn To Death In House Fire

QUAKERTOWN, Pa. (AP) — Numbered by the tragedy, a 52-year-old father sat in a state police car today and watched investigators probe the smoking ruins where six children burned to death.

The victims were the children or foster children of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Allen Sr. The children died Tuesday night when a fast-spreading fire trapped them in their one-story wooden home in a rural area near this southeastern Pennsylvania community. A seventh child was critically burned.

Allen sat in the back seat of the state police car staring straight ahead as investigators in the pre-dawn darkness tried to learn what caused the fire.

Chester Allen Jr., 19, said the victims were his brothers Eric 1, and David 11, and four foster children his parents cared for: Jack Jones, 2; Robin Jones, 8; Penny Jones, 6; and Ronnie Jones, 7.

The son said he left his father at the house Tuesday night and went with his wife, Elaine, and a sister, Elizabeth, 17, to pick up the mother at a nursing home where she worked. Chester Jr. said when they left, his father had been trying to light the furnace to ward off sub-freezing cold.

As they returned home about 45 minutes later, Elizabeth said, "We saw the flames going up one side of the house. By the time we got there the whole joint was gone."

Chester Jr. said he and his mother tried vainly to reach the trapped and screaming children, but were driven back by the intense heat. Finally the mother managed to drag out a son, Alonzo, 12, who was taken to a Quakertown hospital in critical condition. Chester Jr. and his mother also were treated for burns.

All the victims were Negroes.

Two Brothers Die In Fire

KANSAS CITY AP -- Two brothers, Dwight Cody Adams, 2, and Edward Leroy Adams, 3, died of smoke inhalation in a house fire Tuesday despite their mother's attempt to save them.

Mrs. Claude Adams crawled into her burning home through a window and carried out the boys under her arms. First aid administered by firemen and hospital attendants failed to revive them.

Mrs. Adams had gone next door to use a neighbor's telephone, and saw smoke coming from her home. Cause of the fire was not determined. Damage was estimated at $1,750.

Small seeds for indoor planting are easy to handle if you pick them up with a wet matchstick. Seeds cling to the end of the stick, can be planted exactly where you want them. Twirl the match against the soil to release the seed.

Cotton Producers Given Data On 1966 Federal Program

By MAX STURM

PORTAGEVILLE, - Southeast Missouri cotton farmers are currently coming to grips with the 1966 federal cotton program and to help them with information and suggestions the Missouri Cotton Producers Association is holding a series of meetings throughout the region.

A meeting will be held in Sikeston tonight at 7 p.m. in the American Legion building for Mississippi, Scott, and Stoddard county cotton farmers.

Hilton Bracey, executive vice-president of the association stated that the new cotton program "permits about as many choices or possibilities as to acreage and price support levels as there are cotton farmers.

"It would be virtually impossible for a farmer to choose the best plan for a particular farm under all circumstances and conditions because there are too many 'unknowns' involved to arrive at a clear-cut decision," he said. He is urging area farmers to learn all they can about the new programs and to finally base their decisions as to planting levels "on their desire or lack of desire to stay in the cotton business."

He declared it was his opinion that farmers and areas that grow cotton during the current transition period "will be the ones most likely to end up with a share of the cotton producing business after the 'wash-out' is over." He added that the procedure chosen by various farmers to use in the 1966 program "will have a significant bearing on the future of cotton in Southeast Missouri."

In the MCPA meetings, being attended by area business leaders as well as farmers, Bracey suggests that farmers ask themselves this question: "Do we want to grow cotton?" in considering how to work next year under the federal program.

"If the answer to the question is 'no,' and the farmer realizes that he would in effect be putting himself and his community out of the cotton business by not growing cotton, then in all probability he would be well advised to cut back as much as he can on his cotton production. If the farmer answers 'yes' to the question, then he should plant all of the cotton he is permitted under the new program, and do everything he can in the way of cultural practices and management to produce the maximum amount possible on his land," Bracey explained.

The MCPA official, who is personally conducting the series of regional meetings, discussed a detailed statement on "Why Grow Cotton?" containing seven major reasons that farmers should consider, he stated, in addition to the "arithmetic" of prices and payment levels on an individual farm basis:

"1. To stay in the cotton business. Producers and areas that grow cotton during the current transition period are the ones most likely to end up with a share of the cotton business after the 'wash-out' is over. Those that grow all of the cotton they are permitted to grow under the new program and keep their operations from falling apart will likely stay in the cotton business. Those that curtail their operations and live on "cut-back" payments will likely fall by the wayside.

"2. To protect land values. Land values of the Missouri delta are tied directly to cotton production. Curtailment of production and eventual loss of cotton allotments would in all probability result in lower prices for farm land. All landowners and the economic well-being of agricultural communities would be adversely affected by depressed land values. Landowners who are paying for land purchased at prices based on cotton production would be particularly hard pressed to meet their financial obligations.

"3. To utilize farm machinery. Mechanical cotton pickers and other farm machinery depreciate in value and cost the owner whether used or not. Idle farm machinery is a mighty poor investment for any farmer and especially to the farmer who is still paying for a machine that has become 'unemployed' as a result of curtailed cotton production.

"4. To lower per unit costs. Cotton production must be maintained at the highest possible level if production costs are to be further reduced. Per unit costs increase as volume goes down -- decrease as volume goes up.

"5. To maintain processing, storage and handling facilities. Efficient ginning, storage and handling are essential to the success of the cotton industry. Modern ginning machinery makes it possible for producers to hold-down production costs through use of mechanical cotton pickers. Local storage assures area of production identification which is becoming increasingly important in the merchandising of cotton. Contraction of ginning, storage, and handling facilities would almost certainly result in loss of efficiencies and higher charges to producers.

"6. To provide employment. Employment of labor is of major importance to the economy as a whole, and a continuing supply of labor is absolutely necessary to the production of cotton and all other farm crops. Labor forced to move from an area where production is severely curtailed in all likelihood will not return, and will not be available to meet any future need.

"7. To support the economics of cotton producing areas. The cotton industry does not and cannot stand alone. It is a part of the economy of the community. A healthy cotton industry is necessary for economic stability and growth in Southeast Missouri. The entire community would suffer from a drastic curtailment of cotton production."

The MCPA over the years has advocated producing as much cotton as possible per acre on as many acres as possible in keeping with balanced farming practices, as opposed to leaving land out of cotton production with the farmers receiving direct subsidies from the federal government for doing so.

While studying the new cotton program, Bootheel farmers also must take into consideration other inovations in cotton production and ginning that have been developed in recent years. These include the use of fertilizers and chemicals for disease and weed control, new types of cotton, and new machines. For example, in the field of mechanization a new type of picking machine was tried out in Missouri this year which has been used successfully in Texas and other southern states for several years.

While the conventional machine can be run through a field of cotton several times, picking the cotton as it opens, this new type, known as a "stripper" goes through one time. This means that most or all of the cotton in a field must be open and ready for picking, which is aided by the use of a defoliant chemical sprayed on by airplanes. This machine was so successful that several large acreage farmers in the area have ordered them for use in next year's harvest.

In the ginning field, with the plants being deluged with cotton at the peak of the harvest through the use of rapid picking machines by producers who could operate them 24 hours a day when conditions were good, something had to be done so that a gin could process the cotton faster. For years, it was a rule of thumb that one gin stand could turn out one bale of cotton per hour. Most Missouri gins had either three or four such stands, and a few had five. The ginning machinery industry, however, has developed an improved system incorporating two stands, operated by a push-button console, which can turn out 120 bales per day. Several of these have been used to replace the older slower machinery in Southeast Missouri.

Spradling Leaves For Tampa Session

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- State Sen. Albert M. Spradling Jr. departed Monday for Tampa, Fla., to attend sessions of the Board of Managers of the Council on State Governments as Missouri's representative.

Currently the vice president of the national organization, he will become chairman of the board of managers on Friday, final day of the four-day conference.

Spradling said numerous matters affecting state governments and their subdivisions are to be considered, but among the most important is a proposal by Dr. James B. Conant on higher education compacts among the states.

Three Felony Cases In Court

KENNETT -- Twenty-eight cases were included in the proceedings of Dunklin County Magistrate Court held Wednesday, with Judge Leon McAnally presiding and Charles H. Baker, prosecuting attorney, representing the State.

Three of the cases were felonies. Odda Lawrence Ham, 42, formerly of Holcomb and now of near Poplar Bluff, was bound over to Circuit Court for trial on a charge of statutory rape, following a preliminary hearing. The preliminary hearing of Paul Hickman, 18, of Kennett, on a charge of tampering with a motor vehicle, and William B. Gooch, on a charge of forgery, were continued to December 2.

Chester Ladyman, 40, of Campbell entered a plea of guilty on a charge of willful injury to property and was given a fine of $25 and a six-month jail sentence but was paroled upon condition of good behavior and payment of $18.70 costs.

Pat Nugent In Air Guard

MILWAUKEE, Wis. AP-- Pat Nugent, boy friend of Luci Baines Johnson, has been a member of the Wisconsin Air National Guard for the last three months, it was disclosed Tuesday by his superior officer, Lt. Col. Kilian T. Morkin.

Morkin said Nugent, a June graduate at Marquette University, attended two day-long, monthly drills of the 128th Air Refueling Group at Gen. Billy Mitchell Field here in September, October and November.

Nugent, 22, whose home is at Waukegan, Ill., spent the long Thanksgiving holiday with Luci at the LBJ Ranch at Johnson City, Tex., and reported Sunday for six weeks of active duty at Lackland Air Force Base near San Antonio, Tex.

Seasoned Workers Disappear

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Prosperity and rising employment are combining to put a bind on that once all but limitless market, the part-time or seasonal worker. Many stores are finding it harder this year to get competent extra help to handle the December rush of shoppers.

At the other end of the scale, prosperity and a tighter labor market are making it harder to fill highly skilled jobs, especially in those industries where discoveries, new techniques and products seem to be almost an everyday occurrence.

The Sunday papers are crammed with ads from employers looking for the right man or woman to fill the highly specialized jobs. Often, it's becoming a matter of luring personnel away from other companies or other sections of the nation.

At the less esoteric level, the supplying of the hordes of extra hands to meet the retail shopping spree, the problem is of a different order.

In the past, housewives have been a mainstay. They worked for a few weeks, used the extra income to handle troublesome bills or to furnish welcome pin money for their own holiday gift shopping.

Some merchants report that this year prosperity in the form of larger paychecks for the family breadwinner apparently has made many housewives who used to apply for the December jobs stay at home. They don't need the extra money as much as they need to rest their feet.

Also, higher pay scales in many lines have made the part-time wage scales look puny by comparison. The part-time worker is getting choosy.

And in the big cities, the downtown stores report that many of their housewife-type helpers of yesteryear have moved to the suburbs and aren't interested any more.

The problem, of course, isn't confined just to December. Retail stores have complained for some time that the higher pay in jobs that women also think have higher status, such as office work, has crimped the market for clerks.

When a performer "ad libs," he is saying something which was not in the script, was not rehearsed. The term actually comes from music. "Ad libitum" (in Latin "at pleasure") is a direction signifying that the passage in question is left to the discretion of the performer; also that part of a work may be omitted.

"Are We Heading For World War III?"

By J. Lester McGee, D.D.

A British Editor once asked an audience of ministers why so many sermons are dull. When no one answered, he supplied this reason: "They are dull because preachers are trying to answer questions that no one is asking."

My friends, this morning I am trying to answer an irksome question that is on the quivering lips of every American. ARE WE HEADING FOR WORLD WAR III? And I am not so sure such a question is out of place in contemporary pulpit, for it has vast spiritual and social ramifications.

If I am any student of history at all, I see something ominous on the world horizon. Of course, I recognize the possibility of being dead wrong, but I had rather be wrong, even to the point of stupidity, and awaken you, than to be right and do you no good. I am not a militarist. I am not a statesman. I am not a politician. I am a minister of Christ, and this is a sermon.

When we think of war, there comes to mind a set pattern--a declaration of war, the beginning of hostilities, an open slugfest with nuclear bombs and other nuclear arms as ours and communism's chief weapons. But I seriously doubt that taking place for a while at least. Communism does not want open military warfare with us yet, and it will not happen unless we are all inadvertently dragged into it.

Dr. Toynbee, the British historian, has said that he does not see the time when the Russians will feel strong enough to take on the United States in open, all-out military warfare. In fact, from all I have been able to learn, after a careful study of the Marxian philosophy, it is communism's strategy not to open military hostilities herself against America. Hers is a long range plan. Communism takes the long way home. So far as America is concerned, the Russians will bide their time. I am not so sure about Red China. But we can look for one sore spot after another erupting on the surface of the globe, little revolutions, keeping us and the U.N. in a constant stew running here and there putting out the fire and trying to restore peace and order. And all the while the USSR and Red China, behind this smoke screen, feverishly working to bring their economic order and nuclear stockpiles to a level comparable to ours.

Wishful thinkers keep hoping for a state of peace in the world, but there is no peace. The Cuban cataclysm, the Vietnam debacle, all southeast Asia in a ferment, Korea seething with apprehension, Red China pawing the shoreline looking longingly at Formosa, Africa foaming and steaming, Germany divided by an ugly wall, Latin America in a perpetual state of unrest, demonstrations in front of Embassies. Skirmishes, upheavals, riots, armed revolts on every continent and in every nook and corner of the earth--one festering sore after another coming to a head and all according to the communist time-table.

Whose tactical strategy is CO-EXISTENCE?

No one knows exactly what "co-existence" means. There is a feeling that the present Soviet government is somewhat less militarily belligerent than Red China, but no one who looks at the situation realistically suggests that there has ever been a significant change in the Russian objective. Their eventual aim is still WORLD DOMINATION.

You remember what Lenin said: "As long as capitalism and socialism exist, we cannot live in peace; in the end, one or the other will triumph. A funeral dirge will be sung over the Soviet Republic or over world capitalism."

Russia is staking everything on a total moral, spiritual and psychological collapse of democracy and free enterprise as a popular liveable way of life in America. The adherents of communism believe -- and that belief is a strong conviction, a flaming passion -- that our way of life is doomed to failure because of its weaknesses and encumbrances, which somehow they see, but we are not able to see; or if we do, we shrug our shoulders and disinterestedly pass by. Russia thinks she forsees the eventual decay of our democracy. To them democracy and free enterprise have to fail. They will fail. The collapse of our economy is something they are staking everything on.

What then is the over-all Marxian strategy? Forment trouble throughout the world without becoming directly involved. Sap the democratic strength. And while that moral, spiritual and psychological decay is working within, she will continue to wear us and the Western World down by ingeniously planned uprisings in every part of the world, and minutely scheduled aggressive moves on the part of her already bullied and hypnotized Satellites to whom she lends just enough false encouragement and military arms to feed their national ego. Little does she care for their ultimate sorrow and ruin. Her chief purpose is to demoralize the Western World, to weaken and wear us down, waiting until we eventually crack up. Then with one masterful stroke, having already infiltrated government, education, business and religion, start the bloody revolution.

Now that isn't something I read or conjured up. It is not a hypothetical proposition that makes good "open-eyed, mouth-gaping" pulpit palaver. Every student of Marxism knows that is the strategy. When we do go to war with communism on a world scale, we will already be wearied, weakened and deflated within. That is an advantage the Communists want, and they are staking everything on getting it.

General Eisenhower in one of his last speeches before leaving the White House said: "The problem in defense is how far you can go without destroying from within what you are trying to defend from without."

There it is -- the fiendish communist plot. In defending our way of life on a thousand little fronts we are speeding up its decay within. Then at the strategic moment communism steps in for the kill. And that is what I am afraid is happening, which leads me now to the really serious thought of my sermon.

Could there be more truth than we are willing to admit in the marxist appraisal of our democracy? Are there such glaring weaknesses in our way of life as to jeopardize its chances for survival? Are there encumbrances slowly wearing us down? Are we nearing a moral and spiritual breakdown?

I venture an answer which may be misunderstood, but here goes ----

Our capitalistic system may be headed for the rocks, unless we re-think, re-organize and revitalize our whole economy. The old method of fair and friendly competition is dying simply because it has been emptied of the true Christian spirit and is now hollow and dry. My friends, when your profit motives becomes your all-consuming motive to the exclusion of every humanitarian outlook, then dry-rot sets in, and your capitalistic system takes a tumble. When materialistic and secularistic thinking supplants the Christian principle and the Christian in-reach and out-reach of life, then the days of your economy are numbered. A materialistic, humanistic philosophy which puts possessions before service and holds things as more sacred than human welfare, you can't deny the dry-rot.

Dr. Charles Malik, Lebanese minister to the United Nations, and a distinguished layman of the Eastern Orthodox Church, made a speech some time back. The news services didn't pick it up. I suppose the reason was that it was too disconcerting to the American ego. But he said: "the trouble is that you in America, who have a great spiritual heritage and a great spiritual message to give to the rest of the world, are not giving it. You give the impression that in America only material things count . . . . . So on and on you try to outbid Russia at the level of gross materialism. You forget that human greed is insatiable. You can never satisfy it. Even if you do outbid the Russians on that level, they have won, because it is the materialism that has won and not the spiritual ideals that so-called Christian America professes."

Who can deny that our American democracy has fallen sick?

Dr. Laubach, picturing the vast multitude of one and a half billion men, women and children--more than half the world's population -- hungry, sick, troubled, angry and on the march in search of social justice, predicted that Asia and Africa will go communist in five years UNLESS WE STOP BEING ONE-LEGGED CHRISTIANS. He warned that if that happens, America will be gone in ten years, engulfed by the double threat of communism and nuclear warfare.

My friends, let me be specific in a field in which I have a right to speak. And I say it even at the risk of being called a calamity howler. We are not as Christian a nation as we rationalize ourselves into believing we are. And Russia knows that. Do you think Russia would dare tamper with our way of life if she thought we were as sold on it as were our early American fathers?

I think it is high time for somebody to tell the truth. Fifty million Americans are avowedly godless. And just how Christian are the 115 million Americans who statistically belong to somebody's church? How many of them actually practice the Golden Rule? How many of them stand four-square for righteousness and justice? How many of them attend church regularly? What percentage of them are in church today or this weekend?

Rome survived about a thousand years. Greek civilization survived about 500 years. We are a little less than 200 years old, and unless we change the trend we may not live another 200 years as a civilization and a first class nation. Our very existence as a sovereign nation is in jeopardy. A nation can carry its indebtedness. It can correct its errors in judgment. It can re-build its physical wreckage after natural disaster. But history makes plain that immorality and godlessness lead to destruction.

So you see, my friends, as a minister with some prophetic responsibility, it isn't exactly war with the communists that I fear. IT IS THE DISINTEGRATION AND DECAY OF OUR CHRISTIAN CIVILIZATION THAT I DREAD, WHICH WOULD BE EVEN WORSE THAN WAR.

UNLESS WE EXPERIENCE SOME KIND OF MORAL AND RELIGIOUS AWAKENING IN THIS COUNTRY, THE COMMUNISTS WILL ACCOMPLISH THEIR GODLESS AIMS WITHOUT WAR.

Are we heading for World War III?

We are heading for something, worse -- more disastrous --: A COLLAPSE OF OUR MORALE, A LOSS OF OUR SPIRITUAL HERITAGE, THE DISINTEGRATION OF OUR CHRISTIAN - DEMOCRATIC IDEALISM.

What can we do? Can we save ourselves and our beloved America? Can we experience such an awakening that the communists will be jolted out of their egotistical assumption that everything is going their way right down the line? Can we make ourselves strong within? Can we find that spiritual power that will give us the decided edge? Can we upset the Marxian time-table? Can we lead the world to a just and lasting peace?

YES, YES, YES!!!And that is why this discussion is necessary from the pulpit.

First of all, my friends, this is a PERSONAL MATTER. The place to begin is with ourselves. We must humble ourselves. We must repent of our sins. We must learn to discipline ourselves and re-organize our lives and our philosophies about the traditional spiritual values and concepts of life. We must simplify our living, slow down our pace, settle our racial differences and get back into our churches and out into the world with as much Christian Love as American Money. WE MUST GIVE GOD THE CHANCE HE NEEDS AND CANNOT HAVE UNLESS WE LET HIM HAVE IT!

Do you recall that phrase of Ignatius Loyola about the man who put on spurs but no bridle to ride a fiery horse? Too many of us have been doing that with ourselves in this country -- spurs but no bridle to ride a fiery horse -- and now we face a world dilemma.

Either we are going to discipline ourselves for our own sakes, for our nation's sake, and our world's sake, or else discipline will be imposed upon us from without. Men know right but do wrong. Men free to worship according to conscience use that freedom not to worship at all. Men free to build a commonwealth use their trained minds for exploiting others and set going forces that destroy democracy. Men who know the value of laws become lawless. Men who want a peaceful world are not at peace in their own homes, in their churches, and in their communities. We produce too many citizens with more wit than wisdom, more cleverness than character, using liberty for license.

You know the truth: "Liberty is not the right to do what you choose. It is the responsibility of choosing to do what is right."

And that is where religion comes in. You must get back into the church and become a vital part of its effort to save our society. That may not be all of the solution, but it is a definite and indispenable part of it.

Pericles built a civilization upon culture, and it failed. Caesar built a civilization upon power, and it failed. The Medo-Persians built a great nation, but they drank their way to doom, and that civilization crashed to the earth. Egypt flourished until she forgot God, and she went down. Greece, under Alexander, conquered the world, but he couldn't conquer himself and died in a drunken orgy. Rome was once the proud center of the world, but luxury and lust ate at the center of her life, and she perished . . . .

Our fathers built this nation upon God and religion.

Do you recall that picture of George Washington at Valley Forge? His little army was almost starving and freezing to death. Everything they held dear was at stake. They were fighting against surmountable odds. BUT OUT THERE IN THE SNOW WAS GEORGE WASHINGTON ON HIS KNEES. THAT WAS THE SPIRIT THAT BUILT AMERICA. THAT HAS BEEN THE SPIRIT THAT SUSTAINED AMERICA. THAT WILL BE THE SPIRIT THAT WILL SAVE AMERICA!

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

To the Editor:

Amongst the hollow cry of "Get out of Vietnam" peace-seekers and draft-card burners, emerges the most inspiring words of two of our country's illustrious patriots. Here they are in whole and in part, respectively:

"These are the times that try men's souls. The summer soldier and the sunshine patriot will, in this crisis, shrink from the service of their country; but he that stands it now deserves the love and thanks of men and women.

"Tyranny, like hell, is not easily conquered; yet we have this consolation with us, that the harder the conflict, the more glorious the triumph. What we obtain too cheap, we esteem too lightly; it is dearness only that gives everything its value. Heaven knows how to put a proper price upon its goods; and it would be strange indeed if so celestial an article as 'Freedom' should not be highly rated."--Thomas Paine.

"It is in vain, sir, to extenuate the matter. Gentlemen may cry peace, peace--but there is no peace. The war is actually begun! The next gale that sweeps from the North will bring to our ears the clash of resounding arms. Our brethren are already in the field! Why stand we here idle?. . .Is life so dear, or peace so sweet, as to be purchased at the price of chains or slavery? . . . I know not what course others may take; but as for me, give me liberty or give me death;" --Patrick Henry.

I sincerely hope these inspiring thoughts rekindle the spark in those who need rekindling.

Farrell Back At Stand

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Charles Farrell is back at his old stand, looking at 64 just as athletic and as handsome as in his heyday as a Hollywood leading man.

Farrell has resumed his duties as managing director of the Racquet Club, which he founded with Ralph Bellamy in 1934 and built into the favorite desert playground of the stars. Six years ago he sold his interest for a reported million dollars, remaining to oversee the operation.

But Farrell differed with the owners over policy and became estranged from the Racquet Club. The place was sold again, and the new owners saw the wisdom of inducing Charlie's return.

"Well, I ought to know the operation by now," grinned the onetime star, whose geniality can keep guests and help happy. He is always on hand to make a foursome for tennis or join VIP's for dinner.

One such recent visitor was Janet Gaynor, who dropped in with her new husband, producer Paul Gregory. Her reunion with Charlie created a wave of nostalgia, the pair having costarred in "Seventh Heaven" and a string of other romantic films of 30-odd years ago.

"I see Janet every year or so, and we always have a great time together," said Farrell. "She was always afraid she would look wizened when she got older, because she's so tiny. But she looks just wonderful."

Farrell, too. The desert life obviously agrees with him.

Minus his wartime Navy service and six costarring years in the television series "My Little Margie," he has wintered here half his lifetime. He became enough of a local figure to serve as mayor of Palm Springs.

Though he remains intensely interested in Palm Springs progress, he eschews politics now. He is dedicated to pursuing the fortunes of the Racquet Club and the good life.

Dry And Cold Weather In Nation

Dry and cold weather covered broad areas of the nation today with much of the Southeast again feeling the sting of freezing temperatures.

The mercury dropped to the 20s in most of the Southeast, with freezing marks reported in sections of northern Florida. The coldest spots were in northern New England with temperatures dropping to near zero.

One of the lowest readings in the southeast was 18 in Birmingham, Ala. It was warmer in some Midwest cities than in Atlanta, with a reading of 25. In Florida, Gainesville reported 30 and it was 25 in Tallahassee.

Southwesterly winds from the Gulf of Mexico brought some moderation of temperatures in the nation's midsection. The warming trend was expected to spread across the Midwest to the East later today. No freezing was reported in the Pacific Coast, the Southwest desert, Texas and southern Florida.

Q—Did Davy Crockett ever serve in Congress?

A—Yes, the famous Indian scout was elected from Tennessee to the House of Representatives.

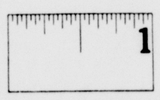

Graduate Heads Alumni

LILBOURN: Donnie Westmoreland, a 1961 graduate of Lilbourn High School, was elected president of the Lilbourn Alumni association at a business meeting held before the association's annual dance Saturday.

Other officers elected were Joe Albright, vice-president, and George Camp, secretary-treasurer.

More than 150 alumni and friends attended the dance. Representatives of classes from 1941 through 1964 were present.

FORT GORDON, GA. (AHTNC) --Pvt. Larrie D. Roderman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude E. Roderman, 1001 N. Sassafras, Dexter, Mo., completed an 11-week communications center specialist course at the Army Southeastern Signal School, Fort Gordon, Ga., Nov. 26.

Roderman was trained in the use of teletype sets, tape relay operations and in the operation of long distance communications equipment.

The 21-year-old soldier entered the Army in June 1965 and completed basic combat training at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo.

He is a 1962 graduate of Dexter High School.

Gary Paul Stanley of Kennett, recently enlisted in the U.S. Army for a period of three years, it was reported today by Staff Sergeant A. B. Ledbetter of the U.S. Army Recruiting Station in Sikeston, Mo. Private Stanley enlisted under the Army's "High School Graduate-Specialist" program and chose to enlist for training in the Army Security Agency. His parents Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Stanley reside at 315 Central St., Kennett, Mo. For more information about the "Graduate Specialist" program contact Sgt. Ledbetter at Sikeston or call GR 1-3419.

BLYTHEVILLE AFB, ARK., --With the aide of American aircraft, persons can now send Christmas gifts to U.S. servicemen in Viet Nam, according to the Department of Defense.

The special airlift is required due to the heavy avalanche of items which groups and organizations, large and small, have collected to demonstrate their support for the U.S. effort in Viet Nam.

Only packages from recognized civic and veteran organizations can be accepted. Individuals desiring to send gifts should contact their local organizations which are collecting gifts for the servicemen.

For instructions on shipping, organizations should contact the base transportation officer, Blytheville Air Force Base, on extension 388 or 387. Gifts will not be accepted if marked for specific individuals or groups of individuals.

CAMP PENDLETON, CALIF. (FHTNC) -- Marine Private Donald R. Shelton, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. James V. Shelton of 703 Greer St., Sikeston, Mo., has completed individual combat training with the Second Infantry Training Regiment at the Marine Corps Base, Camp Pendleton, Calif.

The four-week course included over 200 hours of instruction under simulated combat conditions, small unit tactics in both conventional and guerrilla warfare, day and night combat, reconnaissance and combat patrolling, and the effective use of infantry weapons.

He is undergoing four weeks of basic specialist training in his military occupational field. These occupational fields include artillery, infantry, motor transport and supply. Marines assigned duties with infantry units will be taught infantry sub-specialties, such as the machine gun, grenade launcher, rifle or mortar.

Marines assigned to highly technical specialties have been sent to a military technical school for their specialist training.

MEMPHIS, TENN. (FHTNC) --Airman Apprentice Ronald W. Cranick, USN, son of Mrs. Mabel Cranick of Route 3, Sikeston, Mo., has graduated from the Aviation Mechanical Fundamentals School at the Naval Air Technical Training Center, Memphis, Tenn.

During the four-week course he was introduced to mathematics, physics and principles of electricity. He studied atomic structure, static and dynamic electricity, magnetic theory, and the theory of construction aircraft batteries.

This course prepares Navy and Marine Corps personnel for entrance into more advanced courses at the center.

MFA Plant To Hold Meeting

LILBOURN - MFA Oil Company's annual meeting for the Lilbourn bulk plant will be held at the Lilbourn school cafeteria Dec. 8, beginning at 7 p.m.

Fred Schruenbert, plant manager, said that here will be a business meeting with delegates to be elected for the coming year.

The meeting is being planned for the family and everyone attending will receive a chance on a color television set and 25 other prizes to be awarded on a statewide basis. Attendance prizes will be awarded.

In addition to the election of delegates, a movie will be shown and refreshments will be served.

Delegates now serving the plant are Rance Perkins, J. B. Crouthers, Earlin Wrather, Frank Stanley, Dick Spitzer, Jr., Jimmy Strong, Russell Estes, Jim Dester, Sam Coffee, and Oran Ross.

Mrs. Roy Edwards Dies In Arizona

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- Mrs. Laura Edwards, 68, of Tucson, Ariz., formerly of Cape Girardeau, died Monday in a Tucson hospital.

She was the former Laura Cory, daughter of Wm. and Julia Juden Cory of Cape Girardeau. The Juden and Cory families were pioneers in the Cape Girardeau area and many relatives still live here.

Mrs. Edwards is survived by her husband, Roy W. Edwards, formerly of Sikeston, a stepson, Jack Edwards, Tucson, and a brother, Wm. H. Cory, Riverside, Ill.

Graveside services were in the East Mortuary in Tucson at 10 a.m. Wednesday. Memorial services will be held Sunday at 2 p.m. in Tucson.

Mrs. Edwards attended Cape Girardeau public schools and was a graduate of the old Normal School. She taught in county schools here until she moved to Cicero, Ill., in the late 1920's. She taught art there. After their marriage, Mr. and Mrs. Edwards moved to Tucson, where she taught art and had an art studio.

Mrs. Ivory Dies In Cape Girardeau

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- Mrs. Annie Mae Ivory, 47, died Sunday in St. Francis hospital where she had been a patient four days.

She was born in Mississippi and had been a resident of Cape Girardeau 15 years.

Survivors are her husband, Edwin Ivory; her mother, Mrs. Melinda Jones of Cape Girardeau; three brothers, Allen Huffman of Homestead, Fla., Charlie Huffman of Milwaukee, Wis., and Coleman Huffman of the army; three sisters, Mrs. Lee Ethel Buggs of Memphis, Mrs. Pearlie Adherson and Mrs. Oral Lee Finley, both of Cape Girardeau.

Services will be at 2 p.m. Sunday at the Church of God in Christ in Sikeston with Elder B. T. Parham officiating. Burial will be in the Sunset of Memory Cemetery with the Dotson Funeral Home of Sikeston in charge.

Rivers Mayor Of Bell City

BELL CITY -- The city board has appointed Dr. O. M. Rivers mayor to act until the April election. Mayor J. C. Henderson died Friday.

WAKE UP RARIN' TO GO
Without Nagging Backache

Now! You can often get the fast relief you need from nagging backache, headache and muscular aches and pains that may cause restless nights and miserable tired-out feelings. When these discomforts come on with over-exertion or stress and strain you want relief – want it fast! Doan's Pills by their speedy pain-relieving action work promptly to ease torment of nagging backache, headache and muscular aches and pains.

Also, when mild bladder irritation follows unwise eating or drinking—often setting up a restless, uncomfortable feeling—Doan's Pills work in two ways for comforting relief: 1) their soothing effect on bladder irritation; 2) Doan's mild diuretic action through the kidneys tending to increase output of the 15 miles of kidney tubes.

Enjoy a good night's sleep and the same happy relief millions have for over 60 years. For convenience ask for Doan's large size. Get Doan's Pills today!

One-half the Price!

Polaroid has just introduced an economy model of the famous Color Pack Camera. It's called the Model 104.

Same great film. Same fast loading. Same electric eye. Same big color prints in 60 seconds (black and whites in just 10). Yet Polaroid has figured out a way to bring it to you for only about half the price of the original model.

When you invent something that's this much fun, you've just got to find a way to put it in the hands of a lot of people.

Come on in. We love to show it off.

Today in U.S. History

Today is Wednesday, Dec. 1, the 335th day of 1965. There are 30 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1942, nationwide gasoline rationing went into effect in World War II.

On this date

In 1783, the first hydrogen balloon —carrying two men —rose from the ground in Paris.

In 1865, habeas corpus rights were restored in the northern states.

In 1917, the kings of Norway, Denmark and Sweden agreed to maintain neutrality toward all belligerent powers.

In 1936, President Franklin D. Roosevelt opened an inter-American conference in Buenos Aires.

In 1942, Adm. Jean Darlan became chief of state in North Africa.

Ten years ago — The United States, Britain and France rejected Soviet claims that the four-power status of Berlin was ended and that the East German government was sovereign in East Berlin.

Five years ago — Patrice Lumumba, the deposed premier of the Congo, was arrested by troops of Col. Joseph Mobutu, head of the Congolese army regime.

One year ago — The United Nations General Assembly narrowly averted a showdown between the United States and Russia over unpaid Soviet assessments.

"Let's go over and cheer up poor Ellen."

"What's she sad about?"

"She has a complex and thinks everyone is trying to avoid her."

"Why doesn't she talk to her psychiatrist?"

"She can't seem to get an appointment with him."

--Frank Roberge

WALKING ROOM ONLY

Fall is with us once again,
With pigskins in the air,
We go with expectation
To see how the team will fare.
We sit erectly in our seats,
Stay seated? Yes, we do,
And from behind the strolling fans
Play a game of peek-a-boo.

--Tommy Satterfield

JET AGE TREE HOUSE— A West German architect has come up with this model for a hotel along the lines of an ultramodern tree house. Designed to be transportable and quickly put together, it could be set up wherever there is a temporary shortage of accommodations for travelers. Individual units also could be converted into three-room apartments.
